

Cafe Employees Take Chest X-Rays; Others Will Join in Program

The Top Notch cafe, 27 South Central ave., and owned by Louis J. Ruhl, was the first cafe in Jackson county to provide chest x-rays for all members of its staff, according to the Jackson County Public Health association.

Ruhl, cooperating with the program for x-raying all food service personnel, made arrangements through Bill Hoxie, a member of the x-ray committee for his employees to visit the out-patient clinic at the Community Hospital last Wednesday.

Other food handling groups who have had 100 per cent participation in the plan to further protect the health of their customers and employees, include the Big Y, Groceries and Quality markets. A number of others are making arrangements for x-rays in the near future.

"It is hoped everyone in the food industry will have an x-ray during the next few months to help us locate unknown cases of tuberculosis, lung cancer, heart conditions and other diseases," Mrs. Jack Walker, case finding chairman, stated.

McClellan Seeking Accurate Data on Jailing of Airmen

Washington—(U.P.)—Sen. John J. McClellan said Saturday his subcommittee's study of the jailing of American airmen by Red China "may be one way to get more accurate information for the people."

The Arkansas Democrat announced Friday that the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee will hold a closed door meeting Monday with State Department and Air Force officials. It will "discuss all aspects of the detention and imprisonment of American airmen by the Chinese Communists."

McClellan said the meetings will be a "conference" rather than an investigation. "Whether we want to go into it full scale" will be decided by the subcommittee after the Monday sessions, he told newsmen.

The investigating group announced plans to look into the case of the imprisoned fliers only one day after demands by Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland, of California, and Sen. Wayne L. Morse (D-Ore.) for the senate to hold such hearings.

Wanted Closed Session
But Knowland and Morse suggested a joint closed door meeting by the foreign relations and armed services committees.

In announcing the meeting, McClellan said "all phases of the capture, detention and subsequent imprisonment of the 11 American fliers shot down during the Korean War, as well as the four American fighter pilots who are also known to be held by the Chinese Communists, will be fully explored with a view to determining if public hearings will be held."

In and Around Table Rock

Table Rock —Mr. and Mrs. George F. Joseph of Yakima, Wash., owners of the Modoc Orchards here, are spending a few weeks at the orchard during the smudging season.

Gordon Kershaw of Medford has leased eight acres of land on the Orville Hamilton farm and has a crew of men preparing the land and planting peach seed to grow young trees for nursery stock, which will later be grafted into different varieties of dwarf peach trees. Mr. Kershaw has another nursery venture in the Wagner Creek district where he is growing apple stock. Reasons for renting land in this district according to Mr. Kershaw is that the nursery business requires a supply of irrigation water that will be on tap whenever needed.

The irrigation of orchards, clover fields and pastures is going ahead here made necessary by the lack of rain usually experienced at this season.

Among local people who visited the last blood bank in Medford were Mrs. Alan Fleischer, Mrs. J. L. Neelson, Miss Lucille Smith and Everett Brown.

The Klinge and Carter cattle which have been on feed at the Table Top Ranch the past winter were moved last week to home pastures in the Lake Creek area.

Several from here attended the pre-Easter services at the Church of Christ at Central Point, Sunday, April 3. Those present were surprised to hear the announcement of the engagement of John Heverling of Central Point, and Miss Marlene Isbell of San Jose, Calif., whose marriage will take place at San Jose, May 30. Heverling, well known here, is a former resident of the community.

Floyd Doland and son Floyd Jr. of Sams Valley were recent visitors. Floyd Jr. expects his wife home in the near future from New York City where she is employed as a cashier.

After being told by Mrs. Walter Timm, airplane spotter at TouVelle Park, that she had seen at different times what she believed to be a bald eagle, we made inquiries and learned that several persons in the Sams Valley district had seen bald eagles this spring in the Sams Valley hills.

Bob Sage, local teacher, now serving at principal of the elementary schools at Gold Hill, has accepted a position as principal of the Washington school in Medford.

A recent guest speaker at the local Sunday school was John Heberlin, senior student at the San Jose Bible College.

Mrs. Ray Bosworth left Monday by train for Kansas City, Mo., to take an examination course in teachers training in the Unity School of Christianity near Kansas City. She will be gone eight weeks returning about the middle of June. Mrs. Bosworth has been taking a correspondence course from the same school, and it will take another year of the written work and another trip to Kansas City to complete her course and get her final degree.

Gus Koellner of Sams Valley was a business visitor here Monday. He had a bale of hay along with him, bought at the rate of $45 per ton to treat his cattle which he says, have already eaten their heads off.

David Doran and family of Medford were visitors at the local Sunday school last Sunday. David is still using crutches from the auto accident last fall. He says his underpinning still feels so shaky that it reminds him of the song, "This Old House."

Mrs. Frances Peason of Prospect was a visitor here at the J. S. Richardson home the first of the week.

Mrs. Roland Shope of Sams Valley was a recent visitor here with friends. She had a letter recently received from relatives in Arkansas stating that drouth and freezing weather had destroyed all peaches, fruit, and truck - gardens. Potatoes and truck gardens will be replanted, according to the letter.

Easter Sunday dinner guests at the R. E. Neelson home were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Leavitt of the Old Stage road. E. P. reports that the digger squirrels are ransacking his bird house and carrying off the bird feed. He says these are a different breed of squirrel than the bushy tailed ones that caused so much excitement recently at Washington, D. C.

Attendance at the local Sunday school last Sunday was increased somewhat by visitors from other places, and several of our male population whom we were glad to see, but do not see very often at Sunday school except on special occasions. After the regular lesson, an appropriate Easter program was given, with members of the different classes taking part. Following the session, youngsters

Seven Expelled After Panty Raid

Lincoln, Neb. — (U.P.) — Seven University of Nebraska students were expelled Saturday for their part in a "panty raid" that turned into a riot in which nine persons were hurt.

The disorders Thursday night drew a severe reprimand from the State Legislature and a threat of prosecution from county officials.

The trouble began with a fraternity-sorority water fight.

It grew into a riot on a women's dormitory and sorority houses where male students filched unmentionables, then blossomed into property destruction and violence.

The four-hour demonstration wound up on Lincoln's Main street where students marched shouting "we want beer. We want beer."
