Negro Navy Man Finds Home in Portland

Portland — (U.P.) — A young Negro Navy petty officer's search for a home for his family in Portland has ended.

Steward 3-C George J. Hunter, stationed at the Astoria Navy Base, said Saturday he has purchased a house at 8935 S. E. Ellis street for his Caucasian wife and their two small children.

Thus ends the Hunter's search for a home which met with a series of rebuffs from real estate agents and residents of areas in which the family tried to buy a house. The Hunters were turned down on several buys because real estate agents said the homes were in white neighborhoods where Negroes were not wanted.

MAYOR PRESENTS AWARDS — Mayor Earl Miller, center above, was a guest at the annual dinner meeting of the United Medford Crusade Thursday evening, and presented community service awards to a number of men and women who were active in last year's UMC drive. At left is G. R. (Spike) Durham, Salem, a frequent Medford visitor, who is executive secretary of the Oregon Chest. Durham introduced Frank Lockwood, secretary of the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, who was the main speaker. Robert J. SOC Student Gets Vet Exchange Bid Ashland — Donald Gene Coleman, Southern Oregon college pre-veterinary medicine major, has been named for veterinary medicine training under the Western Inter-state Compact arrangement.

Coleman will be one of six students who will study veterinary medicine at Colorado A and M college under arrangements completed by Chancellor Charles Byrne of the Oregon State System of Higher Education.

The chancellor reported that there are now nine states, including Washington which has just entered the compact, cooperating under the Western Inter-state Compact for Higher Education in contracting on the exchange of students in the health sciences—medical, dental, and health and veterinary science. Since Oregon does not have a school of veterinary medicine, through legislative authority the state purchases space for

Underpass Bids Due At Meeting in April

Ashland — The state highway commission has informed the city of Ashland that bids for construction of a new highway underpass at the north outskirts of the city may be let for bids next month.

Engineers of the department have also completed their study of an alternative route for Highway 99 north through downtown Ashland, but there was no indication as to when bids may be called, according to City Supt. Elmer Biegel.

The underpass will carry the highway beneath the tracks of the Southern Pacific railroad.

a limited number of Oregon students from other cooperating states.

Applications for this training are received in the chancellor's office. Any Oregon resident who has completed the necessary subjects in basic science to qualify for professional veterinary training is eligible to apply.

Measures in Oregon Legislature

Salem — (U.P.) — A measure to put child molesters under psychiatric care and indeterminate sentence has been introduced in the Senate by Sen. John C. F. Merrifield (R-Portland).

Sen. Merrifield said "the effect of this bill is to permit the court to replace the sentences for sex crimes now prescribed by law with an indeterminate term sentence, imposed at the discretion of the court, after a psychiatric examination and hearing."

The measure relates to offenses against children under 16 years of age.

Merrifield said: "For years we have been seeking a means by which we could cope with those individuals convicted of crimes against children. Many responsible individuals and organizations have tried to write a sex deviate bill, but because of the many problems involved no one has as yet been successful in accomplishing it.

"My bill is not a sex deviate bill as such and should not be confused with the type of legislation sought to be passed in the 1953 session.

"This bill deals solely with the problem of child molestation and I believe it can be the answer to that one phase of sex deviation."

Merrifield said the bill is patterned after similar legislation passed by New York state.

Salem — (U.P.) — The House Taxation committee has given its approval to a bill adopting a corporation income tax law in Oregon with the tax structure as the corporation excise tax.

The bill represents a new concept of corporation taxes in the state and is designed to reach corporations now exempt, according to a U. S. Supreme Court ruling, from paying the state excise tax.

A favorable recommendation was also placed on a bill that would end the exemption from the corporate excise tax now enjoyed by real estate companies and utilities. Both are integral parts of the committee's revenue tax program.

Salem — (U.P.) — A bill calling for the state government to deduct United Fund contributions from the paychecks of state employees has been passed out of the House State and Federal Affairs committee with the recommendation that it be defeated.

Committee vote on the bill was four against and three in favor.

The measure had strong backing from two Marion county committee members — Reps. Al Loucks and William Chadwick — who said the state was the principal employer in Salem and should join with other employers in the deduction plan.

The committee agreed to hold a public hearing on the intermediate penal institute bill Wednesday, April 6, at 8 p. m.

Salem — (U.P.) — The House has passed and sent to the governor a Senate-approved measure under which minor erasures on a bid submitted to the state government would not nullify the entire bid.

The State Department of Finance asked for the measure because the state was losing thousands of dollars since it could not accept low bids which had minor erasures. Under the bill, there must be a material alteration before a bid is rejected.

Salem — (U.P.) — A Portland Democrat has introduced a bill to abolish the Legislature's Joint Ways and Means Committee.

Rep. Pat Dooley of Portland said he thought the committee conflicted with a provision of the constitution which provides that each house shall determine its own rules of proceedings. The committee is made up of both House and Senate members.

Salem — (U.P.) — Rep. Loran Stewart (R-Cottage Grove) chairman of the House Tax Committee said a hearing has been scheduled next Wednesday on a measure to place a three-cent per pack tax on cigarettes. The tax is a major item in the committee's tax package.

Klamath Indian Dies In Chiloquin Mishap

Chiloquin — (U.P.) — Leon Isaac Jackson, 19-year-old member of the Klamath Indian tribe, was killed instantly Saturday when his car plunged off the road near the west outskirts of Chiloquin.

State police said their investigation indicated high speed. The car crashed head on into a large tree, driving the motor into the front seat. Sound of the crash was heard in downtown Chiloquin, half a mile away. The accident occurred at 8:13 a.m.

Between 1940 and 1950, the number of U. S. households increased by 23 per cent.
