

Private Station Beams Message to Russians

Anchorage, Alaska — (U.P.) — The first attempt by a privately owned Alaska radio station to pierce Russia's Iron Curtain by addressing a message directly to the Russian people was made by radio station KBYR here Friday.

The message was broadcast by the station's news editor, Jack Wandell, as the preface to a regular news broadcast.

"We strongly suspect that a good many Siberian Russians secretly tune-in to KBYR not only to hear our music but more probably to hear what the truth is by listening to our news broadcasts," Wandell told his listeners.

News and Notes From Camp White

By SID HOLLINGWORTH
Several of the members have expressed interest recently in the operation of the Canteen Service, since it does provide the means set up by the Veterans Administration for meeting their needs in the extras of food, clothing and supplies.

Before this service was established in 1948, the operation of the "general store" was handled as a private concession. The intent of the new arrangement was to offer an equivalent to the canteens of the armed services. Difficulties encountered at the inception, in making contracts immediately after the war when items were scarce, and in administration as a branch of Special Services, have been ironed out. The Veterans Canteen Service is a separate branch of the Veterans Administration, responsible at stations to the manager, and coming under the general supervision of the department of medicine and surgery. The entire operation is self-supporting.

The financial load is carried through a revolving fund, permitting a uniformity of prices and services throughout the system. The canteen in the smaller and more isolated hospitals can function below cost of operation through the "chain" arrangement. Headquarters for the canteen service in this area is San Francisco, where matters of policy and purchases are handled. At Camp White, the canteen includes the store where a limited variety of goods may be purchased by members and personnel living at the station. There is also a food department, including the coffee shop, as well as the barber shop.

United Voluntary Services, Inc., will take over duties heretofore performed by the American Women's Voluntary Services, Inc., the advisory committee of the VAVS has been notified. The information was given to the committee by Helen F. Lengfeld, who organized the new group, and the Chief Medical Director of the VA, in correspondence recently.

National VAVS representative for the United Voluntary Services is Mrs. William Zechendorf, New York. The local representatives are Mrs. E. J. Devoe and Mrs. Belle Schenk.

The American War Mothers, of Salem, who have "adopted" Ward A-1, the wheel-chair squad, sent in $30 for the purchase of canteen books for the ward members.

Postmaster Arthur Scarseth will have his hands full this week getting the 200,000 VFW "Buddy" poppies off to their destinations throughout Oregon, which added to the 9,000 American Legion poppies sent last week to complete that shipment, brings the total poppy manufacture at Camp White, for Memorial Day sale, to more than 500,000. The members are paid for this work by the respective organizations.

Legion figures show 33,500 were sent to Alaska, with 293,850 going to posts throughout the state. About half a dozen small orders remain to be filled, Mike Tanzell reports.

Special arrangements had to be made with the Medford post-office to get the VFW order under way.

Franklin Girard, who functions as "managing editor" of Dominions, in addition to his regular duties as recreation director, is having difficulty finding a member editor for the camp paper.

Ross Lewis, who held the job longer than any of the four or five who preceded him during the past two years, decided over the week end to return to California.

The Camp White writing fraternity find the publication affected with something more than "upper respiratory infection." Malcolm Badger, the old telegrapher, agreed to try it for a while.

Bud Ash returned from a whirlwind vacation, touring points of interest throughout the west, in time to take over the assembling of exhibits for the Hobby Fair. He was disappointed when the Fair was called off under the quarantine. Now he is home in bed with the flu himself. Frank Glonning, his chief, made a leisurely tour of California and purchased a house trailer, during his week off duty.

THERE'S STILL WORK TO DO—Dr. Jonas E. Salk checks samples of virus-laden fluid used in production of his vaccine as he returns to his University of Pittsburgh laboratory. He is working to improve the anti-polio weapon so it will be "as close to 100 per cent effective as possible."

Brownell Claims GOP Leads in Indictment Of Labor Racketeers

Dallas, Tex.—(U.P.)—Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., said Friday night the Republicans have indicted more than six times as many labor racketeers in the last two years as the Democrats did in the previous eight years.

The attorney general said before the southwest legal foundation that only 23 persons were indicted by the Democrats from 1945 to 1952. Of these, only five were convicted, he said.

But the Republicans, since taking over, have indicted 239 and obtained 46 convictions, Brownell claimed. Forty two of the 149 still must be brought to trial. He said his office is continuing to open new cases at the rate of 50 a month.

"The conclusion is inescapable that the relationship between the long years with no enforcement of these salutary laws and the flourishing state of industrial racketeering that we encountered in many parts of the country in 1953 is one of cause and effect," he said.

Cites St. Louis Area

He cited as an example labor conditions in the St. Louis area. He said a grand jury report disclosed that the construction industry there "was subject to a reign of terror." That was because a handful of thugs and gangsters had forcibly seized control of certain key labor unions, he said.

Evan Dale, president of the Southern Illinois district council of the Hog Carrier's and Common Laborer's Union who is now serving a 15 year prison sentence, was cited as the most powerful racketeer in southern Illinois.

In New York alone, Brownell said, 13 labor leaders were convicted for racketeering on the waterfront.

What's the actual size of the regular drink of whiskey offered in your favorite pub? Why not get a measuring glass and check on it? A bar on Third Avenue, Manhattan, has the capacity of its glasses inscribed on same. It has one ounce, two ounce and three ounce glasses. A different price is asked for each. A clever idea. Has proven very popular with the cafe's clientele.

Longevity

"I am 62," writes a Brooklynite. "How can I prolong my life so I may see the Dodgers win a World Series, another filly win the Kentucky Derby and get my television set paid for?" Well, sir, as a starter I suggest you read the book titled "How to Live a Century," by Dr. James Martin Peebles. This was written when Doctor Peebles was 62. He lived thirty-eight years more, passing on at 100. He was born in 1822 and died in 1922.

Graceful Eating

How does your wife look when eating? For example, when eating spaghetti? A clever woman, after long and conscientious practice, can eat spaghetti gracefully. However, no woman can possibly continue to look charming while eating corn on the cob. That is why that delightful delicacy is rarely served at dinner parties.

Her Technique

Feminine subscriber says her technique is to "keep her husband guessing" as to whether she loves him. This she says "keeps him on his toes." Perhaps it does. It also probably keeps his mind off his business at times. It is a stupid and selfish way to treat a husband.

Suggestion

The average automobile owner and his wife spend 95 per cent of the time riding on the front seats of the car. So why ing originated, Brownell said, in Kansas City and St. Louis; Springfield and Chicago, Ill.; Detroit, St. Paul, Cleveland, New Orleans, Boston, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, Seattle, Las Vegas, New York City, Jersey City, Providence, R. I.; Louisville, Ky. and Washington, D. C.

have the most comfortable seats in the rear? Why not make the front seats a little more spacious and comfortable plus plenty of leg room for the lengthy auto-ists?

Bearded Ball Club

Ever see the House of David baseball team perform? A very clever diamond aggregation. Do you know why House of David members wear beards? They do so because in the Bible, Old Testament, Book of Leviticus, it says: "Thou shalt not round the corners of thy beard nor mar the corners of thy hair."

Young Mothers

Recently reported was a case of a 14 year old female who gave birth to twins. That's certainly very young to feature in a double blessed event. However, it is not the United States record. That is still held by Mrs. Frank Krause of Pueblo, Colo., who gave birth to twins at 11.

Almost Confidential

One of my favorite desserts is "apple pie a la Will Rogers." This is made with apples, raisins, orange peel and cinnamon. With it goes a large piece of American cheese on the side... Ever meet a girl named Mignonette? Neither have I. But it certainly is a pretty name. Besides it means "little darling."

Blondes

To refer to all red haired women as "Titian blondes" is erroneous. The real Titian blonde is a distinct type. Also very rare. Her hair is "Titian red." That is a sort of red-yellow.
