Elk City Water District Seeking Aid on Main Coast

Central Point — The city council has been requested by representatives of the Elk City Water district to begin action on financing of a portion of the proposed trunk water main from Medford to Central Point.

The proposed line, which would guarantee the city a flow of 1,000 gallons a minute and complete a circular system back to Medford, would cost the city an estimated $39,746, or 36 per cent of the total cost.

City Attorney B. Kent Blackhurst will investigate the legality of paying for a share of the pipeline. The proposed main would parallel Highway 99 north of Medford. It would include a main of 20 inches near Medford, to 10 inches at the Central Point city limits.

Action Postponed

The council tabled any action on a bond issue to pay for a share of the construction until the next meeting. A special election would be required to approve bond money. A spokesman reported that the Elk district plans to finance the cost of the main, with later reimbursement by the city for its share.

Attorney James McGoodwin and Don Elliott represented the district.

Architect Robert Keeney presented final fire hall-library plans to the council. Final action will await sale of the $20,000 in bonds to finance construction. An ordinance was passed issuing the bonds and providing for the sale of them.

Discuss Signals

A discussion was held on obtaining railroad signals at the Pine st. crossing. A committee composed of various groups of citizens is being organized to obtain the signals. A recent logging truck accident there is one of the factors prompting the request.

Ira Brock, street and water department employee, reported to the council on a recent trip to Silverton where he inspected a used street sweeper and obtained photographs of it to show the council. The council authorized $650 to be used to bid on the sweeper.

President To Spend Week End in Georgia

Washington — (U.P.) — President Eisenhower planned to fly to Thomasville, Ga., today for a week end visit and perhaps a little quail hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower and her mother, Mrs. Elvira Doud, were invited to be guests at the 600-acre south Georgia plantation of Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey.

Humphrey and his wife were to make the trip in the presidential plane, the Columbine.

The entire party is scheduled to fly back to Washington late Sunday afternoon.
