

Order of Amaranth Holds Annual Installation Here

Mrs. George A. Rehart became the sixth royal matron of Romy Ann court, Order of the Amaranth, at an installation and coronation ceremony held at the Medford Masonic temple April 2. Mrs. Charles F. Hoppe is the retiring queen.

Those installed as officers of the court were Mrs. Rehart, royal matron; Carl Oestreich, royal patron; Mrs. Ira D. Canfield, associate matron; Clarence Harwood, associate patron; Lloyd Caton, treasurer; Mrs. Carl H. W. Oestreich, secretary; Mrs. V. A. Turpin, conductress; Mrs. Marshall Day, associate conductress; James G. Risley, trustee for three years; Granville Brittan, trustee for two years; Edward C. Root, chairman of trustees; Mrs. Frank Little, marshal in the east; Mrs. James G. Risley, marshal in the west; Mrs. Edward C. Root, prelate; Mrs. Lloyd Caton, standard bearer; Mrs. Fred H. Graten, truth; Mrs. Frank Salyers, faith; Mrs. L. R. Manning, wisdom; Mrs. Stanley C. Jones, charity; Herbert Morris, historian; Mrs. Corinne Robbins, musicians; Mrs. James Edge, warder and L. R. Manning, sentinel.

Mrs. L. G. Frink, past royal matron, was the uncrowning matron assisted by Mrs. M. L. Cash, crown bearer; Mrs. Glenn Linn, standard bearer; Mrs. John White, marshal in the east; and Mrs. Thos. Freed, marshal in the west.

Mrs. Jack Schulze, past royal matron Friendship court, Klamath Falls, placed the crown on Mrs. Rehart's head in the coronation ceremony. Mrs. Schulze was assisted by J. J. Kennedy, honored marshal; Mrs. Hoppe, standard bearer; Mrs. Linn, crown bearer; Ira D. Canfield, sword bearer; Mrs. Kennedy, marshal in east; and Mrs. Frank Lambo, marshal in west.

The ceremony of installation of officers was performed by Mr. Lambo, installing patron; Mrs. A. Elton Waldron, installing marshal; Glenn L. Linn, aide to marshal; Mrs. White, installing prelate; Mrs. John Esp, installing secretary; and Mrs. Frink, installing musician.

Court was opened by Mrs. Hoppe and Mr. Lambo, the retiring royal matron and royal patron who were presented with past matron and past patron jewels.

Many Masonic dignitaries attended the ceremony in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Howell, Portland, grand royal patron and grand marshal of the grand court; Theodore Hughey, royal patron of Friendship court, Klamath Falls; Mrs. Thomas Scott, royal matron of Douglas court, Roseburg, and Mrs. Emma Ahlgren and Charles Orr, royal matron and patron of Siskiyou court, Yreka, Calif. Those participating in the ceremonies were presented with orchids and boutonnières.

Mr. Kennedy, past royal patron and master of ceremonies, introduced the visiting distinguished guests and installing officers.

Fred H. Graten, accompanied by Mrs. Eva Marsh, sang several numbers. Candles on the throne were lighted by Marcia and Janice Garner, nieces of Mrs. Rehart. The court room was decorated with butterflies and baskets of spring flowers, the work of Mrs. Linn, general chairman, and her committees. The grand royal matron and patron have chosen butterflies and bees as their insignia for the year.

Following the ceremonies, refreshments were served in the dining room.

Use kitchen tongs to turn steaks or chops during broiling. The tongs won't pierce the meat surface and let juices escape.

Member Tells of Mexican Tour At Club Session

Eagle Point—Mrs. Otto Nagel spoke of her recent trip to Mexico at a meeting of Eagle Point Federated Garden club held at her home April 16. Mrs. Michael Heckenberger was co-hostess.

Mrs. Nagel visited private gardens which she describes as being very colorful with bright flowers, parrots and monkeys. Mrs. Lawrence Messal talked on kinds and culture of vines and ground covers.

The conservation chairman, Mrs. Earle Jossy, told the group that due to the expected water shortage this season it would be well to mulch heavily to conserve all moisture possible. There was also a helpful report from the horticulture chairman, Mrs. Glenn Hale.

On April 20 at 10:30 a.m. members will take a sack lunch and meet at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Messal to make fiber flowers.

Prizes went to Mrs. Lawrence Messal and Mrs. Don Anderson.

Upper Applegate Extension Unit Elects Officers

Upper Applegate—Mrs. Robert Sorber was elected chairman of the Upper Applegate Extension unit Wednesday, when the unit members met at the home of Mrs. John Byrne on the Applegate. Mrs. Lee Wells, was elected vice-chairman; Mrs. William Green, secretary, and Mrs. Harry Davis, treasurer.

Mrs. Stanley Wertz, Mrs. Anne Hancock, Miss Jean Shipman, and Mrs. Lance Offenbacher, a former member of the group, were guests. Miss Shipman is a senior at Oregon State college studying home extension work.

The group voted to buy a membership in the Jackson County Council for Children and Youth, with Mrs. Rex Davis and Mrs. George Sample as representatives to the council.

Miss Eula Wintermote, county home extension agent, presented the day's project, "Living Within Twenty-Four hours a Day."

Ways of solving time problems were discussed.

"Galloping Tea" New Money-Maker

Atlanta, Ga.—(U.P.)—Add "the galloping tea" to the list of zany money-making schemes women's clubs think up these days to replace the old-fashioned bazaars and rummage sales.

This fast-moving event was tried by the Atlanta Woman's Club and found effective, although unpredictable.

The galloping tea is a surprise both to guests and hostess. This is the way it works. Each club member draws the name of another member. Then, at some designated time, the member "gallops" around and picks up five of her friends without warning. The friends, according to the rules, must go along no matter what their stage of dress or undress. The group then calls at the home of the member whose name was drawn.

From there on it is up to the unsuspecting hostess.

Whatever she happens to be doing has to stop in favor of the galloping tea.

Refreshments? The unprepared hostess just scrapes together whatever she has on hand.

Holladay Bowl Auditions Set

Portland—Auditions for singing and speaking roles, singing and dancing choruses, and pit instrumentalists for the fourth season of the "Musicales Under the Stars" at Holladay Bowl in Portland are scheduled for April 16 and 17. As in the past, they will be held throughout the afternoon and evening of each day at Centenary-Wilbur Methodist church, S. E. Ninth and Pine, Portland.

Out-of-town talent should write to the Portland Symphonic Choir office, 505 Park Building, Portland 4, Ore., immediately for specific appointment. If these dates are impossible to meet, producers Kyber and Zimmerman will arrange special auditions.

Musicals selected for production in the outdoor theater are: "Showboat," "The Desert Song," and "Song of Norway." Each will run three weeks, Tuesdays through Saturdays, with the season opening July 5. General rehearsals will commence the first part of June. The Holladay Bowl executive secretary, Ruth Roper, advises those interested in any form of participation to contact the office not later than May 1.

AAUW Branch To Hear Talk by Travel Expert

"Vagabondage, USA" will be the theme of a talk by Miss Carol Lane, called the nation's foremost authority on automobile travel, when she speaks before Medford branch, American Association of University Women, at the home of Mrs. W. W. Stevenson, 230 Saginaw Drive, Wednesday, April 20, at 8 p. m., according to Mrs. Herbert Seitz, club president. The meeting is also open to invited guests of members, and a special invitation is being issued to Medford women belonging to the various study groups sponsored by AAUW.

As a traveling researcher, Miss Lane tests new driving-aid gadgets, investigates places of sightseeing interest and checks on accommodations and services available to the motoring public. Her primary interest is to find ways to increase the touring enjoyment of the millions of American motoring families. As women's travel director for the Shell Oil company, Miss Lane's activities necessitate over 60,000 miles of travel throughout the country annually.

In her talk here, Miss Lane will discuss a new kind of freedom of the road, "Vagabondage, USA." She will share with her audience her travel-tested ideas for enjoying the adventure and enrichment of motor meandering.

In addition, Miss Lane will describe a number of practical hints for the woman motorist and her family. These include information on selecting suitable accommodations and restaurants, how to turn the family car into a child's "textbook-on-wheels," how to pre-plan travel and travel budgets and how to take a "Tour-ette."

Often called the first lady of touring, Miss Lane is noted as the author of a national newspaper column, numerous magazine articles, helpful booklets and "Traveling by Car," a new family guide to better vacations.

New Sewing Book Becomes Available

"Ideas for Sewing with Cotton Bags," a new 24-page illustrated booklet, is ready for distribution, the National Cotton Council announces.

The booklet features simplicity patterns and easy how-to-do directions on household decorations, gifts, and toys that may be made from the colorful cotton bags used for packaging feed, flour, fertilizer, sugar, and other farm and home products.

Wardrobes of cotton bag fashions, featuring 1955 McCall's and Simplicity patterns for all ages, are available on a loan basis from the Cotton Council. The fashion collections and descriptive commentaries are offered for style show use by women's clubs and organizations.

The sewing booklet and information on booking wardrobes may be obtained from the National Cotton Council, P. O. Box 76, Memphis, Tenn.
