OSC Coach Says Qualities Needed On Hoop Court Can Teach Players To Meet Problems Out of School

Qualities acquired and required for successful play on the basketball court can teach young men how to meet problems out of school. That was the thought left by Amory T. (Slats) Gill last night at a dinner honoring the Medford high school hoop squad.

SLATS GILL
Addresses Dinner Here

Gill, head basketball coach at Oregon State college, was main speaker at the Medford Lions club banquet at Jackson hotel.

He stressed the need for ability of a player to submerge himself into others, to lose thought of himself, to play for the team and to realize that "it is people who make things go." Those same characteristics, Gill declared, make a man successful in later life and enable him to get the fuller values of life.

Hardest role on a basketball team, Gill said, is the role of a substitute. He brought out that it is hard for a boy who was a star player in high school to come to college and meet competition, forget himself, be submerged and still aspire to play. But, Gill asserted, "No team is better than its substitutes. They build morale." And he added the only way to get a better job is to handle one's own better than any other person.

Industries Proselyte

Gill also told how industry and business are proselyting athletes as employees even in the manner that colleges seek athletic talent.

The coach also emphasized that it takes complete concentration to play the game well.

While Gill did not minimize the role of the coach, he stated that there are no "Houdini's" in the coaching business and asserted that "the thing that goes" comes from the work of the people in the organization, in basketball as in anything. That he said is what has "made" basketball at Oregon State.

That "little something" which makes a champion is very difficult to determine, according to Gill. But he said that his OSC boys this year had it. He spoke of the good balance of the club. The coach reported that he always felt Bill Toole of the Beavers should be a good player and in the last five games of the season he lived up to expectations. He also said that in the last games of the season nobody had a better player than Tex Whiteman of OSC.

Played Good Game

Gill said he felt that the Beavers played a good game against University of San Francisco in the western regional NCAA playoffs. He classified the Dons as better than the great Washington crew with Bob Houbregs. He termed Bill Russell "the best defensive man we've seen on the coast."

The OSC mentor spoke of the USF clash as a game the Beavers might have won. If the Beavers had won, it would have had to have been played "down to the wire," he said. At this point he mentioned a satisfaction that comes in athletes to know all on a team did the best they could.

Gill also discussed basketball rules aimed at big men, including the 12-foot free throw lane. "Coaches are inclined to legislate against things they can't handle," he remarked. "I don't know what it will do to the game." However, he stated that he didn't think the premium will ever be taken off big men. The 12-foot rule will make timing more difficult but "it will be worked out," the mentor predicted.

Place for Small Man

Despite the premium on big men, there is also a place for the small fast man, Gill reported. The coaching problem is to get the right balance.

The speaker asserted the opinion that the game of basketball affords more passive recreation than any other sport. He told how spectators can "lose themselves thoroughly" for two hours. He described how tension from competition moves from the court back into the crowd. The only problem now in basketball, according to Gill, is to get enough room to seat people.

Medford High Hoop Coach Frank Roelandt introduced members of the Black Tornado squad. At the dinner were Bill Cochran, Warren Deakins, Dick McLaughlin, Lloyd Cearley, Ed McCullough, Larry Copple, Glen Peterson, John Foust, Jerry Kalapus, Bob Tisdel and Frank Rector and Manager Don Gray. Players Bud Kastner and Ed Reinking were unable to attend.

Ten drugs developed within the last 20 years are credited with saving as many as 10,000,000 lives.

Fred Bujack Has Lead in All-Events

Fort Wayne, Ind. — (U.P.) — Fred Bujack looked up today, and suddenly there was no one ahead of him. He sat alone atop the all-events divisions of the American Bowling Congress tournament after the kind of night bowlers dream about.

Bujack, of the Pfeiffer's Beer team of Detroit, powered his way into the all-events lead, took second in the singles division, and guided his squad into the open division lead with a masterful exhibition of bowling.

The excitement over his bowling rivaled the interest building up for today's meeting by tourney officials to hear final appeals for the site of the 1957 championships. Delegations from Fort Worth, Tex., and Miami, Fla., will put in bids. Rochester, N. Y., has already been awarded the 1956 tourney.

Bujack's all-events total was 1,993, displacing Ed Markulis, Cuyahoga Falls, O., who had 1,960. His team event aggregate was 627 and sparked Pfeiffer's into the open division lead with 3,136.

Missed Perfect Game

In the singles, Bujack missed a perfect game when he hit the pocket solid while aiming for his eighth straight strike. But he still rolled games of 279, 212, and 244 to fashion a 735 total, second only to Eddie Gerzine of Milwaukee with 738. Bujack also rolled a 631 in doubles.

Hall of Fame members Herb Lange of Watertown, Wis., and Mort Lindsey of Stamford, Conn., had the best of yesterday's double scores, a 1213 total. But they failed to total 1260, which was needed to break the top ten.

In other action, Bill Urquhart, Seattle, Wash., moved into seventh place in the single with a 693 on games of 221, 247 and 225. Finley Realty Co., Houston, Tex., posted a 2,891 open division total to lead all other late competitors last night.

Earlier, John Snyder, Stubenville, Ohio, caused a brief flurry of excitement when he ran up a string of nine strikes before a 4-7 leave in the 10th left him with a 275 game in the singles. Snyder wound up with a 645 series, well out of the money.

Saperstein Fires Tatum

Chicago —(U.P.)— Goose Tatum the clown prince of basketball and at one time the highest paid player in the game, has been fired from the Harlem Globetrotters by owner coach Abe Saperstein.

Saperstein said Wednesday he had unconditionally released the veteran center for going AWOL and would not renew his contract.

The long-armed, solemn-faced center was suspended March 15, Saperstein said, "because of repeated violations of team rules, climaxed by his unauthorized absence from the squad through a series of seven advertised and scheduled appearances."

Saperstein apparently hoped the "Goose," known for his crowd-pleasing antics and great ball-handling, would ask for reinstatement.

But, Saperstein said, "Tatum has not been in touch with me since I suspended him."

Jack Rabbit Brooklyn Dodgers Knot Record With 9th Consecutive Victory

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Those jack rabbit Brooklyn Dodgers may be clear out of sight before you can say Jack Robinson.

Winners of nine straight games already, the Dodgers can establish a new modern major league record for fast getaways by defeating the Phillies today for their 10th victory in a row since the bell rang.

The Dodgers tied the record of nine in a row held jointly by the New York Giants, St. Louis Browns and themselves when they came from behind to overtake the Phillies, 3-2, Wednesday night. They looked so good in winning that even their ultra-conservative skipper, Walt Alston, couldn't contain himself.

"This is the first time since I've taken over the club that it has ever played this well in the three important departments — hitting, pitching and fielding," Alston declared.

Ample Reason to Glow

The usually solemn Brooklyn boss had ample reason to glow inasmuch as the world champion Giants are now six games behind the Dodgers and the second place Milwaukee Braves are two-and-a-half games to the rear.

Brooklyn beat the Phillies the hard way after falling behind, 2-0, to them Wednesday night. Steve Ridzik held the Dodgers hitless until Sandy Amoros doubled with two out in the sixth. Then he walked two men in the seventh, hit Jackie Robinson with a pitch, and walked Duke Snider to force in a run. Lynn Lovenbuth replaced Ridzik and was greeted by Gil Hodges' two-run single.

All told, Brooklyn made only three hits, but they were enough for Billy Loes to register his second win of the year even though Clem Labine relieved him in the eighth.

Cubs Fading

Bobby Thomson was the big man in Milwaukee's 9-5 decision over the fading Chicago Cubs. Thomson drove in five runs with a grand-slam homer and a single with the bases full. Lew Burdette was the winner but rookie Humberto Robinson came on from the bullpen in the ninth to strike out Hank Sauer with the bases loaded to save Burdette's second triumph.

Left-hander Louis Arroyo of the Cardinals made an auspicious major league debut, holding the Redlegs to five hits in the seven and two-third innings he worked and getting credit for a 3-0 victory. Herb Moford, another rookie hurler, held the losers in check over the last one-and-one-third innings. Joe Frazier hit a two-run homer off loser Art Fowler in the fourth inning.

The poor Pirates apparently were on the road to their first victory of the season with a 3-0 lead over the Giants but rain postponed the game after Felipe Montemayor bashed a three-run homer off Ruben Gomez. Dick Littlefield had worked three scoreless frames for the Bucs and contributed a single, too.

Baltimore Wins First

Baltimore registered its first victory of the American League season after six successive setbacks by beating New York, 6-3, as Erv Palica and Ray Moore collaborated on a six-hit pitching job. Two ex-Yankees, catcher Hal Smith and shortstop Willie Miranda, figured prominently in the Orioles' triumph. Smith connected for a two-run homer in the fifth and Miranda sparkled afield, making three spectacular stops and figuring in two key double plays. Bob Grim suffered his second loss. Palica was the winner.

Willard Nixon of the Red Sox pitched a neat five-hitter to beat the Senators, 1-0, and move Boston a game and a half in front in the American League. Boston got to Chuck Stobbs for its only run in the fourth on a pair of scratch hits and rookie Norm Zauchin's single.

Seattle, Oakland Cop PCL Scraps; Portland Stymied

By PETER HAYES
United Press Sports Writer

Excellent pitching by Jehosie Heard and Al (Two-gun) Gettel featured the only two games played in another rain-abbreviated Pacific Coast League slate Wednesday night.

Heard yielded only two hits in southpawing Seattle to a 3-0 win over Sacramento's league-leaders. And Gettel finally registered his first win after dropping three in a row as Oakland flattended Los Angeles, 6-2, on six-hit pitching.

But in Portland and San Francisco the box-office took another beating from the rain. The Beavers were stymied for the second straight day in their efforts to launch the home season with a day-night doubleheader against San Diego. The Seals-Hollywood game also was rained out for the second night in a row.

Rain-soaked Beavers

Ten games have been washed out since Sunday and Portland was to have played in six of them. The Beavers were to try again today to play the inaugural split double-header but the weatherman wasn't too hopeful, either in the Rose City or in San Francisco.

Heard 1-1 was in complete control in Seattle as he forced the Oaks to hit into five double plays and sent the 543 spectators home after an hour and 35 minutes of play. He faced only 26 official batters.

A chilled Los Angeles crowd of 1028 saw the Oaks give Gettel stout support by rapping George Piktuzis 1-1, Bill Tremel and Bob Zick for 13 hits.

Gary Lewis, junior javelin thrower for the Medford high track crew, is determined to speak cautiously from now on.

An alternate at the Hayward relays last Saturday, he was getting dressed when another young man came into the dressing room and started to don track togs. Lewis asked him what he was going to do and the other athlete replied that he was going to throw the javelin.

That prompted Lewis to ask the other spear tosser whether he thought he would be able to make 180 feet that day. (Eldon Francis, Medford, had bettered 170 feet in the meet). The answer was "I sure hope so."

Then, "where did you get those javelins?" was a query put to Lewis. The Medfordite explained that the Black Tornado got them from Bud Held who holds the world's record.

"My brother makes them, Lewis's dressing room companion reported. "What's your name?," Lewis asked. "Bud Held," was the reply.

Held went out and in an exhibition toss, heaved the spear 262 feet 11½ inches, less than a foot short of his world mark.

IMPROVES THROWING

Despite his embarrassment, Lewis has benefitted already from pointers picked up from watching Held, according to Tornado Coach Bob Newland. The junior, throwing the javelin for the first time this year, has been out around 155 and 156 feet this week.

Newland said that Medford was the only school using the Held javelin at the Hayward relays.

WOOTON TO CEDAR RAPIDS

Derald Wooton, ex-Medford high pitcher, has been assigned to Cedar Rapids, Ia., of the fast Class B Three I League. At last report he was still training at Vero Beach, Fla., but teams were beginning to ship out. Wooton's contract is with a Brooklyn Dodger farm club, Elmira, N.Y., of the Class A Eastern League. He has pitched for Shawnee, Okla., of the Sooner State League for two seasons.

GORBOUS BLASTS RASCHI

Glen Gorbous, ex-Medford Nugget, drove in a double for the Cincinnati Redlegs Tuesday, the final blast that sent St. Louis Pitcher Vic Raschi to the showers.

AWARD EXPLAINED

A good number of people were displeased this writer included, when Eugene high, state titlist school, also won sportsmanship honors at the state basketball tournament in March. A Medford doctor even wrote to the Eugene ReActive club, sponsor of the award. He has received a reply from Molly Chase Northam, chairman of the committee in charge of the selection. She explained the method of choosing the school and made other comments.

Mrs. Northam pointed out that there are 12 judges chosen from throughout the state and that judges are assigned certain aspects of the whole tourney such as team attitude, general behavior and rooting sections.

She brought out that the team attitude judges ascertain only how a team works with other teams and the referees. Judges are given only so many points which can be awarded to each team, the total being a portion of the 100 per cent for each school.

General behavior judges, Mrs. Northam reported, watch only students' behavior at the tournament, stores, hotels, motels, streets, private home and Erb memorial building. Again judges have only a given number of points they can award. Rooting section judges are concerned with behavior. Colorful attire and yells do not count.

Percentage Determined

At the end of the entire tournament, points are tabulated and total points which could be made are divided into points received to determine each school's percentage.

Mrs. Northam agreed that it was unfortunate to have the championship team win the sportsmanship award in the same year but she pointed out that Eugene had always felt it would never win the trophy because of its greater number of students. She mentioned that, if some Eugene high student, who might not even go to the games, was to get into trouble by stealing, drinking or other offense, it would count against his school. Only students from other towns were reprimanded by police this year, she reported.

The chairman spoke of the deflated balls incident at the tournament. She said judges brought this to her attention. By contacting police and other responsible people they were not able to ascertain that Eugene students were responsible. Others sat in the section, too, she said.

Mrs. Northam stated that she believed the judging was completely fair. She added that the ReActive club is trying to make improvements every year.

Rogue Valley Loop Session On Sunday

A meeting to organize the Rogue Valley League for the 1955 season will be held at the Homestead tavern at Rogue River at 2 p.m. on Sunday, April 24.

President Bill Brown, Ashland, reported that four teams so far have been lined up. An eight-team league is desired. Teams so far are Ashland, Butte Falls, Camp White and Glendale.

There is interest in other communities, according to Brown. He said that Cliff McLean would like to form a club at Talent. Eagle Point is to have a representative at the meeting. Central Point may consider, Brown said. However, someone is needed to run the club. He stated that Bill Gitzen is interested in forming a Medford team for the circuit.

The loop wants older men and also young players who are too old to play American Legion junior baseball. Legion age boys who have been unable to affiliate with a Legion club and who have other opportunity to play will be accepted by the Rogue Valley League, Brown said.

Anyone who would like to take charge of a team at Central Point is instructed to contact W. B. Kincaid at the Kincaid garage there.

Special Trophies In Shoot Here This Week End

Special trophies will go to the high lady and the high junior both days in 16-yard events of the Southern Oregon zone trapshoot Saturday and Sunday at Medford Gun club.

For Sunday's 16-yard event there will be a trophy for the high scorer over 65 years of age.

Handicap and doubles events are also billed during the shoot. A total of 500 targets will be offered in Pacific International Trapshooting association registration competition. There will be a trophy for high overall score for the two days and one for the longest straight run along with the routine awards in each event.

Meals will be served in the club's dining room both days and practice traps will be open at all times.

Longview —(U.P.)— Gene Richards, former assistant pro at the Jackson Park golf club in Seattle, has been named head professional at the Longview Country Club to replace Glen Spivey who has taken the job at the Portland Rose City course.

S. Winters Has Varied Hobbies

Shirley Winters, 26-year-old Montana farm girl who does her professional wrestling out of Chicago, is a young woman of many hobbies.

Besides being a top flight mat artist, she is a trick bronc rider on the summer rodeo circuit, has taken a fling at bull fighting, and occasionally takes time out to conduct her all-girl western dance band. And she was discharged a year ago as staff sergeant after a two-year hitch in the Marine Corps.

Highlight of her trick riding career was a performance at the world championship rodeo in Madison Square Garden in New York.

While the 160-pounder likes to follow the rule book while in the wrestling ring, she can turn on the heat and become a rough opponent if her foe wants it that way.

She teams with pretty Jean Elbon to oppose Gerry Hunter and newcomer Bonnie Bartlett in a tag team scrap featuring a three-ply card at Merrick's arena here Saturday night.

Other matches will send "Champ" Thomas against Yoggi Hussane and Buck Davidson in with Larry Presnell. Starting time is 8:30 p.m.

Howard Sixth Graders Edge Griffin Creek 5-4

Dennis Painter, who hurled a no-hitter last week for Howard school, added a one-hitter yesterday as the Howard sixth graders tipped the Griffin Creek sixth in a baseball fray.

He also slammed a triple for one of Howard's six hits. The no-hitter was against Lone Pine. The tussles were four innings.

Howard sixth grade girls defeated Griffin Creek 40 to 14 in a softball game.

SHORT SCORE:

Howard	5	6	3

Camp Fire Girls claim more than 393,000 members and more than 4,000,000 former members.

Medford-Grants Pass Mix Postponed; Rogue League Clubs Plan Scuffles Today

Weather continued to take its toll in prep baseball this week. Medford high's game slated against Grants pass here today was called off and two Rogue League games scheduled yesterday were postponed.

The wet weather previously had cancelled a Medford trip to Grants Pass. No other baseball games are billed this week for the Black Tornado.

All games with Grants Pass in the Southern Oregon circuit have been moved to May. Medford will go to GP on May 4. The Cavemen will come here on May 10 and 12 and the fourth fray will be at Grants Pass on May 13.

Water Around Bases

Coach Alex McDonald said that there was still water and slick and gooey spots around home plate and the other bases on the Medford field.

A soaked field at Central Point forced Crater to call off its Rogue loop game with Phoenix and snow fell at Cave Junction preventing an Illinois Valley-Eagle Point fracas. Crater was to play a doublebill with Phoenix this afternoon, weather permitting while Illinois Valley was to have a single scrape tonight at Eagle Point.

Medford's Black Tornado is continuing hitting practice on the grass end of the field and the pitchers are getting in their running and throwing.

Zulueta Gets Verdict Over Jim Carter

Washington —(U.P.)— Surprise winner Orlando Zulueta, whose jab-and-run tactics paid off in a split non-title decision over Jimmy Carter, today demanded a "promised" second bout with Carter, this time with the lightweight championship on the line.

"I'll give him a title shot—if he can come up with the money," answered Carter's manager.

Zulueta, fast-stepping Cuban who had lost three straight fights and entered the ring at Uline Arena a 3-1 underdog for Wednesday night's nationally-televsied 10-rounder, upset the erratic champion by making double use of a brilliant left jab —to stop Carter's rushes and to roll up points.

"Carter's manager promised us a title shot if Zulueta won this fight," said Hymie Wallman, manager of the Cuban. "Now we definitely want a crack at the title."

Guarantee Sought

But Carter's manager, Willie Ketchum, said matching the two men again for the title won't be as simple as all that—first Zulueta has to get someone to guarantee Carter the money he wants.

"And it won't be in Washington," said the angry Ketchum, still boiling over the official's voting that he called "a give-away decision."

"How can you win with decision like that?" demanded Ketchum.

"My boy led all the way. He won easy. Zulueta ran all night. Zulueta never hurt hurt him. Jimmy never got marked."

Referee Harry Volkman voted for Zulueta, 96 points to 93, and Judge Joe Bunsa agreed by a 97-94 count. But Judge Benny Alperstein thought Carter was the winner, 97-93. The United Press scorecoard had it a draw, 95-95.

Champs Vie On Golf Day

San Francisco — (U.P.) — Four champions will play together over the San Francisco Olympic Club course on National Golf Day June 4.

They are National Open Champion Ed Furgol; National Women's Open titleholder Babe Zaharias; National and World Junior Champion Allen Geiberger; and National Public Links Champion Gene Andrews.

On this day, the nation's men and women golfers try to beat the open champions by paying a $1 fee and playing on their own course, using handicap. Chief beneficiary will be the American Red Cross.

The first room air conditioner (Frigidaire) was sold in 1929.

Prep Links Squad Plays On Saturday

Medford high school's golf team, headed by Larry Copple, will be host to Klamath Falls Saturday in its first team match of the season. Play will start at 8 a.m.

Copple led the squad in recent qualifying with a 164 score while Dick Shepherd was in second spot with 169.

Four other golf events are on the slate for the Tornado. They play at Klamath Falls on April 30 and entertain Marshfield on May 7. The Upstate tourney is set for May 13 at Albany and May 14 at Corvallis. State tourney action is May 23 and 24 at Glendover course in Portland.

Other Tornado qualifiers were Warren Deakins 175, Phil Mongrain 179, Jim Materie 180 and Dick Copple and Gary Kliever each 182. Also on the squad are David Gault, Jim Coleman and Bill Cochran.

Coach Paul Evensen is in charge of the links squad.
