As We Live

Skimps On Food To Buy Clothes

A spendthrift shopper can play havoc with a family budget.

(Q) "In a recent column, you wrote about a wife who was annoyed because her husband brought too much and too expensive food when he went shopping for the family. I would like to present the other side of the picture. My wife does all the marketing. She has always insisted that this is the woman's job. Even when I want to help her home with the bundles, she still objects.

"She gets such small amounts of food and often such poor cuts of meat that they are hardly fit to eat. As for vegetables, we live on carrots, beets, turnips, and spinach. Never peas, asparagus, tomatoes, or corn, even in season. It is the same with fruits—never fresh oranges or other tasty fruits just bananas, apples, and grapes. Why does she pinch like this? Because she wants to keep some of the food money for clothes for herself. No matter what I say, I haven't been able to make her see how selfish and unfair to me this is. What would you suggest that I do?"

(A) If you can make no headway using reason, why not try eating some of your meals away from home and deduct the amount from her food budget?

When you come to the dinner table and find tough meat, the same old vegetables and the same fruits you have had for months, get up and leave. Inform her that you are going out for your dinner, and then do so. After you have deducted what the meal cost from the next week's food budget, it may impress her more than all the words you could use. Several experiences of this sort should be enough to make her come to her senses and realize that she cannot cheat on the family food for her clothes.

IF YOU WANT THE BEST JAMS OF ALL MAKE THEM THIS NEW UNCOOKED WAY!

THERE'S ONLY ONE WAY to get jams with full 100% flavor and color—eliminate the cooking and boiling (no matter how short) that cause loss of flavor and color, and reduce yield, too! By using the uncooked jam recipes, developed exclusively by M.C.P. JAM AND JELLY PECTIN, the usual cooking and boiling are done away with, your jams are perfect in flavor and color, and you use less fruit and sugar yet get more jam — a pint for each cup of fruit! What's more... if berries are scarce or high priced, you can always use frozen berries and get as many as 13 glasses (each ½ lb.) for less than 15¢ a glass! Complete recipes for making M.C.P. uncooked jams with either fresh or frozen fruits and berries are in every package (3½ oz.) of dependable M.C.P. PECTIN. (Recipes, too, for making the finest possible cooked jams and jellies, if you prefer that method.)

FEW PRODUCTS HAVE AS MANY WONDERFUL HOME USES, DAY IN AND DAY OUT!

IT'S LEMON JUICE we're speaking of... and the convenient, economical way to supply all these daily needs is M.C.P. CANNED LEMON JUICE. It costs little and is always ready for use without any mess or fuss. It makes wholesome, refreshing lemonade in a jiffy; it's most important for best results in most jam and jelly recipes; it has dozens of cooking and baking uses, is perfect in salad dressings, and makes a wonderful daily "tonic" in a glass of water. You can use M.C.P. LEMON JUICE with complete confidence that it is pure, unadulterated, full strength, rich in Vitamin C. It's NOT "reconstituted"... contains no preservatives of any kind, such as unwholesome sulfur dioxide or benzoate of soda. (When you buy any lemon juice, canned or bottled, be sure to read the label carefully!) M.C.P. LEMON JUICE is so useful and convenient you'll never want to be without it. Write for a FREE Recipe Folder to the M.C.P. Kitchen Laboratory, Anaheim, Calif. (There's M.C.P. FROZEN LEMON JUICE, too. If your grocer hasn't got it, ask him to get it for you.)

DO YOU COUNT YOUR CALORIES?

Then You Need M.C.P. "LOW SUGAR" PECTIN
The FIRST and ONLY Product of its Kind!

With it you can now use less, little, or no sugar at all to make fruit desserts of many kinds, pie fillings, jams, jellies, custards, etc.... make recipes that meet the rigid sugar and starch restrictions of diabetic diets, the exacting requirements of weight control diets, or simply your taste preference for things "less sweet than usual." And you can make them any time of year because you can use fresh, frozen, canned, or bottled fruits and juices.

Language of American Crap Shooters Amazes Crowd at Monte Carlo Tables

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Correspondent
Monte Carlo — (U.P.) — "Gimme those dice," said the American,

Bridges Again Named President of ILWU

San Francisco — (U.P.) — Harry Bridges was elected without opposition yesterday to his tenth two-year term as president of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union.

Longshore locals on the West Coast will hold a 24-hour stop work demonstration next Monday in protest at the government's fifth attempt to deport Bridges for falsifying a citizenship application.

Also on Monday, a delegation of ILWU members will petition President Eisenhower to dismiss the case.

Bridges is accused of falsely stating in a citizenship application that he was not affiliated with the Communist party.

Dead line Sunday Classified is at noon Saturday; 10 a.m. Monday for Monday; other days 5:30 previous day.

"Baby needs a new pair of shoes." "What does he say?" demanded a Frenchman of his neighbor.

"His infants," the neighbor translated, "lacks shoes."

"And yet he gambles," exclaimed the Frenchman.

"No," said the friend. "It is an American expression. He talks to the dice."

"Such talk helps?" The neighbor shrugged. "In America," he said, "the craps is accompanied by many such cries. Voodoo, I believe."

The American, having rolled an eight as his point, advised the cosmopolitan crowd around the craps table of the famous gambling casino that he yearned for an "Eighter from Decatur."

The two Frenchmen nodded wisely. Clearly the Americans believed in black magic.

Ze 'ard way
But they hurried to back me when I rolled the eight-two fours.

"Ze 'ard way," announced the croupier.

Odds on "ze 'ard way" are 7 to 1. Pity I was only betting the 100 francs (30 cents) minimum.

Although it has been here several years, the crap table still looks incongruous in the elegant, marble-columned salons of the casino so long sacred to baccarat, roulette and trente-et-quarante. It reached Monte Carlo "ze 'ard way."

The management of the time decided that craps would not only attract American trade but would give Europeans a new incentive to lose chips. Accordingly they sent two emissaries to the states and after weeks of study they brought back craps, American style, complete with incantations.

But, alas, gambling in Europe is a silent occupation. Only the murmur of the croupiers disturbs the concentration over the whirling wheels and turning cards. There were frowns when the first players, carefully coached, groaned "yeux de couleuvre" (snake eyes) or "train de marchandises" (box cars).

Craps Table Moved
So the crap table is now down at one end of the low limit salon out of earshot.

As it is, the croupier does most of the talking. And since the French have given up trying to invent a French vocabulary for the game, he calls American terms with a strong French accent.

"Comeing oud," he says. Or

"Beeg seex."

When it was my turn to roll, I decided to live it up again. "Tenner from Vienna," I be-seechd having rolled a 10 for my point.

"How?" he repeated, emphasizing the alth.

"Ze 'ard way," I said.
