Three Saved From Disabled Troller

Depoe Bay—(U.P.)—Three men and a woman were rescued from the 28-foot troller "The Alice" just before it was dashed against the rocks at the channel entrance here Saturday.

The boat's owner, Raymond Deuel and his wife, Clara, both of Otis, were rescued by a coast guard boat and Hugh and Keith Cook of Sheridan were hauled to the rocky shore by life line and ring buoy.

An observer, Purl Taunton, blew the coast guard disaster siren and the four were quickly rescued by motorboat and line.

Around Hollywood

By ALINE MOSBY

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Bing Crosby, crooner turned dramatic actor, said today he's hoofing his last and has closed the door on movie musicals.

Crosby is back in his familiar surroundings, dancing in a straw hat with Donald O'Connor, Mitzi Gaynor and the sexiest pair of legs in town, Jeanmarie's, in "Anything Goes."

After sauntering through a lumber with traditional ease, Bing sat down in his dressing room to casually observe he's through with big film musicals. "Anything Goes" will be his fans' last chance to see him croon in wide-screen color with hundreds of wiggling chorines behind him.

Wants Comedy
"Well, if someone came up with a great musical maybe I'd do it, but as far as I know this is the last," he said.

"I'd like to do a good romantic comedy. Like 'It Happened One Night.' Or stories with kids, something like little league baseball. I feel I've done all I can with musicals. I'll never be a dancer, not at my age.

"This picture, for example, has 11 or 12 numbers, at 4 1/2 minutes apiece. That's 45 minutes of music and doesn't leave time for much of a story, not much chance to develop any comedy."

Bing doesn't mean he'll never sing again on the screen. He still likes "stories with two or three songs." He sang even in the heavy drama that won him an Oscar nomination, "The Country Girl."

Snaring that honor plus public acclaim for his tragic part admittedly influenced Bing's decision to get away from big musicals. In fact, he still talks happily about "The Country Girl."

"Someone just sent me a review of 'The Country Girl' from Canada," he said. "The critic said he thought the picture should have won the Academy Award. He said he thought they should re-count the votes.

"Oh, I still get a lot of letters about the Academy awards," the loser said with a grin.

The man who is the only full-fledged institution in Hollywood appears thinner since his recent operation. The lines around his blue eyes are beginning to show, but with age the millionaire singer has mellowed. He affably talks to the press these days and seems happy and friendly.

"Musicals are tiring and straight pictures are easier," he said. "I never did any acting in 'The Country Girl.' I just did what the director told me.

"Another thing, in other pictures you don't have to wear any makeup. I never did like make-up. It itches and gets hot."
