Eugene —(U.P.)— Jack Patera, 223-pound University of Oregon football guard, signed a contract with the Baltimore Colts yesterday but the Colts' president failed to get George Shaw, pro football's No. 1 draft choice, to sign on the dotted line.

GEORGE SHAW WINNER OF B. HAYWARD TROPHY

Portland —(U.P.)— George Shaw, University of Oregon athletic great, last night was awarded the Bill Hayward trophy at the annual Oregon Sports Broadcasters and writers banquet. Shaw, who is due to graduate in June, has played both football and baseball at Oregon. He led the nation in total offense last season, and was named by the Baltimore Colts of the National football league as their bonus draft choice. Last year he was named to the NCAA all-American baseball team. 12 Finalists Shaw was chosen from a field of 12 finalists that included Dale Leabo, softball pitcher; Ray Hyde, semi-pro baseball pitcher; Wayne Sturdivant, who coached Milwaukie to the state prep hoop title; Duane Marshall, St. Helens high athlete. Carole Jo Kabler, Sutherlin golfing star; Bill Goetter, Hillsboro bowler; Jackie Puscas, amateur fighter; Clay Brown, who led the drive to make Portland a home-owned baseball club; Swede Halbrook, OSC basketball player; Bill Dellinger, Oregon miler, and Maureen Murphy, Multnomah Club swimmer.

B52 Placement Slowed by 'Bugs,' Russell Discloses

Washington—(U.P.)—The B-52 light bomber virtually had to be remodeled before it could be placed in operation. The readiness of the B-52 was brought up at an all-day secret briefing of the Senate Armed Services committee Wednesday by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The B-52, being built at a cost of about $8,000,000 per plane is designed to replace the B-36, presently the backbone of the Air Force's intercontinental striking power. The B-52, which will fly at near sonic speeds, is the first bomber specifically designed to carry the H-bomb. The B-52 has been in production for nearly a year at Boeing's plant in Seattle, Wash. The Air Force's program calls for production of about 350 B-52 bombers, to be assigned to 11 heavy bomber wings.

Washington—(U.P.)—The B-52 light bomber, United States' H-bomber of the future, has developed "bugs" that have slowed its placement in the Air Force, Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services committee has disclosed. The Georgia Democrat said, however, that military leaders feel the "bugs" are now being "ironed out" and that the future of the huge-eight-jet bomber is encouraging. Trouble Not Available Russell gave no indication of what troubles developed in the jet bomber, except to say they are typical of the problems that crop up with any new plane. He noted, for instance, that the B-57

Is That So?

By Eugene Burns RANGER-NATURALIST

Who am I? I am an amiable, smooth-skinned, meat-eating animal. Some of us lay our eggs in the water, others under logs in moist places, and a few of us give birth to our young alive. In the main, we are active mostly by night. Although most of our kind spend several years in the water, some are land dwellers and one lives mostly in trees. Occasionally, I am found in a damp cellar or under a rotten log. Most of us seldom exceed 10 inches but a Japanese cousin attains a length of five feet. I come in many dazzling colors; some of us are black, dotted with bright yellow spots; some are yellow, streaked on dark brown; some are bright orange, a few red-backed.

Except for a few land-living species, most of us pass through a fish-like aquatic existence, breathing through gills. A few land dwellers change to water-dwellers. One, living in Mexico and the U. S., remains in the water and in its immature gill-breathing stage, through parenthood. The delicate feather gills grow from the sides of the neck. Dines on Floor Animals

Susceptible to drying, I seldom venture from the sanctuary of the pond or my cool damp retreat in an old stump. I dine on the smaller floor animals such as ants, beetles, mites, spiders and worms.

Some mothers curl around their eggs to protect them and keep them damp with the moisture of their bodies until hatched. Because of my damp, cold skin, perhaps, legends of old claimed I could go through a fire without being harmed, quench it in fact! Nonsense. I am, A. frog, B. lizard, C. crocodile, D. salamander, E. toad.

I am a salamander. Some of my family are known as newts, efts, tritons, hell-benders, water-dogs, mud-puppies, congo snakes and axolotls.
