

Education Board Fails To Solve Medical Dispute

Salem — (U.P.) — The Senate Education Committee tried for more than four hours last night to get to the bottom of the strife at the University of Oregon medical school. But the hearing ended with the State Board of Higher Education and the State Medical Society far apart.

The full Board of Higher Education and the top officials of the Medical Society appeared here at a hearing on Senate bill 304, a measure sponsored by the medicals to require the board to accept the services of a medical society advisory council in all policy matters dealing with the medical school and its teaching hospital.

Would Forestall Dissension

Portland doctors who contribute free teaching services to the medical school—services valued at nearly a million dollars a year—told the committee that such a council would help forestall dissension between the doctors and the board. In answer to a question from the committee, the doctors said the question of a "strike" of volunteer faculty members if the council was not accepted had never been officially discussed by the medical society.

Dr. E. G. Chuinard, president elect of the State Medical Society, said the doctors had no intention of bringing pressure against the board but felt they should have a chance to express their opinion in policy matters dealing with their own professional school.

Objects to Interference

Mrs. E. B. McNaughton, member of the board, objected to the Medical Society's interfering on the policy level with an advisory council forced on the board by law.

"Any institution," she said, "would go quite mad if their alumni ran them."

Dr. Charles Byrne, chancellor of the state system of higher education, said the board objected only to a legally constituted council which the board was required to consult before it could act in setting the policy of the medical school and teaching hospital. It would be an intolerable administrative restriction on the board, he said. The board was ready to deal with the doctors on a voluntary, informal basis at any time, Byrne added.

Pope in Lenten Appeal To Catholicism Forces

Vatican City — (U.P.) — Pope Pius XII today made a Lenten appeal to the forces of Catholicism to bring lost or wavering souls back to the church's fold. The frail, 79-year-old pontiff spoke to 1,000 parish priests, preachers and lay Catholics in his first mass audience since his near fatal collapse of Dec. 2.

It was also the first time in three years that he delivered his annual Lenten speech personally.

The Pope's voice was steady and clear in his 20-minute address of 2,000 words.

Neuberger Lauds Oppenheimer OK

Washington — (U.P.) — Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) today praised Dr. Charles D. Byrne, Oregon chancellor of higher education, for permitting Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer to speak at Oregon colleges next month.

Neuberger said he planned to compliment Byrne in a Senate speech. "I take pride in the courage of Dr. Byrne and his associates in the state system of higher education," Neuberger said.

The Oregon senator said the University of Washington had "surrendered to pressure" in canceling speeches by Oppenheimer, the atomic scientist whose security clearance was revoked by the Atomic Energy Commission although it upheld his loyalty.

"The state of Oregon gains through contrast with the timidity of an official of her sister state to the north," Neuberger said in a statement.

He said Byrne's action was a "courageous decision for academic freedom."

Decision Waited on Short Creek Children

Phoenix — (U.P.) — The Arizona Supreme court today was expected to announce what action would be taken on a petition seeking release of 147 Short Creek children.

The children were placed under jurisdiction of the state Welfare Department and forbidden to return to their homes on the Arizona-Utah border following the state's polygamy raid in 1953.

Yesterday, nullification of an order placing them in custody of the Welfare Department was sought in a habeas corpus petition filed with the high tribunal by attorney Aaron Kinney.

Kinney earlier won release of 17 Short Creek children when a similar petition, designed as a test case, was directed to a superior court for a decision. Judge Henry Stevens ruled that the children should be returned to their parents because they were denied the right to be represented by an attorney or by their parents in the Juvenile Court hearing.

Bunkhouse Blaze Kills Dairy Worker

Portland — (U.P.) — A 45-year-old dairy worker was killed early today when he rushed into a burning bunkhouse at the Meadow-Land dairy in Portland, despite efforts of two fellow workers to stop him.

Firemen found Henry (Pete) Naegeli lying on the floor of the charred shack with his arms full of clothing.

Two co-workers said Naegeli was milking cows when a fire, believed caused by a smoker's carelessness, broke out in the bunkhouse about 5:30 a.m. Naegeli rushed toward the burning building and the other workers tried to stop him. He broke loose, however, and dashed into the bunkhouse.

The quarters were destroyed but firemen kept the flames from spreading to an adjoining milking barn.
