Program and Tea Planned To Aid Institute for Blind

Phoenix — Phoenix Lions club auxiliary will sponsor a silver tea and a program concerning visual handicaps Thursday, March 20 at 8 p.m., in the Phoenix Community building. This will be their money-raising event for the year as their part in the state Lions auxiliary project toward assistance of the Oregon state school for the blind.

Walter R. Dry, superintendent of the state school, will be here as the guest speaker for the tea and he will display materials used at the school for the public to see.

Those wanting reserved seats may call Mrs. John P. Hartsook, telephone 2-6637.

No admission will be charged to attend but the proceeds from the silver tea will be sent to the school.

A residential school is maintained by the state at Salem for the purpose of educating those children who, because of defective vision, cannot make satisfactory progress in the public schools. It operates under the Oregon State board of control and works closely with the state department of education.

Children without sight or with insufficient vision to read print are taught Braille and handwriting. About one-third of the students are in this group.

While education is the primary purpose of the school first consideration is given to the restoration of sight and conservation of vision.

By 1949 Dr. Dry came to the conclusion that "the best way to teach the child would be to teach the parent how to help the child." This proved, to be a large project and since the funds, like those of the public schools are intended for the children of school age, Mr. Dry, a Lion's club member, turned to the auxiliary of downtown Salem for help.

The first Oregon institute for parents of preschool blind children was held that summer on the Oregon State school campus. Twenty-three mothers, six fathers, and twenty-six visually handicapped children were enrolled. For a week they lived on the campus and the parents attended lectures and demonstrations while the children were cared for by "baby sitters."

The "baby sitters" were members of the auxiliary to the Salem Lions club and other Lions auxiliaries in the area. In 1950 the state Lions club auxiliary adopted this as their major project and each summer since, a similar institute has been held.

The sixth institute in 1954 was attended by 51 mothers, 24 fathers and 63 children. A total of 213 auxiliary members from 24 clubs volunteered as "baby sitters." The mothers of the blind children are informed that when they go to the institute that the auxiliary members who give their time will care for the children.

Without the financial support of the Lions auxiliaries throughout the state and the personal interest on the part of the individual members the institutes could not be held the officers explain.

Money sent to the school covers numerous items and services which otherwise could not be available.
