

Kiwanians Put Final Polish on '55 Kapers

Prologue of the 1955 Medford Kiwanis Kapers begins in "Heaven." In it St. Gabriel sends St. Medford on a mission which provides the theme for "Tel-A-Version," a two-act musical and ski production featuring local talent and professional direction. The service club's seventh annual Kapers will run Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 23, 24, 25 and 26 at the senior high school auditorium.

St. Gabriel is played by Frank Benesh, California Oregon Power company district manager, and Bob Rector, furniture store dealer, is St. Medford. Gabriel orders Medford to return to this city, of which he is patron saint, to investigate the medium called television. Since video was given to earth people for educational purposes, Gabriel wishes to know how it is being used.

St. Medford then arrives on earth and he and the theater audience witness a series of shows which are versions of a number of popular TV programs. In the actual opening scene, two mad scientists, Ron Rice and Russ Jamison, sing about the trials of the invention of TV. They introduce a parade of characters of popular shows. Second scene is a highlight of comedy as the "Swan Lake" ballet is performed by an all male cast.

Third scene, "Angel and Junior," has the Space Patrol pro-

Ashland Firms Use Doubleduty Milling

The story of how the Paul Workman Lumber company in Ashland did double-duty milling recently, with the adjacent Lithia Lumber company also using the facilities of the Workman mill, is described in the February issue of The Lumberman, forest industry trade journal.

Lithia's mill was destroyed by fire last August, and an arrangement was made to lease gram as its basis. Western flavor is added in the fourth scene by the "Tex Wyoming Show." Then "Dragnet" the fifth scene is a take-off on the Jack Webb productions. Final scene of the first act is the "Hit or Miss Parade."

The entire second act is the "Fred Herring Show" with Mrs. Charles Champlin, Mrs. Darrell Huson and Ron Rice as soloists. Tickets are already on sale at the neighboring Workman mill, on a per shift basis. The close situation of the two mills and the convenient location of the log pond facilitated the joint operation.

Paul Workman is president of the Paul Workman Lumber company and Robert Jeeters is mill superintendent for the firm. Paul Folks is president of Lithia Lumber company, and William H. Kietz is Lithia's foreman.

many downtown stores where there are Kiwanis club members. Reserve seats for the Thursday, Friday and Saturday night performances may be obtained at Barker's Men's store, Main st. and Central ave., starting Monday, Feb. 21.

Persons who have purchased the regular admission tickets may have reservations arranged at Barker's by paying an additional amount. No reservations will be taken by telephone. Kiwanian Dames will be at the store throughout the entire day on Monday and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. others days of the week.

No seats will be reserved for the Wednesday show. Students will be admitted at a reduced rate that night and adults for the regular price. Wednesday will be the only night that there will be a special student rate.

Of Vermont's 14 counties there are 10 in which more than half the land is forested.

Runaway Heiress Found in Illinois

Evanston, Ill. (U.P.)—Green-eyed Mary Beth Staley, a 16-year-old heiress who disappeared from a fashionable eastern campus Feb. 6, refused today to tell why she had run away or what she had been doing.

Miss Staley was found yesterday with only a penny in her purse as she was about to visit her aunt here. She left a few hours later to see her mother in Phoenix.

Her father is A. R. Staley, vice-president of the A. E. Staley Milling Company of Decatur, Ill. He is divorced from his wife.

The blonde school girl had hardly anything to tell police on why she quite the campus of the Anderson School near Poughkeepsie, N.Y., or what she had been doing in nearby Chicago.

Her only explanations were "I was restless . . . I was tired and wanted a change."
