

'Frightened Man' In Rubinstein Case Dies Unexpectedly

New York—(U.P.)—Authorities formed today on the body of a man who may order an autopsy per Stanley T. Stanley, the "frightened man" in the strange, unsolved Serge Rubinstein case. Stanley, who feared for his life since an unknown killer strangled Rubinstein last Jan. 27, died unexpectedly Wednesday in his fashionable home off Fifth ave.

Cremation Refused

His widow demanded immediate cremation of Stanley's body, but authorities refused to permit it.

Medical authorities said Stanley died of "natural causes" but said they would prevent the cremation until Medical Examiner Milton Halpern completed his investigation.

Stanley told police after Rubinstein's death "this is a paid killing, a mob job and a syndicate job." He then applied for a permit to carry a pistol.

Mrs. Nancy Stanley said her husband has been living under a strain since the slaying of the financier. She said he had been under a physician's care since 1952 but declined to say for what illness.

Obtained Ferocious Dog

Stanley said he was "a frightened man, fearful of my life" because of the murder. In addition to the pistol permit he obtained a ferocious police dog and hired a chauffeur-bodyguard.

Stanley may have been frightened to death. He said at the time of the Rubinstein investigation that "a man" had phoned him and Rubinstein and threatened "to bring in a mob from San Francisco to kill us."

Stanley supplied police in the Rubinstein probe with the names of 10 men who were "antagonistic" to the slain draft-dodger. Stanley probably feared them too.

Klamath Attorney Drowns in River

Klamath Falls —(U.P.)— The body of attorney William Kuykendall, 46, who drowned on a fishing trip, was recovered late yesterday from the Sprague river four miles east of Chiloquin.

Kuykendall left home on a fishing trip Tuesday and when he failed to return that night, his wife, Virginia, alerted state police. Officers located the attorney's car about three miles from Chiloquin.

Tracks were found leading onto a log over the river and dragging operations were started. The body was recovered about 4:30 p.m.

Kuykendall, who had been practicing law at Klamath Falls for the past 15 years, was the son of the late Judge D. E. Kuykendall, former Klamath county circuit judge.

Israel Troops Attack Egyptian Outpost

Tel Aviv, Israel —(U.P.)— Israeli armed forces attacked an Egyptian army outpost in the Gaza Strip early today in "retaliation" for an Egyptian land mine ambush that killed three Israeli officers, an army spokesman announced.

A Cairo communique reporting the latest bloody incident along the tense border claimed the Israelis suffered "heavy casualties" and left behind large quantities of ammunition and explosives. It said the Egyptians had no casualties.

Lt. Col. Salah Gohar, chief of the Palestine Affairs department, said the Israeli casualties were confirmed "by the presence of many pools of blood and abandoned, blood-stained clothes."

San Francisco —(U.P.)— The R. I. Costa Rican vessel whose engines broke down 800 miles west of here, will begin her tow back to Vancouver, B.C., today, according to the Coast Guard.

The Coast Guard said a cutter was standing by and that the ship was drifting, but in "good shape." A tug was scheduled to reach the Rican Star today.
