

AKC Retriever Trials Slated; Judges Picked for 3-Day Meet

The Rogue Valley Retriever club will hold its fourth American Kennel club licensed retriever trial March 25, 26 and 27 at Hoover lakes and vicinity.

Opening event will be the Amateur All Age stake, set for Friday, at 8 p.m. The Derby will follow the Amateur stake, and will be followed by the Qualifying stake, which will continue Saturday if necessary.

The Open All Age will be held Saturday afternoon and Sunday. Large Entry List.

From advance registrations, it appears that the entry list will be the largest here for a licensed trial. It is expected that most of the outstanding retrievers on the Pacific Coast will be entered.

Some of the dogs entered up to now include Rip of Holly Hill, Field Champion and one of the Labradors picked in 1954 in the All Age Stake and a certificate of merit in 1955; Sassy Boots, a Field Champion, rated second in the 1954 National Field Trials, and Marlon's Timothy, another Field Champion. This dog is handled by Marion McPhail. It won third here in 1954 in the Amateur Stake and a certificate of merit in the Open All Age Stake and also was qualified for the Nationals in 1953 and 1954.

Two leading trial men have been chosen as judges for the trial. Alfred H. Schmidt, Portland, who judged here in 1952 and who owns and handles one of the outstanding Golden Retrievers of all time, Oakcreek's Van Cleve, is a veteran judge of many years experience. Lafe Utter, Los Angeles, is the other judge and has had many years of experience of handling and judging retrievers. A local club member, Irvin Warren, has been chosen to assist the two other judges in the Derby and the Qualifying Stakes.

The public is invited to view the trials, which are planned to show what a retriever can do in saving game that has been shot, thus playing a part in conservation. There will be no admission charge. The Oregon Game Commission encourages the holding of trials and the developing of trained retrievers for hunting. Hunting conditions and tests are simulated in the tests that are set up by the judges.

Food will be sold on the grounds throughout each day by women of the Moose lodge.

Directions Given
Hoover Lakes is on the old Camp White area and may be reached by driving out the Crater Lake Highway to Four Corners, turning right on 402 road, then left on Sticky lane and Points won in this trial in the All Age Stakes will count toward the national rating of the trials.

Milk Control Law Need Discussed For Jersey Club

The need for at least a minimum type of state milk control law, as felt by producers in the Willamette valley, was described by Neal Miller to members and guests of the Rogue River Jersey Cattle club at its March meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schutzwahl near Grants Pass last week.

The primary aim of such a measure, he asserted, would be to prevent the kind of milk price war which recently prevailed in Spokane area with disastrous consequences to many dairymen. Miller, a Grade A producer of Woodburn, and former president of the Oregon Jersey Cattle club, pointed out that there has been a marked downward trend in returns to the producer, at least in the Portland Area, for both Grade A and surplus milk, since repeal of state controls. A milk war is being openly advocated by some owners of large herds, for the express purpose of forcing small operators out of the industry, he said.

The present merchandising system prevailing in Oregon, which demands that milk be sold at the same retail price whether delivered, at the super market or the corner store, is archaic and should be discontinued, the speaker declared, since no other food product except milk is forced to adhere to this rule.

Basic features of a new milk control act sponsored by the Oregon Grade A Milk Producers organization, which is scheduled for introduction in the state legislature this week, was outlined. The principal purpose of the measure is to guarantee a fair price to milk producers, he said.

Delbert Mongold, Eagle Point, president. Preliminary plans were drawn up for the Junior Dairy show, sponsored annually by the organization. May 21 was chosen as the date for this event, which will be held in Gold Hill. All 4-H and FFA members in Jackson and Josephine counties who have dairy projects are eligible to enter their animals regardless of breed.

Attention of 4-H and FFA members in the two counties who have Jersey projects was drawn to the fact that any of them between the ages of 10 and 21 years is eligible for nomination to Junior membership in the American Jersey Cattle club, which requires no dues or fees, and entitles the holder to reduced rates for registering his animals and other advantages.

Next meeting of the club will be Sunday, April 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Moore near Eagle Point, with Glenn Klein, Jackson county agent in charge of 4-H activities, as speaker.

Last week's meeting, which was preceded by a no-host luncheon at noon, was attended by 15 members from Jackson and Josephine counties, and a number of guests.

First Holstein Club In Southern Oregon Formed Last Week

Thirteen Jackson and Josephine county dairymen and their wives met last week with George Blosser, fieldman for the Holstein Friesian Association of America, and dairy extension agents from two counties, to organize the first Holstein club ever attempted in this area. The meeting was held in the Jackson county courthouse, Medford.

The organization is to be called Southern Oregon Holstein association with membership open to breeders of both purebred and grade holstein cattle and those interested in the breed.

Purpose of the organization is to promote and improve holstein cattle.

Short of Exhibits
Lee Bonner, president of Josephine County Fair board, stated that last year's fair was short of holstein exhibits, and extended an invitation to breeders to participate in the fair, which runs Aug. 17 to 21 this year.

Members expressed interest in making recognition awards to 4-H winners in the holstein classes at both county 4-H fairs.

Herd improvement registry and testing programs were explained by Blosser, and a discussion was held on color markings of purebred holstein cattle. Sketching and photographing for registration were explained. Before the meeting, films of the National Dairy show at Chicago were shown.

Around Hollywood

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Janet Leigh and Tony Curtis are going their separate ways-career-wise.

Mrs. Curtis announcing today she wants to be a sexy glamour girl.

For four years Tony and Janet have been the mainstay of young romance in the cinema. Their happy faces have peered from behind pressure cookers, aprons and bed covers in the fan magazines until I thought if I saw one more I'd turn in my Mae Busch Fan Club pin.

But today Janet declared she is finished with that phase of being cast as the pert, sweet thing on the screen and being known as Tony's barbecue mate off the screen.

Intend To Stay Wed

"We want to be known as individuals," she explained. Despite the gossip columns poking holes in their marriage, Janet insisted this "has nothing to do with our personal lives" and that they intend to stay wed.

"But we feel we have outgrown this young phase," she went on. "We did a lot of crazy layouts for magazines. At that time it wasn't wrong—nor were the little roles I did at MGM."

"But it's wrong if you continue doing this sort of thing after you've grown up. Then it isn't honest. Yes, I was naive when I first came to Hollywood. But I'm not now."

Janet is so serious about this change in her life she hired a high-powered publicity firm to help her. The opening gun was when it helped her get selected by the American Photographic Society as the "Golden Beauty" of the year.

Columbia Studio, which hired Janet for the musical, "My Sister Eileen," plans to release the biggest sex build-up for her since the days of Rita Hayworth posing in that black lace nightgown.

Curves Go Unnoticed
Many Hollywood press observers have long meditated that Janet's curves were unnoticed in this town of low-cut necklines. But above the curves is a face that is pretty but not sultry.

"It's just not enough to wear low-cut necklines," admitted Janet. "That and my face don't go together. I have a different kind of sex appeal. I think it can
