

Information on Cars Object of New Firm

Articles of incorporation have been filed at Salem for Car Information Center, Inc. in Medford. Signers were Robert C. Taylor, John I. Bacon and Robert R. Dickey.

The business will furnish service for this area, and will operate as an inventory stock reporting business, according to Taylor. The firm will collect information from car dealers between San Francisco and Portland in regard to the styles, makes and other information on cars in stock. The dealers will keep the office here informed of their inventories.

In turn, dealers in the various cities, when they do not have a particular car in stock wanted by a customer, will check with the center to learn which dealer in the area may have the desired automobile. The dealers can then "swap" cars to serve better and quicker their buying public.

For the present this service will include General Motors, Ford and Chrysler companies.
