'Bargain' Offered High School Students At Preview of Colleges

Ashland — Southern Oregon college is offering the "biggest bargain of the year" to visiting seniors from more than two dozen regional high schools on the week end of April 22-24, according to Hal A. Cloer, guidance director at the college.

For $5 the seniors will receive housing, two breakfasts, a luncheon, a picnic dinner, and tickets to a Gay Nineties Revue, a track meet, and a college dance. Other events scheduled for the week end include the SOC Spring Sing, a campus fireside, the President's Open House, coke breaks, campus tours, and much more.

Cloer explained that this is all part of "Senior Campus Preview" at which graduating seniors meet college students and faculty, fellow potential members of the class of 1959, and learn about college life.

Orientation Discussion
The academic honorary societies at SOC — Theta Delta Phi, and Sigma Epsilon Pi, under presidents Don Ferguson and Lois Brooks—will lead orientation discussions on Saturday morning. The topics include adjustment to college work, educational and vocational planning, finances, living conditions and employment, and personal and social development. College faculty and students will attend the discussion groups.

The high school seniors may attend the SOC Spring Sing and a campus fireside with the freshman class acting as the host on Friday evening, after checking into dormitory housing. After the Saturday morning group discussions and campus tours, they will be guests at the SOC-Oregon Technical Institute track meet at Fuller field.

Campus Picnic

Later in the afternoon they will be guests of the Future Teachers of America at a campus picnic, will attend an open house given by SOC President Elmo N. Stevenson, and later attend the Lions club-sponsored Gay Nineties Revue. The evening is to be topped off with a college dance in a Spring Garden Party theme. The seniors who stay overnight will be given a farewell breakfast by the SOC student council on Sunday morning.

Thus far reservations have been received from Ashland, Brookings-Harbor, Crater, Days Creek, Eagle Point, Eugene, Grants Pass, Klamath, Henley, Illinois Valley, Junction City, Lakeview, Malin, Marshfield, Medford, Mitchell, North Bend, North Marson, Phoenix, Roseburg, Springfield, and Talent high school students, Cloer added.

On Other Campuses

The Campus Preview week end is also being observed at the other institutions in the state system of higher education the same times. The inter-campus program is coordinated by the high school-college relation committee of the general extension division.

High school seniors will also be welcome at the University of Oregon, Eugene; Oregon State college, Corvallis; Oregon College of Education, Monmouth; Eastern Oregon College of Education, La Grande; Portland State college, and Oregon Technical institute, Klamath Falls.

High school seniors may obtain further information from their principals.

Hood River Hospital Enlargement Planned

Hood River — (U.P.)—Plans to remodel and enlarge the Hood River Memorial hospital were announced here this week by E. R. Pooley, hospital board of trustees president.

The new hospital addition would increase to 60 beds the present 25-bed structure.

Home Nursing Hints

There's an Easier Way

Neither a baseball bat nor a dollar bill is the correct approach to the youngster who clenches his teeth and says, "No!" when it's time to take his medicine.

The child should be brought to understand that the medicine is necessary to help him get well. Some children respond quickly if they are made to feel that the decision to take medicine rests in their hands. Others react to the suggestion that doctor, father, or some other trusted person will be proud of them if they take it without fuss.

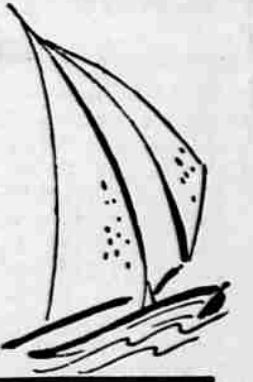

For other hints on how to get children—and adults too—to take their medicine like good soldiers, join a Red Cross home nursing course. Your local chapter will help you sign up.
