Crazed Man Hacks Cousin To Death

Farmingdale, N.J. —(U.P.)— A crazed axe-slayer who hacked his woman cousin to death as she and her son worked in a corn field, surrendered meekly to state police yesterday.

Andrew Urban, 50, object of a search by a 50-man posse since the attack late Wednesday, was captured by two New Jersey state troopers.

Urban, of Farmingdale, walked up to Mrs. Helen Gombos, 54, and struck her about four times as she planted corn Wednesday evening.

After the woman's terrified son, Stephen, 17, tried unsuccessfully to intervene, Urban dashed into the woodlands. A posse of state troopers and volunteers was hastily gathered, as Mrs. Gombos was rushed to Fitkin Memorial Hospital in Neptune, where she died.

First Cover Spray For Pears Delayed By Cold Weather

The first cover spray for pears has been retarded until about the first of June because of later than usual cool weather this year, according to Don Berry, county agent for horticulture.

There has been little codling moth activity, and no egg laying has occurred, according to L. G. Gentner of the Southern Oregon Experiment station. Pear psylla are developing very slowly and are not expected to cause any damage in most orchards before the first cover spray, Gentner said.

Berry also recommended spray for English walnut trees which are troubled with an excessive number of dead twigs, or walnuts shriveling and turning black inside. Three sprays may be required.

Spray Time advised

The pre-bloom spray should be put on as soon as about half of the buds have broken open and the folded leaves are beginning to separate. The second application should be made when leaves are well separated and flowers coming into full bloom, and the third spray should follow about 10 days later.

If the weather is warm and dry, the third spray may be omitted.

Berry recommended Copper A compound used at the rate of two pounds to 100 gallons of water, or Bordeaux 4-2-100. He advised use of a good sprayer and thorough spraying of the trees.
