

'DAUNTLESS' DEVERE—Crew of raft Lehi study weather conditions aboard craft at Oakland, Cal., after they postponed their departure on trip to Hawaii. Voyage is warm-up for another, and longer, voyage. Baker wants to sail 19 thousand miles from Jerusalem to Central America to prove that priest named Lehi made similar journey and started Mzvan civilization. Reason for postponement of departure was because of rough water—inside the bay.

William Auel Takes Railroad Safety Cattle Association Awards Presented Secretary's Post

Washington (U.P.)—Half a century ago a 21½-year-old Nebraska boy concluded it was time to see the world, so he shouldered his sand box shovel and lit out.

Presently he came upon a main-line railroad and decided that the ties between the tracks would make a swell foundation for a rock castle.

He was busy with his construction job when a freight train came roaring into view. The engineer applied the brakes. The alert fireman scrambled to the engine pilot, leaned over and scooped the child clear just as the locomotive rumbled over the spot.

The boy was unhurt, but the fireman, losing his grip, fell beneath the train. Both arms were broken and one foot was crushed so badly it had to be amputated.

Later, that fireman was presented the Presidential Medal of Honor by Theodore Roosevelt. Thus he became the first recipient of the railroad safety award established by act of Congress in 1905 "to promote the security of travel upon railroads."

George H. Poell, the heroic fireman of the St. Joseph & Grand Island Railway, was the first among 56 trainmen to be so honored.

Almost every type of railroad worker is represented in the honor list, but the largest number of citations have been bestowed on train service employees. Thirty-seven of the total saved persons who for some reason or another showed up in the path of oncoming trains.

Open House Slated At New Talent High

Modern color dynamics have been used on the interior, and the exterior will be painted a light green after receiving a sand finish. Landscaping of the grounds will be done in the near future with the cooperation of the Talent Garden club.
