

Eisenhowers' Spend Night In New Home

Gettysburg, Pa. — (UP) President and Mrs. Eisenhower Friday spent their first night together in their first home, a Gettysburg farmhouse they have been remodeling for months.

"It is now a private family home," presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced. Which was another way of saying "no newsmen and photographers allowed."

The house is the first the President and his wife have owned in 38 years of married life. Heretofore, they have lived in rented quarters on Army posts, in rented furnished homes while Mr. Eisenhower was president of Columbia university and head of NATO forces in Paris and lastly in the taxpayer-owned White House.

The President drove to the 189-acre farm Friday afternoon with his friend and personal physician, Brig. Gen. Howard Snyder. But Mrs. Eisenhower and her mother arrived the day previous.

Reporters and cameramen who covered the President's 85-mile drive from Washington were stopped at the gate about half a mile down a tree-lined driveway from the house.

All they could see from the public highway was that the big barn, once a faded red, has been painted the pastel grey-green the Eisenhowers decided on during an inspection trip a few weeks ago.

Hagerty had served notice in advance that the newsmen would not get in. On earlier visits during the renovation period, they had been permitted to accompany Mr. Eisenhower on walks outside the house and around the barn while he inspected the remodeling progress and his small herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle.

The President planned to return to Washington this afternoon. He will be guest of honor tonight at the annual dinner of the White House News Photographers association.

Hour's Pay Buys More Food Now, Department Says

Washington — (UP) — You are living better today than you did 30 years ago. So says the Department of Agriculture.

You do it by eating better foods of far greater variety. And these foods, the department says, do not take any larger share of your earnings than the less varied diet of the early 1920's.

The department backed up its statements today in a 44-page pamphlet entitled "More and Better Foods — From Today's Pay Check."

The pamphlet shows with appropriate sketches that 30 years ago one hour's take home pay would buy 5½ loaves of bread, or 1½ pounds of chicken, or 3½ quarts of milk, or one dozen oranges, or 3½ cans of tomatoes.

Egg Casserole Dish

New York — (UP) — Try this easy-to-fix egg casserole dish to vary your meatless Lenten meals.

You will need:
6 eggs, hard-cooked; ¼ cup butter; ¼ teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; 1 teaspoon grated onion; 1 teaspoon prepared mustard; 1 tablespoon of minced parsley; hot cooked peas, green beans or broccoli; 1 can (11 oz.) condensed cream or mushroom soup; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ cup milk or water or 1 cup shredded cheese (¼ pound).

Cut eggs in half lengthwise and remove the yolks. Cream butter and yolk with ¼ teaspoon salt and other seasonings. Fill each egg white with creamed mixture. Place in a shallow buttered casserole. Arrange the vegetable around the eggs. Combine the mushroom soup, ½ teaspoon of salt, milk. Heat and pour over eggs and vegetables. Sprinkle with cheese and heat in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for 10 to 15 minutes, or until the cheese is melted.

More Adults Study Piano; Liberace Gets Some Credit

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Correspondent
New York — (UP) — Let them laugh when you sit down at the piano.

Chances are they soon will join you as part of the increasing number of grownups taking music lessons like the kids.

The lesson business is booming like the stock market, according to a spokesman for the American Music Conference.

Those persons who rebelled at study in childhood now wail, "Why didn't mom make me practice?" Then they hunt up a music teacher, rent or buy a piano or other instrument, and start annoying the neighbors.

Why?

Well, We Have A Yen
Part of it is to satisfy a secret yen which Dr. John Clark Kendel says all of us have to play a musical instrument. And part of it is the new approach to learning—it's less painful than in the days of finger exercises and more finger exercises.

Although all these adults now banging out "The Blue Danube" won't develop into Liberaces, they will add a lot of fun and richness to their everyday life, said Kendel, administrative vice-president of the conference. It is a non-profit organization working to stimulate music appreciation and participation.

The piano is the favorite instrument of these late-starters, and perhaps Liberace should get some of the credit.

"Certainly he's called a lot of attention to it," said Kendel, with a chuckle.

But the piano always has been a favorite, he said, because it provides harmony, melody and accompaniment all at the same time. And it's the easiest to learn.

The conference estimated that 25,000,000 Americans, a record number, now play some musical instrument.

He Says All Should Plan
If Kendel has his way, eventually all 165,000,000 of us will toot a horn, strum a guitar, or Varnished furniture can be brightened with a "bath" of linseed oil solution. Use one quart hot water, one tablespoon of turpentine and three tablespoons of boiled linseed oil. Use a cloth, wrung almost dry from the solution, and be careful to keep the moisture from the glued joints. After careful washing and drying, you can rub the surface to a gleaming polish.

bang a piano.

"Any artistic expression is good for the soul," said Kendel. "Doesn't matter whether the critics like you or not, it's the satisfaction in performance which counts."

"Otherwise," he said, "why would there be a such worldwide chorus of bathroom singers?"

Kendel formerly was music

editor of the Rocky Mountain News, for 28 years was director of music education in Denver schools, and was state supervisor of music and assistant superintendent of public instruction in music in Michigan.

He is a pianist and his wife and two daughters are accomplished musicians.

A lot of boys rebelled at music lessons because they once were considered "for sissies," he said.

"When I started piano lessons, I had to fight every kid in the block," said Kendel.
