Kiwanian Dames Earn Money For Girl Scout Camp Needs

Low Echo, Girl Scout established camp at Lake O' Woods, will have new roofs for some of the buildings and a new boat for water front activities, thanks to the annual fund-raising project of Medford Kiwanian Dames.

At the annual Girl Scout luncheon of the group, held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Dwight Houghton, 512 Dakota avenue, a check for $535 was presented to the Girl Scout camping chairman, Mrs. Elliott Duffy. Also guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Michele Rossi, president of the Rogue Valley Area council, and Miss Mary Aldrich, new Girl Scout area executive.

The check was presented to Mrs. Duffy by Mrs. Emerson Anderson and Mrs. Everett Faber, co-chairmen for the "doll project" through which the money was raised.

Mrs. Elliott spoke on plans for the 1955 camp, and announced that Miss Irene "Kit" Knox, Washington, D. C., teacher, has been engaged as camp director for the coming summer. Miss Knox, who has had 17 years experience in various phases of scouting, was on the staff of Low Echo two previous summers. At one time she headed a group of Girl Scouts for a trip abroad.

Also announced was the appointment of LeRoy Boyd as camp building chairman for the coming season. Mrs. Duffy stated that since the number of girls attending Low Echo increases yearly, a new unit may be constructed this year.

Last summer the camp averaged 110 girls per week for five consecutive weeks.

Mrs. Elliott spoke concerning the value of outdoor camping experiences for growing girls and read "Democracy in Action" by Reynold E. Carlson, associate professor of recreation at Indiana University. Mr. Carlson wrote "To love the land in which we live; to understand and appreciate the institutions that make it strong; to make one's place in life and to learn the fine art of living, learning, and working together in groups—this to me is the meaning of democracy. What finer place than in a Girl Scout camp can this be learned?"

Members of Washington Troop 16 opened the meeting by presenting a skit and singing Girl Scout songs.

Mrs. W. A. Samuelson, Kiwanian Dames president, conducted the meeting. During the business session plans were made for a May day luncheon, and bridge party to be given May 2 at Rogue Valley Country club. Mrs. Lawrence Buonocore
