

They'll Do It Every Time By Jimmy Hatlo

As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, P.H.D.

It's Necessary To Take Chances To Get Ahead

The person who gets ahead in life is the one who is willing to take a chance in breaking away from the tried path. However, if he wants to succeed, he must be sure that the chance he takes offers more than an even break. In other words, he will be wise to make sure that his chances of winning are better than his chances of losing.

The first thing to do is to analyze the situation carefully to make sure that there is some element of safety in it. Then, to be truthful, one is not actually taking a gambler's chance, because one enters the situation with at least a fair idea of all elements involved in it.

Nothing is totally new, even though it may appear so on the surface. Therefore, in analyzing what appears to be a totally new situation, one must examine it to see what relation it bears to past experiences of a similar nature. How they turned out will be a good indication of the chances for success of the new venture.

Willingness To Take Chance Naturally, no new situation resembles an old to such an extent that one can predict with certainty that the new will follow the pattern of the old. That is where the willingness to take a gambler's chance comes in. Though the chances of winning should be greater than those of losing, the possibility of losing should never be completely overlooked.

The people who make the greatest successes in life are the trail-blazers, those who are willing to take a chance. This requires a certain temperament. In general, the person who refuses to take a chance on the future is one who lacks confidence in himself and in his abilities. He has met so many failures and defeats in the past that he is afraid to take a chance on the future.

The self-confident person, on the other hand, will take a chance. If he loses, he accepts this philosophically, knowing that he will make good later.

LETTERS FROM READERS
Chit Chat: "I have never learned to chat lightly with people because I feel it gives the impression that I am very shallow. Am I wrong?"

(A) A person who can chat easily with anyone and everyone does not give the impression that he is shallow, unless that is the limit of his conversational ability. Light conversation puts other people at ease and helps to break the ice. You will do well to cultivate this conversational art if you come in contact with many people, especially strangers.

Traveling: "I am engaged to a man whose work takes him to all parts of the country and sometimes abroad. He flies everywhere and loves it. I have urged him to get into a line of work where he will not have to travel but he says he would go mad if he had to be chained to an office desk. Should I break our engagement?"

(A) If you feel that you will be unhappy with your husband away frequently, you certainly should not marry a man who loves to travel. If you tried to make him go into business where he would be "chained to a desk," he would be resentful and probably make a failure of his work. Only if you love this man enough to be willing to marry him on his terms should you go through with your plans for marriage.

Dolls: "My 10-year-old daughter still loves to play with dolls but the other girls think this is babyish. Should I try to get her interested in other play?"

A few girls of today play with dolls until they are 10. Most of them are playing games with other girls, watching television, going to the movies, and taking part in club activities, such as those of the Scouts. Try to encourage her to share the interests of the other girls her age. She can still play with her dolls when she is at home, if she wants to.

HEARINGS SLATED

Salem—(U.P.)—The Senate Natural Resources Committee will hold a hearing on two water conservation bills next Monday afternoon. Chairman Paul Geddes said today. One bill would set up a water resources board and the other would establish a statewide ground water code.

Newsprint, valued at $14,973,450, was the fifth leading import commodity received through the San Francisco Customs district in 1953.

Interest Evident In Geology Class At Mining Council

More than 40 persons last week indicated that they were interested in attending a course in geology which may be taught in this area.

Bruce Manley, attorney and member of the Northwestern Mining Council, has been investigating the possibility of such a course, and reported at the meeting that a minimum of 15 persons are necessary before the state of higher education will start one. Tuition for a 30-hour course would be $18, he said.

Because of the interest shown, he will proceed with arrangements for the course, he said.

Tells of Uranium Rush
Main speaker at the meeting was R. W. Rowe, geologist with the Vanadium corporation, Uranium, Colo., who discussed the uranium rush in that state. He told of the development of uranium mining from the time when it was a sideline in the production of vanadium to the present, when it is the most sought-after mineral in the world.

Rowe discussed the types of drilling used in prospecting for uranium, and the types of formations in which uranium is found. A. C. Van Galder, Jacksonville, reported on progress of operations in mines in Colorado and Wyoming in which he and other people are interested. The weather has been holding up operations, but mining is expected to be under way soon, he said.

President Frank DeSouza was chairman of the meeting, held in the Jackson school gymnasium. Nearly 130 people attended.

Power Firm Gets Permit for Work On Snake River

Washington—(U.P.)—The Federal Power Commission said Saturday it has issued a three-year preliminary permit to Pacific Northwest Power Co. of Portland, Ore., for a proposed hydro-electric power project on the Snake river in Idaho County, Idaho, and Wallawa county, Ore.

The project would consist of two developments at the Mountain Sheep and Pleasant Valley sites. The latter is about 34 miles downstream from the Hells Canyon site. The two units would have a total generating capacity of 850,000 kilowatts.

A preliminary permit is issued for the purpose of giving the holder priority while making surveys and investigations necessary for preparation of an application of an FPC license. It does not authorize any construction. To Four Companies
The power would be distributed through the transmission facilities of the Northwest power pool to the four companies which control Pacific Northwest—the Montana Power Co., of Butte; the Washington Water Power Co., of Spokane, Pacific Power and Light Co., of Portland and Portland General Electric Co.

A year ago a joint report on the middle Snake river by the Army engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation to the Columbia River Basin states and to federal agencies proposed federal construction of dams and reservoirs at the Mountain Sheep and Pleasant Valley sites.

It is black and blue and often clotted with blood. There is enough meat wasted by mishandling to feed the city of Milwaukee, Wis.

In loading put sand on ramps and straw on the truck floor. Do not crowd. Use a canvas slapper and panel is necessary. I think everyone should be more careful in handling their animals.

The meeting closed with refreshments served by Mrs. Robert Russell.

Next meeting will be April 25, 8 p.m., at Willie Debrick's home.

A Nichol's Worth of... Comment On This and That

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS United Press Feature Writer

Washington—(U.P.) Never let it be said that the folks at Internal Revenue aren't people.

Take the case of the woman in Kansas. It was the last day of the year 1954.

She marched into the Wichita office and confronted Lynn R. Brodrick. The lady said she needed help in filling out her return.

The polite Mr. Brodrick told her April 15 to file her tax return.

"But I am expecting a new exemption," she said. "And not only that I have a refund coming and need the money to help with the hospital bill."

Quickly, the agent helped the expectant mother fill out her return. The exemption was born before 1955, and very shortly the woman got her refund for 1954.

Used His Fists
Some agents have it a little rough. One person in the Middle-west had a notion that he had been overcharged. So he went to the revenue office, spied a collector and belted him a heavy one. Then the taxpayer marched to the court house and pleaded guilty.

He waved a $10 bill under the judge's nose, enough, the man thought, to cover a fine for simple assault. When his honor heard the whole story he fined the man $250, and threw in a six months jail sentence for good measure.

In Dallas, a tycoon was reminded in polite language that one of his hired hands was in arrears in her quarterly tax payments. Time wasted for awhile, then the Internal Revenue people got a note from the big shot. "I married the lady," he said, "and gained an additional exemption, just in time."

Lookout Point Slates Third Generator Use
Portland—(U.P.)—Col. James U. Moorhead, Portland district Army engineer, said Saturday the third 40,000-kilowatt generator at Lookout Point dam on the middle fork of the Willamette river is scheduled to put power on the line April 29.

He also said the 15,000 kilowatt generator at Dexter regulating dam would have power on the line May 26. Dexter dam is three miles downstream from Lookout Point.

Two generating units at the Dalles dam are scheduled to produce power by November, 1957, he said.

The power would be distributed through the transmission facilities of the Northwest power pool to the four companies which control Pacific Northwest—the Montana Power Co., of Butte; the Washington Water Power Co., of Spokane, Pacific Power and Light Co., of Portland and Portland General Electric Co.

Court of Appeals Suggests Judge Disqualify Self

San Francisco—(U.P.)—The U. S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals suggested Friday that Hawaii District Judge J. Frank McLaughlin disqualify himself because of bias and prejudice in the disbarment proceedings against San Francisco lawyer Richard Gladstein.

McLaughlin had suspended Gladstein's right to practice in Hawaii pending the outcome of the disbarment proceedings. The judge is seeking to have the attorney disbarred because Gladstein served a contempt of Congress sentence in connection with the New York Communist trial.

Gladstein, who defended seven persons prosecuted under the Smith Act, appealed to the court on the basis McLaughlin is biased and prejudiced against him. His appeal alleged the judge had once told him that lawyers who represent suspected Communists should be disbarred from practice.

The court ruling Saturday sustained Gladstein's appeal and in effect orders McLaughlin either to drop disbarment proceedings or disqualify himself from the case.

"You understand," the prisoner said, "I intend to make an honest tax return. But may I deduct for expenses such as firearms, ammunition, and the hire of a getaway car? It seems I have enough trouble without arousing the ire of your office."

Paid Apple Pie
Line 14 on page one of form 1040 asks the taxpayer if he paid for help in preparing his returns, and if so how much. One lady in Baltimore wrote, "Yes, one apple pie."

A woman in Louisiana put down a deduction item for the repair of a tombstone.

Agent Taylor Crow of Denver likes to tell about a woman in his area who sent in a couple of wilted $5 bills. She apologized in a letter.

"I live in a neighborhood where you have to watch your belongings," she said. "I keep my money in my bra, and accidentally sent bra, bills and all to the laundry."

The Denver office accepted the legal tender.

Reserves of Money For State Jobless Lowest Since 1944

Salem—(U.P.)—Income both from tax collections and federal interest payments declined during the year that ended March 31, the State Unemployment Compensation Commission said Saturday.

As a result, unemployment reserves dropped to $63,911,854, lowest since July, 1944, and nearly $8,500,000 below the amount on hand a year ago.

Below 1948 High
Payments to insure claimants during the past 12 months were $21,220,229 as compared with employers' taxes of $11,209,502 and federal interest receipts of $1,466,598. The trust fund now is about $32,500,000 below the high reached late in 1948.

Continued cold weather last month slowed up the usual spring recovery, bringing payments for March up to $2,747,965, highest since a year ago.

With first quarter benefits of $8,091,621, and collections of $1,867,742 indications were that disbursements in the first half of 1955 would aggregate more than the entire year's income. This would mark the sixth calendar year out of the last seven in which the commission has operated at a deficit.

May Go Lower
With Oregon's average taxable payrolls close to $935,000,000, unemployment reserves now are about 5.8 per cent of the amount and probably will be slightly lower by the end of the second quarter. Unless the number of unemployed drop considerably, the trust fund will be close to five per cent by next year.

4-H Club News
Central Point 4-H Dairy Club
The Central Point 4-H Dairy club members met at the Lawrence Leonard home Monday evening and discussed what kind of program they are going to give at the May general meeting. It was decided to have a film. Mrs. C. H. Anhorn was to decide whether the film was to be an entertainment film or educational film.

The members decided to have the parents write an excuse when they miss one or more meetings and that they are not to miss three meetings without a good excuse. Then the meeting was adjourned. Mrs. Leonard served refreshments.

Central Point Swine Club
Mrs. C. W. Anhorn showed a film to the Central Point Swine club on handling animals, March 28. The club met at the home of Richard Russell. The film showed how much meat is wasted by mishandling. The meat is very easily bruised when the animal is hit with pitchforks, sticks, kicked, beat, shoved and crowded in loading. These bruises have to be cut off the meat when it is butchered, as it is black and blue and often clotted with blood. There is enough meat wasted by mishandling to feed the city of Milwaukee, Wis.

In loading put sand on ramps and straw on the truck floor. Do not crowd. Use a canvas slapper and panel is necessary. I think everyone should be more careful in handling their animals.
