Fog in Bay Area Fails To Develop

San Francisco — (U.P.) — Only small patches of fog marred an otherwise perfect sunrise in Northern California today as forecasted "pea soup" fog failed to develop.

The San Francisco weatherman, reversing earlier forecasts, predicted nothing but the best for the Bay Area today and tomorrow, with fair weather accompanied by gentle easterly winds. The afternoons will be mild.

The Oakland airport was closed briefly early today by a fog patch which lifted 30 minutes after it enveloped the airport.

Virtually all of Northern California's airports were fogbound yesterday, with some shut down for 12 hours or more.

MEDFORD (OREGON) MAIL TRIBUNE—NINE

Formation of Park Commission Asked

Salem — (U.P.) — The Interim Committee on Columbia River Parks and Recreational Facilities yesterday recommended to Gov. Paul Patterson the formation of a state park commission.

The committee said the commission, which would be separate from the State Highway Commission, should have authority to plan and supervise park and recreational, scenic or historic place developments without influence from other bodies of the state.

Former State Senator Dean Bryson heads the committee.

CONTRACT SIGNED — New York — (U.P.) — United Press and the AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union today signed a new two-year contract providing a general increase of $2.35 per week for teletype and teletypewriter operators. The new base pay is $110.

Unemployment Trick Won't Work in State

Portland — (U.P.) — Oregon residents were advised today that a trick used by two British housewives to collect unemployment insurance wouldn't work in this state.

James H. Bagan, manager of the Portland office of the state unemployment service, said Oregon insurance does not cover an employer with less than four employees, or a quarterly payroll of less than $500.

According to recent news stories, two English housewives hired each other as washerwomen, and then fired each other when they became eligible for unemployment insurance. They repeated the routine when their eligibility expired.
