Scientists Find Increased Uses For Old Corncobs

Washington—(U.P.)—The tough old corn cob, long a rural mainstay, does $10,000,000 worth of jobs in the city these days.

It all came about through agriculture research. Scientists discovered during many years of effort that the corn cob, rough exterior and all, is a valuable product that can be used widely by industry.

More than 1,000,000 tons of corn cobs are now used yearly in factory operations and industrial products. The return to farmers and rural cob grinders ranges up to $10,000,000.

Variety of Uses

About half the cobs are used in the production of chemical furfural, which is necessary in making nylon, synthetic rubber, pharmaceuticals, and resins, for petroleum refining, and as an industrial solvent.

The remaining half-million tons of cobs have a variety of uses. These include livestock feedings; smoothing, cleaning, and polishing metals, glass, plastics, and molded rubber items; air-blast cleaning of engine parts and large electric motor and generator installations; serving as a carrier for insecticides and as a constituent of plastics and tread stock for automobile snow tires.

World War Boost

Other thousands of tons of corn cobs which never leave the farm are used—whole or coarsely ground—for poultry litter, livestock bedding, garden mulch, and for filling lowlands and preventing erosion. Many farmers do their own grinding and often return cobs to fields to loosen heavy soils and maintain humus.

The "Missouri meerschaum," or corn cob pipe, represents only a small part of the total cob usage. Only about 750 tons of corn cobs are used annually in making pipes.

Industry began making some use of corn cobs in the 1920s, in the polishing of costume jewelry, for example. The big increase began in World War II. Millions of cobs went into the production of furfural for making synthetic rubber. Also developed was a highly effective method of cleaning aircraft engine and other machine parts, using a mixture of rice hulls and ground cobs in high-pressure air-blast equipment.

The air-blast method later was adapted to low-pressure operation for soft-grit cleaning of large electric motors and generators.

Charges of Murder Face Elderly Pair in Slaying of Three

Ocala, Fla. — (U.P.) — Authorities made plans today to charge an elderly couple with first degree murder for slaying three policemen in a wild 90-minute gun battle Saturday night.

County Judge D. R. Smith said Edward Samuel Lindley, 73, and his 70-year-old wife, Bertha, would be arraigned on first degree murder charges, probably today.

The former Indiana couple shot it out with about 30 law officers Saturday night before surrendering from their modest, brick-block home which they had turned into a heavily armed fortress. One policeman was wounded in addition to the three killed.

States Attorney A. T. Bwie said following the inquest yesterday that "it looks like premeditated murder with any officer who came upon the scene a prospective victim."

Bwie said "It's pretty clear to us that the officers were shot down in cold blood without a chance and without knowing they were stepping into anything more than a neighborhood squabble."

Indictment Sought

The state's attorney said the state would seek a grand jury indictment against Lindley, a retired Indiana school teacher, and his wife.

The couple was accused of killing Sheriff's Deputies Bob Wooten, 53, and Curtis Youngblood, 35, when they went to the Lindley home to investigate a reported neighborhood squabble. Assistant Police Chief Tuck was killed in the ensuing gun battle that followed and Deputy W. G. Ergle Jr., 26, was wounded.

Hoover Dedication Scheduled at Newberg

Newberg, Ore. — (U.P.) — Schedule of events for the reception for ex-President Herbert Hoover at the dedication of his boyhood home here August 10 was announced this week end by Dr. Burt Brown Barker, president of the Herbert Hoover foundation and vice-president of the University of Oregon.

The homecoming of the former president will include a welcome by the city of Portland. Hoover's childhood home, where the orphan boy was a ward of his uncle, Dr. Henry John Minthorn, has been restored, redecorated and refurbished with furniture, some of which was in the old home when Hoover was a boy. Dedication ceremonies are planned for the home, and adjoining park, and an adjacent stretch of Pacific highway west.

Bodies of Mother, Children Located

Geraldine, Mont. — (U.P.) — Chouteau County Coroner Don McGinnens said today a young mother and her four small children, whose bodies were found in the rugged "breaks" of the Missouri river, apparently died of exposure during a heavy rainstorm.

The bodies of Mrs. Alice Philip, 22, and the children, Alice, 4, Carey, 3, and Clifford, 17 months, were found yesterday in a pasture about 15 miles from their isolated ranch home.

The four had been missing since Thursday when Mrs. Philip's husband, Howard, 34, left home for a trip to Geraldine for supplies. He found the family missing when he returned home that afternoon.

McGinnens said the four apparently died of exposure during a heavy, cold rainstorm Thursday night or early Friday morning.

Search for Missing Wyoming Boy Fails

Wyoming, Ill. — (U.P.) — Two days of searching by 1500 volunteers failed today to turn up a clue to the disappearance of a five-year-old boy in wooded hills near Wyoming.

The boy, Russell Dean King, is retarded and cannot speak. He wandered away Friday from other children who were swimming in Holgate Run creek. Since then, the creek has come close to flooding.

Wyoming Fire Chief Bernard Thieben, leader of the volunteers said "We're just about at the end of our rope."

"We haven't a lead, not a trace, not a clue," he said.

Farmers and townspeople have searched for the boy, aided by a National Guard unit and two planes flying overhead. The creek has meanwhile been dragged.

10,000 Expected at Lookout Dedication

Portland — (U.P.) — The Army engineers here have announced details of the dedication of Lookout Point dam on the Willamette river which is set for June 25.

Some 10,000 persons are expected to attend the ceremonies at the $89,000,000 development.

Four U. S. Congressmen, including Oregon's Harris Ellsworth and Walter Norblad will fly to Eugene dedication day. Assistant Army Secretary George H. Roderick will deliver the main address.

The dedication program will be presented from 2 to 3 p.m. with a full day of other activities planned, including boat races on the Lookout Point and Dexter reservoirs.

disarm the woman, her husband just "yelled out" and started shooting.

The couple then barricaded themselves in the house and began exchanging fire with some 30 officers who came up as reinforcements. Engle was peppered with shotgun pellets when he attempted to drive a car between the house and the dying deputies so that it could be used as a barricade for removing the bodies.

Some 1000 shot were exchanged and the house was filled with tear gas before Mrs. Lindley came to the door waving a white rag of surrender. Officers allowed her to reenter the house and return with her disarmed husband.
