Classes Will Use New School Unit First Time Sunday

A new Sunday school unit at the Congregational church of Medford, 300 Oakwood dr., has been readied for use and three classes will meet in it Sunday for the first time. The building is still unfinished and a formal dedication service will be held when it is completed. However, Sunday all of the Sunday school pupils will go there for a brief prayer of thanksgiving at the opening of the school session at 9:45 a.m.

Three Youngest

The three classes which will use the unit Sunday are the three youngest ones, which happen to be among the largest, the nursery-kindergarten group, the lower primary and the upper primary. They are taught respectively by Mrs. Jack Balding and Mrs. Ivan Burton, Mrs. F. C. Ayres and Gatewood Smith.

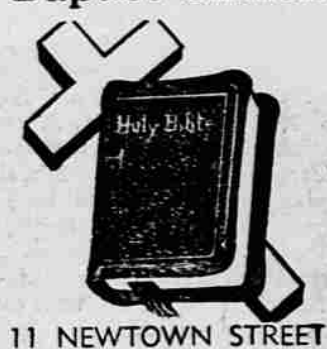

The building has been constructed out of an open pavillion which was formerly the recreation hall of the Valley View school. It has one large room and two smaller ones. One of these smaller rooms will have a will double as a kitchen. When range and sink at one end and completed it is expected that this building will be used for many other purposes in addition to Christian education.

Reception Next Sunday is also significant at the Congregational church in that a reception of new members will be held. The minister's sermon topic will be, "Grace." The choir will sing an anthem.
