

Growth of Chinese Communists Seen Reason for Soviet Bid Toward West

NEW SIGNS PLACED — More than 300 new signs calling the attention of motorists to litter disposal cans are being placed on highways throughout Oregon, according to the state highway department. The signs are placed a quarter-mile from about 150 new green-painted barrels with white signs, "Deposit Litter Bags," which have been spotted at strategic places along Oregon's 7,500-mile highway system in an effort to cut down costs of keeping the highways clean. Several major oil companies cooperated by providing handy litter bags which may be placed conveniently in automobiles to dispose of wrappers, peelings, cigarette butts and so on.

Kremlin Believed Keeping Hands Free For Future Deals

London — (U.P.) — Western diplomats said today Russian uneasiness over Communist China's sudden rise to power in the Far East may be the reason for the Soviet's new campaign of friendship in the West. They suggested that Peiping has risen toward the status of a world power far faster than the Kremlin expected and that the Soviet is tidying up its relations with the West to keep her hands free for future dealings with her huge Asian neighbor.

Parallel Developments

The diplomats based this assessment on two parallel developments in world affairs: Peiping's increasing willingness to assert itself and Moscow's subsequent campaign to "normalize" relations with Austria, Yugoslavia and West Germany. The situation has an example in recent world history. Adolf Hitler at the opening of World War II looked westward to the hostile democracies and eastward toward a growing, assertive Russia.

Hitler's answer was to make friends with one side while he dealt with the other. He signed a non-aggression pact, a short-lived one, with Russia and then fought the West.

Diplomatic observers who suggested this classic strategy as a possible explanation of the Soviet's present policy said the outcome would not necessarily be tension between Russia and China.

But they said Chinese Communist growth still may be causing certain uneasiness in Moscow over the potentialities of the new colossus which borders the Soviet Union for thousands of miles. That long border holds the potentiality of differences over territory and population.

Diplomatic sources said these trends would make the recent Soviet advances to Western Europe plausible and acceptable though the West would remain alert against any Soviet "plant."

'Operation Alert' To Evacuate Capital and 48 Other Cities in Biggest Defense Maneuver Ever Attempted

Washington — (U.P.) — The wail of sirens denoting a mock atomic attack will send President Eisenhower and 15,000 federal workers scurrying out of town Wednesday for a civil defense test.

For the next 48 hours the war-essential functions of the federal government will be directed from secret relocation centers scattered over a radius of 30 to 300 miles from the capital.

The exercise is part of "Operation Alert, 1955," the biggest civil defense test ever tried.

The purpose is to test the civil defense readiness of critical target areas and get some experience in how the government would operate if a real attack ever comes.

The sound of the sirens at 12:05 p.m. (EDT) is the signal that "enemy planes have been sighted. By 3:45 p.m. (EDT), the capital and 48 other cities from Lieutenant Miller has been an active CAP member. She has attended two CAP regional conferences, at Portland in 1953 and Reno, Nev., in 1955. It is felt by other CAP officials in the unit that the summer encampment at Lackland Air Force base will benefit by her experience.
