

Master Point Winners Named

Medford Duplicate Bridge club held master point play Tuesday, and winners have been announced.

Mrs. H. J. Boyd and her partner, John Solheim, scored 103 points to top north-south players. Second for this playing position went to Mrs. W. W. Stevenson and B. L. Sanderson, who scored 98 points, and third was won by Mrs. William Kennedy and Mrs. Margaret Alcorn, with 93 points. In fourth place were Mrs. B. L. Sanderson and Mrs. Al Gilhouse, 87 points.

Topping east-west players were Mrs. T. J. Fuson and Roy Pruitt, scoring 88½ points. William Isaacs and Mr. Boyd were second with 85, and in third place were Mrs. L. E. McClintock and Mrs. Clay Cornett who earned 84½ points. Mrs. R. J. Conroy and George Choate took fourth with 76½ points.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Frank Baker.

Young People To Meet Sunday

Phoenix—Westminster group for young people of Phoenix Presbyterian church will meet Sunday, March 6, at the home of Miss Sandra Owens. At this meeting the group will commence a series of panel discussions with several taking part.

Last meeting was held at the home of Miss Elizabeth Prahmann.

The men's organization met Monday night for a covered dish supper. Plans are being made for men to meet at the church Saturday afternoon to clean the grounds and trim shrubbery. All men who can are urged to be present.

Each Wednesday night classes are being conducted in bow and arrow making and in fly tying for the boys of the community.

First-Night Audience Likes Performance of The Mikado

Last night's opening performance of "The Mikado" at Churchill hall, Southern Oregon college, proved again that you can't go wrong with Gilbert and Sullivan. The audience appreciated every moment of the lilted songs, the sharp humor and gay costumes of this long-time favorite comic opera.

And the cast earned the enthusiastic applause of the audience. Tresa Matlack, Medford soprano, is an utterly delightful Yum Yum. Mrs. Matlack's voice and appearance are both ideally suited to roles of this type, and she made a great hit with the opening night audience. Playing opposite the lovely Yum Yum is Gene Brown as Nanki Poo and here again the casting directors were fortunate in that their hero not only has a fine tenor voice but makes a fine stage appearance as well.

Richard Graham must have been very busy indeed these last few weeks for he had almost as many actual jobs in this presentation as he has in theory as Poo-Bah, "lord high everything else." In addition to his outstanding performance as the very aristocratic noble who can trace his ancestry back to a "primordial protoplasmic, atomic globule," Graham served as stage director and also wrote some keen comedy lines for the songs of Ko-Ko and the Mikado. One reason why this comic opera remains such a favorite with audience is because of the two songs customarily re-written to bring the lines up to date and Graham uses them to good comedy advantage, taking cracks at senators and TV panelists.

Stafford Thomas, an Australian studying at SOC, does an outstanding piece of comedy acting as Ko-Ko, the lord high executioner who cannot bring himself to kill even a fly, and Donald Lewis is not far behind in his interpretation of the lesser role of the Mikado.

Frances Thrun, another Medford singer known for her truly fine voice, plays the elderly Katisha, and teamed with Mrs. Matlack as the remaining "two little maids" are Ina Feero as Pitti-Sing and Helen Brown as Peep-Bo.

The cast is completed with William Hansen as Fish-Tush, Lyman Pruitt as Go-To and Beverly Bennett as the state umbrella bearer. Both the men's and women's choruses are fine as far as their musical work goes, but their action last night was somewhat disorganized and lackadaisical, something apt to happen on an opening night.

Glenn Matthews directs the fine small orchestra, and Caroline Andrews Werner coached the soloists. Mrs. Werner's interest in and knowledge of "The Mikado" stems back to her girlhood days when her father Ed Andrews, playing with the Andrews Opera company, was known far and wide for his portrayal of Ko-Ko.

Playing in the orchestra are Richard D. Werner, Dennis Hannan, Audrey Brist, violins; Bernard Windt, cello; Delmar Myers, flute; Virginia Westerfield, clarinet; Clair Lorton, trumpet; Jack Stong, trombone; Milo Kubalek, percussion and DeLores Durham, piano.

Oscar Bjorlie is choral director, Helen Robinson, planning director and Ruedi Vest, stage manager.

The scenery for this production of "The Mikado" is both colorful and artistic and the costumes, imported from Portland, are rich in appearance.

Musicians and actors of the college and valley have put much hard work and time into this production, and it is hoped they will be repaid with larger audiences tonight and Saturday.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. and tickets may be obtained in Medford at Puruckers or at the door of Churchill hall, O.S.

Full Course Dinners For 10 Cents Offered

Gardena, Calif. — (U.P.) — Hungry Southern Californians trooped to this small poker-playing community today to take advantage of a strange price war in which full course meals are selling for 10 cents.

Gardena, a small town on the outskirts of Los Angeles, has legal draw poker, and its lavish card houses provide the town's major industry.

Competition between the card palaces started a price war over the cost of lunch and dinner. One club offered 50 cent meals to anyone who sat at the poker tables. The Embassy Club quickly followed with the 10 cent meal to anyone who asked.
