Ducks Even Series With Idaho 70-44

Eugene — (U.P.) — The Oregon ebfoots avenged Friday night's basketball upset at the hands of the Idaho Vandals and came back here Saturday night to defeat the hapless Vandals 70-44.

Coach Bill Borcher's Ducks revived their defensive system to hold the Vandals to four field goals in the first half. Oregon's best performance was under the boards with 71 rebounds, one point off the division record.

Webfoot forward Jim Lotscutoff set a new Northern division record by gathering in 29 rebounds. The old record was set by Oregon's Bob Peterson against Washington in 1952 and Oregon's Chet Noe against Idaho in 1953.

Idaho lagged behind Oregon 28-10 at halftime and never got closer than 15 points to the leading Ducks.

Oregon's two tall men — Jim Loscutoff and Max Anderson—led the Duck offense with 18 points apiece. Jim Sather of Idaho was high for the Vandals with 11 points.

Oregon retained its grip on second place in Northern division standings by beating the last place Vandals. The Duck's record now stands at 7-5.

Knickerbockers Rise in Circuit

By UNITED PRESS

A four-game winning streak carried the New York Knickerbockers into second place in the eastern division of the National Basketball Association today, but the firstplace Syracuse Nationals clung to a 2½ game lead.

Jim Baechtold's 15-foot jump shot with only one second remaining gave the Knicks a 105-103 victory over the Boston Celtics at Boston Sunday to drop the Celtics into third place.

Syracuse also squeaked to victory, 88-87, over Rochester, while in other Sunday games, the Fort Wayne Pistons maintained their 5½ game lead in the western division with a 90-78 victory over Milwaukee, and second-place Minneapolis downed Philadelphia, 103-93.

FULLMER FAVORED

New York — (U.P.) — Gene Fullmer, unbeaten middleweight of West Jordan, Utah, seeks his 28th straight victory tonight in a 10-round bout with Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., at the Eastern Parkway arena in Brooklyn. Brawny Fullmer is favored at 11-5 to win their widely televised fight because of his punch and ruggerness. But Pender, the slender ex-Marine, is a dangerous opponent because of his speed and his sharpshooter right.

DENVER VICTOR

Reno, Nev. — (U.P.) — The Denver university ski team, led by former national junior jumping champion John Cress, won the 16th annual University of Nevada Winter Carnival for the fourth straight year yesterday.

Cress, 20, of Granby, Colo., won yesterday's jumping event and the trophy for all-around excellence, to help his school best teams from eight other western colleges.

MR. BANG WINS

Portland— (U.P.) —Floyd's Mr. Bang, a black labrador owned and handled by Bud Sauers of Portland, won the senior division in the Oregon Hunting and Retriever club's field trials here yesterday. Mike, black lab owned and handle by William Christy of Naselle, Wash., won the junior event, and Stormy Weather, a golden retriever owned and handled by Mel Ryan of Rainier, won the intermediate class.

'RELEASED'—Moscow Radio announced that I. M. Zaryanov (above), along with five other members of the Supreme Court of the Soviet Union, has been "released" from duties. Little is known outside the Iron Curtain about the makeup of the USSR Supreme Court. In this wholesale shakeup, seven judges were appointed to succeed the six who were "released."

News About Servicemen

TO GRADUATE

Marvin W. Maxwell of Jacksonville will graduate this week from the Power Equipment Maintenance course, one of the many courses offered at the Southeastern Signal school at Camp Gordon, Ga. He is a son of M. W. Maxwell. The course trains enlisted personnel to install, operate, adjust and maintain gasoline and diesel engine units which are used for generating electrical power in the field. The announcement was made in a release from Camp Gordon.

AT INCHON

Marine Pfc. Curtis R. Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ford, Route 3, Medford, arrived at Inchon harbor in January on the USNS Pope to join the 1st Marine Division in Korea, after serving in Japan with the 3rd Marine division. The news of his arrival there was announced through the fleet home town news center.

Men Discover Work As Service Station Owners More Lucrative Than Teaching

ward M. Hough, and Walter E. Almond, who chucked their jobs as school teachers a year ago and began running a gas station, agreed today they had made a wise choice. They can support their families now.

"We couldn't go back to teaching. We're making twice as much money," grinned Hough, 29, who holds a master's degree from Rutgers University. "Amen," said Almond, 30, who also has a M.A.

Interviewed during a lull in business at the Prospect Service station here, they said other teachers who can't make ends meet might do well to consider taking the same step.

Hough was earning between $74 and $80 a week when he told McClelland Grammar school authorities last year they would have to find somebody else to teach their fifth grade.

Needed Part-Time Work

"It was just too much trying to support a wife and three growing boys on that salary," he said. "I had to do so much part-time work I was never home to enjoy my family."

When Hough leased the service station Almond decided to make a break too. The father of three children, he quit his job as instructor in handicrafts at a junior high school and joined Hough as station manager.

Both had been earning $3700 for teaching 10 months out of the year. They figure their income this year will hit about $6000 each. They work anywhere from five to 14 hours a day, "depending on how busy we are."

The New Jersey Teachers association has estimated the average public school teacher in the state gets $4500 a year. Last year, spurred by reports many teachers were leaving New Jersey for more lucrative salaries elsewhere, the legislature raised the minimum starting wage for teachers from $2500 to $3000.

Too Much To Ask

"It's too much to ask us to work for money like that no matter how much we love teaching," Hough said. "Walt had taught for seven years and I had taught for five before we decided to quit."

"It was a tough decision to make. You have to believe in yourself completely to make a change like we did. But it's a real challange.

"Anyone who is making the kind of money we were and has similar financial obligations certainly should review their lives and think about taking the same kind of step."

Hough appears as a speaker before civic organizations from time to time, arguing on behalf of higher salaries for teachers. Otherwise his teaching career is behind him.

"We both miss the intellectual contacts we had in the teaching profession, but we've met some pretty nice people in this business, too," Hough said. "It's pretty hard work at times, but we're darned happy to be doing it."
