Biologist Says Leukemia Battle Takes New Turn

San Francisco — (U.P.) — A California biologist said today medicine's fight against the deadly blood cancer, leukemia, has swung in a startling new direction, possibly making all previous attacks on the disease obsolete.

Overproduction of white corpuscles has long been thought to be the cause of leukemia, but Dr. Howard Bierman of the City of Hope hospital in Durate, Calif., said his research shows it is just a symptom.

Indication of Condition
He said it is possible that leukemia is really a heretofore unknown disease and that excessive white cells is an indication of the condition.

Bierman, addressing the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology, said he arrived at his new conclusion after three years work with a new drug called myleran.

The drug, he said is able to destroy "granulocytic" white blood cells, a type found in a common form of leukemia. However, it leaves other types of cells strictly alone, Bierman said.

Cells Destroyed
Using the new drug, Bierman and his associates were able to destroy all the cells which were previously supposed to cause the cancer.

Nevertheless the patients died. Bierman said that though the patients had no excess white cells, examination after death showed all other symptoms common to the disease, indicating they were killed by something unknown.

Research indicates, Bierman said, that scientists should look for failure by some part of the body to eliminate normally white blood cells, rather than a function gone wild in overproduction.

Under normal conditions, the white cells are produced in bone marrow and are destroyed in such tissues as the spleen, liver, the lymph nodes.

Bierman said that autopsies have shown that these organs in leukemia victims have been swollen to uselessness by white cells.

These findings will possibly change all previous concepts of leukemia research, Bierman said.

Tehama Growers To Probe Federal Loans

Red Bluff, Calif. — (U.P.) — Tehama county fruit and almond growers voted last night to investigate possible emergency loans to farmers as a result of last week's severe freeze.

The growers voted to see if the Farmers Home Administration could call the county an emergency area and set up an emergency loan system.

A spokesman for the group said the final decision on loans would rest with the Secretary of Agriculture.

It was disclosed at the meeting that the freeze cost growers 40 to 50 per cent of the prune crop, 40 per cent of the peach crop and 25 per cent of the almond crop.

It was estimated that because of the freeze, worst since 1936, 25 per cent of the farmers would ask for full emergency financing and another 25 per cent would need partial help.

MONKEY KIDNEY USED

Pittsburgh — (U.P.) — The kidneys from a single rhesus monkey will provide sufficient vaccine under the process developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk to give three inoculations each to 2,000 children.

Less than one per cent of all imported coffee fails to meet the testing standards of the federal government.
