Washington — (U.P.) — A frequent whispered warning around the floor of the House of Representatives is:

"Jiggers, man! Get your foot off the arm of your chair. Yonder comes old George."

"Old George" is the Mr. Manners of the House, and now his colleagues tend to their etiquette when he is about.

Rep. George Anthony Dondero, the Republican from Royal Oak, Mich., took the members to task recently in a right from the shoulder speech on the subject of floor behavior.

"The response," the Michigan law maker said in a chat we had, "has been gratifying."

The Chamber, the way Dondero sees it, represents the forum of the American people and the members ought to keep that in mind and conduct themselves like gentlemen.

Criticism Heard

In his speech, the congressman said: "Members who have served here any length of time have heard with chagrin and embarrassment the harsh criticism from the visitors directed at what appears to them a lack of reverence, dignity and respect for this historic chamber."

The gray-haired, dignified Republican jacked up his friends on the floor about reading newspapers during the sessions, straying in and out of the Chamber, walking in front of whomever is speaking, and generally playing hob with good manners.

Once, while Dondero was speaking, the chair had to rap for order to cut down the din in the back of the hall.

Rules Said Unstudied

"Trouble is," he told me, "the members haven't studied the rules. There is a rule against smoking any place in the Chamber. You fellows in the press gallery don't do it. But members go behind the rail in the back and drag away at cigarettes. And they address one another as 'John' or 'Harry' or plain 'you.' It's disrespectful. It should be the 'gentleman from Missouri,' or wherever."

The Michigan representative has received considerable mail from people around the country about his speech.

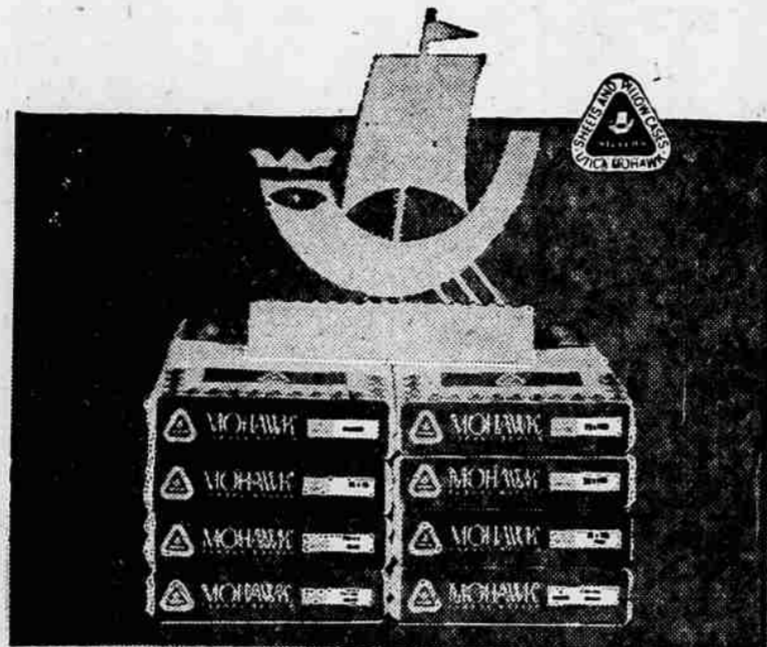

He showed me a letter from a fellow in California, who suggested that a "good kick in the pants is just what most of those fellows need to remind them they aren't in a barroom."

The Red Cross disaster service provided rehabilitation aid to an average of one family every 75 minutes in 1954.

is smart . . . it's thrifty . . .

Did you ever know a squirrel who didn't have a nut or two tucked away? When the pickin's are good, squirrels save a bit of every nut they earn . . . Some people are thrifty, too . . . they save as systematically as squirrels. Then, if things get tough, or if they need money for something they need or want badly, they have it available.

Thrifty people in Jackson County have found that it's smart to save money through Jackson County Federal . . . where savings earn dividends at the current rate of 3% per annum . . . And it's so easy to save, once you get the habit. Why not stop in and talk savings tomorrow?
