Days of the Hot Seat Appear Numbered; Air Conditioned Chairs Now Offered

By H. D. QUIGG
United Press Correspondent

New York —(U.P.)—Heavens to goodness to Betsy, it's a pity what they won't think of next.

They laughed when I sat down. They didn't know I already had been tipped off that the chair was air conditioned.

Sample one of these and you know that the days of the hot seat are numbered. It'll be a joy to sit the summer out, in over-stuffed ease.

That's right — air conditioned chairs, for summer wear, right in the middle of B. Altman's department store. Now you can cool off more than your heels if somebody makes you wait.

Chills run up and down your spine — and on down where you're sitting, to a point just aft of your knees. There are wee, pleasant chills, just right to take the steam out of the part of you that sinks into the upholstery.

"How does it feel?" asked the salesman.

"Cool, man," I replied evenly, without shivering a timber.

"How much does it cost?"

Two Models Offered

"Two models," said the salesman, "$199 and $249. How do you feel now?"

"Little too cool for comfort, at the thought of $249. Can you turn this thing down?"

"Easy," said the man. "The act of sitting down throws a switch that turns the motor on. Standing up turns it off. Then, there's this little knob on the right arm. By turning it, you can cut the air flow off or run it gradually up to a maximum of 90 cubic feet a minute of air between you and the cushion."

The maximum flow, he added, is for very sticky, humid days. On ordinary hot summer days you don't need full power of the tiny electric motor (the power of 1.40 of a horse) to bring blessed cool to the dorsal and nether regions of the sitter. A gentle breeze will do it.

The secret is evaporation. The makers, Shaw Mfg. Co., shy away from calling the chair air conditioned because the air it shoves between your sitting parts and the upholstery is room temperature—not cooled. But it's moving fast enough to carry off body heat and provide the coolness that comes with evaporation of excess moisture. They call it "air chair."

It works like this: Just under the fabric of both the seat and the back of the chair is a thin, flexible, foam-rubber gridwork. This grid is raised 3-8 of an inch above a rubber base, and the air scoots through that flat space, part of it seeping through the fabric. The motor, with blowers attached, is built into the chair bottom, where seat and back meet.

The chair the reporter tried

Final Atomic Blast Schedules Tuesday

Las Vegas, Nev. —(U.P.)—The 14th and final blast of the 1955 atomic test series may be held before dawn tomorrow if scientists meeting today decide that weather conditions appear favorable.

The shot, described as a "nominal" one, originally was scheduled for last Friday at the near-by proving grounds. It was set forward to today but adverse wind and cloud conditions resulted in postponement.

As in the major civil defense test last Thursday, the final shot will be set off from a 500 foot tower. A spokesman said he expected the device would produce a blast equivalent to about 30,000 tons of TNT.

was a sample. Sale models will arrive in a couple of weeks. The makers to put them in all major cities but figure they'll be able to supply only New York this summer.

Now, they're working on putting the same moving-air grid into a mattress. For the future—sleep cucumber-cool.

Auto-Truck Crash Claims Four Lives

Woodbury, N.Y. —(U.P.)—Four persons, including two little girls in their first communion dresses on their way to a Mother's Day party, were killed Sunday in an automobile-truck crash.

Two other passengers in the car were seriously injured and the two men in the truck were treated for shock.

Police identified the dead as Emil Rossi, 40; her daughter, Linda, 7; Mrs. Rose Lusardi, 37, Rossi's sister, and her daughter, Tina, 6, all of Brooklyn.

The girls were wearing the dresses in which they made their first communion Saturday, and were going to their grandparents' home for a Mother's Day dinner.

The accident occurred when the Rossi car and the truck, operated by Nicholas Calia, 33 skidded on a rain-soaked street and crashed head-on.

Omaha, Neb. —(U.P.)—A N. Omaha has a patent pending on a "tea bag squeezer" that not only squeezes out the last drop of tea from the bag but also covers the cup so the tea will stay warm longer.
