Speaker Deplores American Attitude, Says Eyes of World on This Country

Dr. John Rosengrant, New York City, member of the board of foreign missions of The Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., was guest speaker when Jackson School Parent-Teacher association met last Friday evening at the school.

Dr. Rosengrant has made two trips around the world, and instead of finding it to be a smaller world as so many people believe due to all the modern inventions, said he found it to be a larger world because of the lack of unity and understanding between nations.

Society Adds Members; Films Shown

Three new associate members were admitted to Southern Oregon Society of Artists at a recent meeting at Girls Community club. They are Mrs. Annie J. Brereton, Harry Marx and Victor Wrigglesworth, all of Medford.

The society welcomed back Miss Janeene Teeter, Medford. Mrs. Brereton has studied art for several years, Mr. Marx has been a decorator-contractor for some 40 years and Mr. Wrigglesworth has had 35 years of training and experience in art work.

The judging committee appointed by Hal Bishop, the society's president, included Mrs. Enid Rankin, Mrs. Vola Holman Blue and John Ahern.

Mr. Ahern, owner-manager of Medford Art Center, announced that selected works of the society's members will be sold from time to time at the Center, part of the proceeds from such sales to be given as a benefit to the society.

Voluntary contributions of $1 per member was asked by the president upon recommendation of a committee, the money to be used for repairs and maintenance of the Girl's Community Club.

Mrs. Blue announced that she is now correspondent for the Society of Western Artists, and that any artist wishing to join that group, or with works to submit for their many exhibits, may contact her. She will also accept any news items which might be of interest to the SWA.

Four oil paintings were selected for the March exhibits by popular vote of the group. For "picture-of-the-month," which may be seen in Barker's store after April 1, was a night street scene original in pastel-toned oils by Mr. Ahern. The view in the large painting is that of Medford's East Main street bridge.

A scene from the Applegate river area by Mrs. Effie White, Camp White, painted under the direction of Mrs. Vola Tolman, was selected for showing at Purucker's Piano house. A landscape by Mrs. Grady Chapin, and a marine by Mrs. Gean Neece are now on display in the Girl's Community club. It was announced that Mrs. Blue has received an award from the VFW for her work as art instructor at the Camp White dormitory.

Guests introduced to the society by Mrs. Ada Andrews, Gold Hill, were Mrs. Walter Scott, Gold Hill and Miss Francis Johnson, Denver, Colo.

Miss Johnson, who is visiting with her aunt, Mrs. Stieber, Gold Hill, entertained the group with an hour-long showing of pictures which she had taken, including scenes in six western states. Miss Johnson gave a travelogue type, talk as the scenes were shown.

Miss Johnson plans to be in the area for several weeks, and will take photographs of local scenic points which she says she finds useful in her work as a high school teacher.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Enid Rankin and Mrs. Blanche Johnson.

To Attend Meeting

Central Point—The child guidance study group of Central Point Parent-Teacher association has announced that it will join other child study groups in attending the Jackson county child guidance group meeting Wednesday, March 16. The meeting is set for 10 a.m. at the YMCA.

Mrs. O. T. Wilson, chairman of the Central Point group, asks that all mothers attend if possible.

People all over the world have their eyes turned toward America, according to Dr. Rosengrant. They constantly inquire what and how America is doing and form their impressions of us accordingly, the speaker said. In spite of this, many Americans in foreign countries persist in "throwing their weight around," are patronizing, and are far too impatient which is not at all good, he added. "Peace is a necessity, and goodness is the only practical idea that will work wherever you go," continued Dr. Rosengrant.

One of the most frightening results of his travels was when he came back into the United States and saw the indifference of the people and their lack of desire to belong to the human race, Dr. Rosengrant said. He stated that "we are a part of the universal family whether we like it or not."

In closing, Dr. Rosengrant said that there will be no peace in the world unless the hearts and minds of the people find their way to Christ and use His principals and practices in their daily living.

Dr. D. Kirkland West, pastor of First Presbyterian church of Medford, spoke briefly before he introduced Dr. Rosengrant to the audience, who was his guest for the evening. Dr. West urged parents to attend the church of their choosing, and participate in its activities if they wish a Christian life for their children. According to him, a survey has shown that a great percentage of children of parents who do not attend church stop going themselves when they reach approximately 14 years of age. It is, therefore, the responsibility of the parents to set a good example for their children, he said.

The meeting was opened by the presentation of colors by Mrs. John Lambert's Brownie Troop No. 8, followed by the invocation which was given by Mrs. Rex Nicodemus, vice-president of Jackson PTA.

The instrumental department of the school presented music for the program. The band, under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Weterfield, presented two numbers followed by a trombone solo by Billy Hannaford. Miss Audrey Brist presented four violinists from the school orchestra. They were Betty Kyker, Sharon Smith, Lennie Jacobs and Ruth Ann Milligan. The four played several selections and Betty Kyker played a solo.

Robert Bacus, principal of Jackson school, explained to the parents the regulations concerning the children coming into the building when school is not in session. He told them that the children are kept on the playground during good weather until school takes up unless there is some legitimate reason for their being inside, but in inclement weather they are always allowed to be in the building. It was Mr. Bacus' feeling that there had been a misunderstanding on the part of some of the parents regarding these regulations.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Paul Chinn, hospitality chairman, invited the group to the cafeteria for pie and coffee which was served by mothers of second graders.

Mrs. Golden Noble, president of the unit, presided over a business meeting during the refreshment hour. Officers were elected. They are: Mrs. Treavell Turpin, president; Mrs. Jim Hobbs, vice-president; Mrs. Alice Ward, secretary and Mrs. Alfred Mercer, treasurer. Mrs. Maurice Ritchey and Mrs. Bob Dennison were chosen to represent the unit at the PTA city council meetings. Mrs. Turpin announced that Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Mercer had been appointed delegates to the state PTA convention to be held in Portland in April.

Mrs. Joanne Sousa's fourth grade room won the prize for having the most parents in attendance at the meeting.
