Mrs. Eisenhower Plans to Wear Duplicated Frock

Washington — (U.P.) — Mrs. Eisenhower apparently is going to go right on wearing her new spring print dress, even though a lot of other women seem to have one just like it.

Washington society was thrown into a tizzy Wednesday when the first lady and the wife of a capital businessman turned up at the same tea in what looked like identical frocks.

Designer Mollie Parnis of New York confessed there are 90 copies of the dress in circulation around the country. She said she is "simply miserable."

But Mrs. Eisenhower appeared unconcerned over the situation. Her social secretary, Mary Jane McCaffrey, said today that the first lady has "no interest" in it at all.

She apparently intends to keep on wearing the blue and green taffeta and the betting here is that all the other women who own other copies will do the same.

Honolulu, T. H. — (U.P.) — The Honolulu Advertiser has advised Mrs. Durris Crane and her dress designer to "dry those tears" over the identical copy of Mamie Eisenhower's gown.

"After all, ladies," an Advertiser editorial said, "millions and millions of men in the last war wore clothing identical in nearly every respect with that worn by Mamie's husband—give or take a few stars."

Sale of Cookies Earns Large Sum For Area Camps

A report made last week from the Rogue Valley Area Girl Scout headquarters indicated that this year's annual cookie sale conducted by the girls has contributed the largest profit to the coming program in the history of the council.

From the area which covers Grants Pass and Illinois Valley, Ashland and Medford districts 1,880 cases, or 22,560 boxes of cookies were sold. This made a total profit to the camp fund of $2,600.16. In addition to the figure, five cents per box went to the individual troops.

The Girl Scout camp program which is financed through the cookie sales covers all types of camping, six day camps in the area, the established Low Echo camp at Lake o' the Woods, and troop and trip camping.

Among improvements being made this summer at Low Echo are the purchase of four new Chris Craft flat bottom type boats, a new unit or shelter to accommodate 24 girls because of growing camp needs, general maintenance improvements and remodeling for quarters for a maintenance man, new fire fighting equipment and an electric line being put in by California Oregon Power company to replace a Delco plant.

Half Your Calories For You; Rest Doctor's

Omaha, Neb. — (U.P.) — Most Americans actually live on half the calories they consume, a biochemist at Creighton University here claims.

Dr. Victor E. Levine says "the doctor lives on the other half." The excess calories, he says, cause overweight, heart trouble, high blood pressure, and similar ailments.

Heavy diets are not needed by most people, he said, because machinery has eliminated most of the need for heavy physical exertion.
