

They'll Do It Every Time

Around Hollywood

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Hollywood does not hand Oscars or beauty prizes to Marjorie Main, but "Ma Kettle" proudly reported today she is a pin-up queen in Europe.

The town's admitted most unglamorous actress is back at Universal-International Studio to begin the eighth "Ma and Pa Kettle" movie. A doubt as to continuing the series vanished, she says, on her first trip to Europe.

"People stopped me on the street," she said. "When I got off the train they called 'Ma Kettle.' In Florence, Italy, I went to a Ma Kettle movie and 30 people stood around my seat and grinned."

"I never dreamed I was known in Europe. It was kinda nice."

Brownell Accused
By Publisher Group

Chicago — (U.P.) — The President of the American Newspaper Publisher's Association has accused Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Brownell Jr. of making the decision to "haul the press into court."

Richard W. Slocum attacked the Justice Department's proposed anti-trust suit against certain newspaper practices in a speech before the National Newspaper Promotion Association's 25th annual convention. The suit, charging price-fixing in the long standing advertising agency recognition system, is an attempt to "saddle the press with a continuing injunction," Slocum said.

The Justice Department refused to discuss the case unless the ANPA agreed beforehand to a consent decree, he charged.

Honduran Missionary
Will Speak Friday

The Rev. Lee Irons, missionary to Honduras, will speak Friday, May 14, at the First Baptist church, North Central ave. at Fifth st., at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Irons and his family are missionaries under the Conservative Baptist Home Mission society and have served for a number of years in that Central American country.

During the past eight months he has been doing deputation work in the United States. Slides of the work in Honduras will be shown at the service and a message will be given by the guest speaker. The public is invited.

Miss Main, now 65, sat in her dressing room. She wore a long, billowing white nightgown and plaid bathrobe for her scenes. She was brushing her waist-length graying hair. "I keep it long in memory of my husband—he liked women to be women." He died nearly 20 years ago.

Besides being a popular star both at home and abroad, Marjorie also is credited with helping save U-I Studio. "Coupla years ago they were ready to close the gates," she said, "when they came to me with this Kettle series. I didn't want to do it."

"I told my agent the script was terrible. But the studio put up a plea."

The first three Kettle pictures cost about $300,000 apiece and grossed $8,000,000.

By now the series has worn out four sets of children. Percy Kilbride, who was Pa Kettle, quit so in this episode Ma visits her brother, Arthur Hunnicutt. "If this goes over Arthur and I will do some more," Miss Main said. "I like the series. We have the same crew, same director, you can relax. Sometimes the stories are corny but I'd stand on my head to make people laugh. That's all I have to live for. I don't want to retire."

The actress often is the butt of jokes about her lack of glamour, but "I don't want to be a glamorous girl. There are enough in this town."

"I don't like to fool around with clothes and I haven't had to go to the make-up department in years," she drawled. A make-up man at this point opened her dressing room door to announce it was time for her scene. Miss Main stuck her little finger in a rouge pot and in two swipes colored her mouth.

"Looks fine," said Ma Kettle and trudged, bathrobe cord trailing, off to the cameras.

Soviet Agriculture
Delegation Approved

Washington — (U.P.) — The United States said yesterday it is ready to let Russia send an "official delegation" of agricultural representatives to this country to study American farming methods, probably this summer.

As an "official delegation" the Russians will not have to be fingerprinted. Immigration laws require fingerprinting of non-official visitors. This requirement caused collapse of an earlier plan for a group of Soviet student editors to visit the United States. They balked at the fingerprinting.

State Department Spokesman Lincoln White said the United States plans to send an "unofficial group of American farmers to Russia."

10 Oregonians
Win Scholarships

Salem — (U.P.) — Ten scholarships at $1000 a scholar have been awarded by the Max D. Tucker scholarship foundation of Oregon, according to Dr. G. Herbert Smith, president of Willamette university and chairman of the scholarship committee.

The winning candidates are Marilyn Hanthorn, Donald C. Hanson and Becky Crispe, of Portland; Norman D. Butters and Doris Pomeroy of Lebanon; Darrell G. Medcalf of Florence; Robert E. O'Leary, La Grande; Charles F. Switzer, Oregon City; Kay Haberlach, Clackamas, and Suzanne Helfrecht, of Pendleton.

They will study at Oregon State college, Lewis and Clark University of Oregon and Willamette.

The Tucker scholarship program specifically provides that two scholarships each year be granted to Lebanon high school. Further stipulations are that three of the 10 scholarships be awarded annually in forestry at Oregon State college. The late Max D. Tucker was president of the Cascades Plywood corporation of Lebanon.

Monmouth Woman
'Teacher of Year'

Monmouth, Ore. — (U.P.) — Miss Margaret Perry who started her teaching in a little white North Dakota schoolhouse, has been selected "teacher of the year" in a national contest.

Miss Perry will receive the award next week in Washington, D. C. Going with her will be two of her fourth-grade students at Monmouth elementary school, Sue Mull and Dick Peterson.

The contest was sponsored by McCall's magazine. The magazine is not announcing Miss Perry's selection until next week, but word that she had won slipped out at a PTA meeting here.

Miss Perry has been teaching in Oregon since 1946 and at Monmouth since 1950.

TRUCK FIRE

Lincoln, Neb. — (U.P.) — Farmer Kenneth Stickney was awakened at 2 a.m. by a noise that he recognized as coming from the horn of his new pickup truck. Lights also flashed. He thought someone had crossed the wires in attempting to steal the car. But it turned out wiring on the truck was on fire, shorting the horn and lights.
