

Footlighters Plan Work Party Sunday With Public Invited

Mrs. Max Wimmer, president of the Footlighters community theater group, said today the public is invited to attend a "work party" Sunday afternoon at the Fairgrounds.

Members of the group, their friends and any others interested will work on the site where the building will be situated after it is moved.

The present two-story structure, near the highway, is being cut down to one story and moved about 500 feet east to provide room for the new armory building. Workmen have so far taken away most of the lower floor except the pillars supporting the upper structure. The pillars will be cut soon, and the upper section lowered on jacks for moving.

Will Dig Holes

The Sunday project will be to dig 40 holes and prepare concrete forms, which will be filled to serve as supports for the building when it is moved.

Mrs. Wimmer said that coffee will be served to those attending the work project. The event will get under way at about 2 p.m.

The theater group president said that interest in the Footlighters remains high, despite the fact that activities have been limited by the building being unavailable. But the new, one-story theater, which will be somewhat remodeled and altered to provide better facilities, will be the "answer to our dreams," Mrs. Wimmer said, and added that the group expects interest and enthusiasm to continue.
