

Farm Youth Exchange Speaking Here

Miss Dorothy Teel, one of two Oregon delegates to Europe last summer under the International Farm Youth Exchange program, will be the featured speaker this evening at the Roxy Ann community 4-H potluck dinner, according to Glenn Klein, county agent for 4-H club work.

DOROTHY TEEL

Miss Teel, a resident of Davenport, Wash., lived with farm families in several parts of Germany. She left for Europe on June 16 and returned to this country on Nov. 8.

After graduating from Washington State college in 1933, Miss Teel joined the staff of the Oregon State college extension service and was assigned to the Washington county office in Hillsboro.

In addition to her talk this evening, Miss Teel will speak Wednesday night at Bellview Grange hall, Thursday at a public meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. at Central Point Grange hall, and before several groups in the Medford public schools.

Her talks will be illustrated with slides taken during her stay in Germany.

In the 1954 International Farm Youth Exchange program, 117 U.S. farm youths, 20 to 30 years of age, lived in rural homes in 40 countries. They were in Europe, Latin America, Asia, Africa, the Pacific, and the Near and Middle East. In return, 149 exchanges from these areas lived with U.S. farm families.

IFYE is sponsored by the National 4-H Club foundation and the extension service. It is financed by contributions of 4-H clubs, civic and rural groups business firms, individuals and others interested in world understanding.

Annual Luncheon Of Church Women Is Well Attended

More than 250 attended the annual May Fellowship day luncheon and program given May 6 at First Presbyterian church. This yearly event is sponsored by Medford Council of Church Women, of which Mrs. J. Claude Sparks is president. Mrs. J. R. Sides, chairman, presided and Mrs. Sparks greeted the group.

Mrs. Milton H. Akerill, Grants Pass, speaking on "The Responsible Christian Family," stressed the great importance of Christian parents today and the responsibility the mother has in building the foundation for the Christian home. The aim of a Christian father and mother is to develop character instead of crime, she said, and added that if we have enough good homes, we will have a good world. The attitudes of the parents make lasting impressions on the children, she declared. "In this busy world today, with radio, TV and the many other activities, family life with a get-together at the evening meal, saying grace with the family seated around the table and discussing the family affairs of the day, has been lost in many homes, the speaker said. Even in many homes the mother has not time or does not take time to read or have bedtime prayers with her children, and then wonders at the great juvenile problem confronting the nation today, the speaker said.

Every Christian parent must be a missionary to her own child; all cannot be left to the Sunday school teacher, with less than an hour a week for training. Mrs. Akerill continued. Children learn fast and observe their parents closely. Mrs. Akerill said, and cautioned mothers to consider three things before repeating "gossip," is it true, is it kind and is it necessary. She added that if the remark cannot be justified on this basis, it should be left unsaid.

She quoted J. Edgar Hoover in saying "prevention of crime begins in the high chair." Discipline of a child should start early in life, the speaker said, and added that by three years of age, a child knows the difference between right and wrong.

In closing she urged parents not to be "stingy" with their time when it came to family life. Miss Verna Cingcade told of her work as a teacher of Bible in the Medford public schools, stating that about 1700 children are attending classes, or about 86 per cent of the children in that age group. When a child completes the full three-year course, which is only available in a few schools at present, the whole Bible will have been covered, she said.

Miss Cingcade was introduced by the Rev. Donald Whitney, president of the Jackson County Board of Christian Education.

The exceptionally elaborate decorations for the event were the work of a committee headed by Mrs. Charles W. Lemery and Mrs. A. C. Pierce. Room decorations were large arrangements of spring flowering shrubs, and the table decorations were of ivy and blue flowers accented with blue bows.
