COP AND ROBBERS—Boston—(U.P.)—A cop stationed at a hospital usually doesn't get the opportunity to solve a robbery. Patrolman John McCarthy did so without leaving his hospital beat. He noticed two youths dividing a large number of quarters. One was waiting for treatment of a cut hand. McCarthy investigated and got the pair to confess that they had just broken into a tavern and were dividing the loot.

BOUND for National Jewish Hospital, Denver, these Alaska Indian tots, victims of tuberculosis, are aboard bus after leaving Air Force plane which flew them from north. All are wearing masks because ailment is contagious. (International)

Marie Otterdale Funeral Thursday At Perl Chapel

Funeral services for Mrs. Marie Otterdale 92, who died at her home, 845 Dakota ave., Monday, will be held at Perl funeral home Thursday at 1:30 p.m. with the Rev. Thomas McCamant, pastor of the Congregational church, officiating. Interment will be in Siskiyou Memorial park.

Mrs. Otterdale had been a resident of Medford for the past 45 years. She was born in Wisconsin on March 8, 1862, and came here with her daughter, Myrta, on Nov. 1, 1909, from Annandale, Minn. Her husband had died in 1908.

For several years Mrs. Otterdale practiced nursing and was interested in civic affairs. Survivors, besides her daughter Myrta, include several nieces and nephews, all living in the east.

Demos Confident of School Plan Defeat

Washington—(U.P.)—Senate Democrats were confident today they can sidetrack President Eisenhower's program and get acquainted on their own plan to help the states build more schools.

Chairman Lister Hill (D-Ala.) predicted flatly that the Senate Labor Committee will approve his own bill which would provide up to 500 million dollars annually in direct federal grants to be matched by the states. The committee completed hearings on the President's plan yesterday.

A civil rights fight was in the making over a proposal to write in a ban on federal aid to states which permit segregation. But some Democrats were confident that such a plan cannot succeed.

HARDTACK
Vardaman, Miss.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Lucille McGraw, a widow, keeps a biscuit 23 years old, her late husband's souvenir. Mrs. McGraw didn't bake the biscuit. The McGraws had hired a housekeeper 23 years ago, and the first biscuits she baked turned out too hard to eat. McGraw decided to keep one.

TO GRADUATE
Eddy H. Baker, 128 Keeneway dr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Baker, will graduate this week from the radio operators course at Camp Gordon, Ga., where he is stationed with the Army, according to an Army release.

Vienna Choir Boys 'Perform With Honor' In Medford Concert

By RICHARD D. WERNER
Last night's concert by the Vienna Choir boys demonstrated decisively that there need be no equivocation with mediocrity when children come to grips with good and even great music.

So often one hears of children's musical performances "It was good for little ones"—or "junior high students" or even "high school students" or what have you. This is a fallacy which we hope will soon be laid to rest with so many others.

Performed With Honor
With a tradition of nearly 500 years behind them, a tradition based on perfection, the boys performed with honor. The Europeans definitely have something Americans lack when it comes to the arts. The precision, discipline, attack and release, perfect entrances, ability to follow a director's beat of time instead of syllables of words and instant response to nuance were of delight. And all this requires much attention to detail and hours of practice.

Of course, these boys do not have to go to school while in the choir, but after their voices change at about the age of 13 or so they are given a formal education and preparation, whenever possible, for their chosen place in life. At a recent reunion of former choir boys, 37 of those attending held doctor's degrees.

The serious study of music develops an exactitude of mind and self discipline that prepares one for a life of honest conscientious endeavor that recognizes authority and its need and place in the scheme of life. It also develops personality and throes that great inhibitor "conformity."

Songs Beautifully Done
As was expected of a choir organized to "participate in the performance of religious music in the court chapel," the first group of songs was of that nature. All beautifully done with that white, all-over-tone quality typical of the untrained immature voice.

Wisely these were followed by a short, light opera in one act titled "Schubert's Practical Jokes" with an amusing plot of impersonations arranged by Franz Krieg in which music by Schubert was used. The boys demonstrated some rather good histrionic ability and it was good entertainment.

The concert closed with a group of songs allowing for some individual solos, all very nice. There were several encores, an especially fetching one being the musical recitation, in German, of the alphabet directed by the smallest member of the choir.

Director Gerhard Track is to be applauded for his expert handling of the boys and considerable use of tempi. All in all, a really "pleasurable" evening.

Rescuers Return In Search For Bodies
Albuquerque, N. M.—(U.P.)—A ground rescue party, bolstered by its first food in nearly 24 hours and armed with needed equipment, returns to bitterly cold Needles peak today to bring down the bodies of 16 persons killed in the crash of a Trans World Airliner.

The rescuers were ordered down the 500 foot crag 15 miles east of here shortly before dusk yesterday when it became apparent they would be unable to return with the bodies immediately.

They returned cold, exhausted and with descriptions of violent death.

They said they believed they had accounted for all 16 of those aboard the wrecked plane.

OCE Registrar To Act as President

Monmouth—(U.P.)—Dr. Roy E. Lieuallen, registrar of Oregon College of Education, has been named to head the college until a new president can be selected. Dr. Lieuallen is president of OCE, died Saturday. Announcement of Lieuallen's appointment as administrator in charge of the institution was made by Dr. Charles Byrne, chancellor of the State Board of Higher Education. Dr. Byrne also asked the school's faculty to pick a five-man advisory committee to help select a successor to Dr. Maaske.

DOCTOR APPRECIATED
Warren, N.H.—(U.P.)—The citizens of this and nearby small communities certainly appreciate having a doctor around. When D. and Mrs. James Kidney came here to settle recently, 200 persons attended a reception. Among the gifts presented to the Kidneys were groceries and frozen foods and a Christmas wreath bearing 146 new one-dollar bills.
