Governors Asked If States Able To Match Road Funds

Washington — (U.P.) — A Senate Public Works subcommittee today asked U. S. governors whether their states can match increased federal funds being proposed in highway construction bills before congress.

The governor's views about the "ability and present inclination" of their states to raise additional funds for highways were sought in a letter written by subcommittee chairman Albert Gore (D-Tenn.).

The subcommittee is considering an administration bill calling for the expenditure in the next 10 years by state and local governments of $29,000,000 more than their present spending for roads and streets outside the interstate highway system. The measure also calls for $25,000,000 in federal spending on interstate roads, but states would be required to put up no more matching funds than under the present law.

Another bill being considered by the subcommittee is one sponsored by Gore calling for a total expenditure of $1,100,000,000 annual in federal funds for primary, secondary and urban roads with states to match the funds on a 50-50 basis. This bill also would increase funds for interstate roads from $175,000,000 to $500,000,000 annually. This would be one a two-thirds to one-third matching basis.

Hearings Announced
Meanwhile, Chairman Dennis Chavez, (D-N.M.), of the full Public Works committee, announced hearings will be held on highway needs in all nine regions of the Bureau of Public Roads.

Gore also issued a table showing that total allocations of existing authorization for federal highway aid would be divided to include: California 5.40 per cent, Oregon 1.48 per cent, and Washington 1.62 per cent.

State and local governments would be required to raise an additional $29,000,000. Gore's table broke it down to the following amounts: Oregon $430,000,000, Washington $469,000,000 and California, $1,565,000,000.

Smoke which caused the alarm to be turned in turned out to be from the flue of the Allen hotel next door.

McKay Lauds Ike's Electric Program

Washington — (U.P.) — Interior Secretary Douglas McKay, stressing the importance of federal, local and private cooperation, said today the Eisenhower administration has taken the "positive approach" in developing electric power.

Obviously referring to the advocates of public power McKay said the new program is "a departure from the negative view that only the federal government is equipped to do the job."

"The construction to be undertaken is too tremendous and costly for the federal government to carry the burden alone," McKay said in his annual report to President Eisenhower for the fiscal year ended last June 30.

Specific topics discussed involved sanitation systems for the community, a shorter route to the area from the Applegate country, and obtaining a major airline to service the Illinois Valley, Duff reported.

Citizens in that community are vitally interested in obtaining a shorter route to the ocean from Medford, he said. The overall plan is a better route from Winnemucca, Nev., to the ocean, coming down through Lake O' Woods via Brownsboro and Eagle Point.

Mayor Elwood Hussey presided at the meeting, which about 12 persons attended.
