

'Champagne Lady' To Resume Singing Following Ordeal

Hollywood — (U.P.) — "Champagne Lady" Alice Lon said she would return to sing with Lawrence Welk's orchestra tonight despite the recent outrage of having three masked men rip off her cloths and photograph her in the nude.

The singer, though still shaken from the six-hour reign of terror at her home early Sunday, said she would return for her appearance at a beach ballroom with the band because "the show must go on."

On Verge of Breakdown
Some friends reported, however, she was on the verge of a breakdown because of her ordeal.

Meanwhile, a lie detector test indicated hotel bus boy Joseph M. Cannon, 25, was telling the truth when he denied being one of the three men who invaded the singer's home and beat her and members of her family.

'Erratic Patterns'
Cannon voluntarily submitted to the lie detector test to prove he was telling the truth when he denied taking part in the incident. At the conclusion of the test yesterday, Detective P. A. Poe said "all indications show he is telling the truth."

However, Sgt. Ray Willis, who gave the examination, said there were some "erratic patterns" he wanted to study further. Cannon remained in custody.

Honey Claimed Cure For Alcohol Hangover

New York — (U.P.) — A new cure for a hangover was offered today by the journal of the American Medical Women's Association—honey.

"Honey contains a large amount of fructose which has been found to promote the metabolism of alcohol," the journal said in an article on the treatment and rehabilitation of alcohol addicts. "The fructose-alcohol reaction has also a 'sobering up' and sedative effect on the patient..."

Woman's Plea Fails To Sway Magistrate

Des Moines, Ia. — (U.P.) — Mrs. Robert C. Bell complained to Judge Howard Brooks that if he fined her $20 on a speeding charge her husband wouldn't let her drive the car for 20 days.

"Make him do his own cooking for 20 days," the judge said, and imposed the fine.

Portland Pinball Seizure Forbidden

Portland — (U.P.) — The pinball question here was back in the courts today.

Judge Alfred P. Dobson yesterday afternoon issued a restraining order forbidding seizure of any "non-coin-in-the-slot" amusement devices. A hearing on whether a temporary injunction should be issued was set for next Monday afternoon.

Police Chief Jim Purcell ordered his officers to stop seizing machines yesterday and made 11 arrests. Five of the machines were found on sidewalks.

It was believed the cases would not come up for trial until after Monday's hearing. The hearing could set off another round of appeals to higher courts.

Portland's anti-pinball law was upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Chief Purcell's order indicated enforcement against coin-in-the-slot machines would continue.

DAV Delegates Leave For State Convention

Delegates from the Jackson county chapter of the Disabled American Veterans left yesterday to attend the annual state DAV convention in Tillamook, starting today and concluding Saturday.

The delegates include George Simmons, a state executive committeeman; James Lillie, hospital chairman and VAVS representative for the chapter, and Mrs. Lillie; and Pat Graham, chapter adjutant, service officer and state publicity director, and his wife and daughter.

The DAV service office at 1515 North Riverside ave. will be closed while Graham is away, and while he and his family take a few days vacation after the convention.

EXPENSIVE KISS
Van Nuys, Calif. — (U.P.) — Judge Gerald C. Kepple told Genevieve Dykes, 33, Tuesday that "love, like alcohol, doesn't mix with driving," and fined her $10 for kissing her boy friend as he drove along a busy street.

Warren Honored By Degree at Pitt

Pittsburgh — (U.P.) — Chief Justice Earl Warren of the U.S. Supreme Court received an honorary doctor of laws degree today from the University of Pittsburgh during commencement exercises at which the university also honored its own polio researcher, Dr. Jonas E. Salk.

Mr. Warren was cited for his services to the legal profession and to humanity.

Salk's doctor of laws degree, in honor of his work in developing the world-famous polio vaccine, was the first of two he was to receive today. After the Pitt exercises, he will fly to New York where he will be cited by the City College of New York, from which he was graduated in 1934.

MEDFORD (OREGON) MAIL TRIBUNE—THREE

Portland Teamsters To Vote on Contract

Portland — (U.P.) — Some 800 Portland members of the AFL Teamsters union will vote Friday on a contract agreement offered by some 112 area drayage firms.

Nature of the offer was not disclosed.

Federal Mediator George Walker said the short-haul truckers had asked for the same pay increases recently granted long-haul drivers in the 11 Western states. They also asked for a nine cent hourly increase to bring their scale to the level of the other drivers.

Long-haul truckers, who were on strike for several weeks, were granted a three-year, 25-cent pay package.

Watkins Sees Fight On Immigration Plan

Washington — (U.P.) — Sen. Arthur V. Watkins said today that President Eisenhower's proposals for liberalizing the refugee immigration program face an uphill fight in the Senate.

The Utah Republican said there is "terrific opposition." And Chairman William Langer (R-N.D.) disclosed that letters and telegrams to the Senate Refugee Subcommittee were running 20 to 1 against relaxing any restrictions in the present law.

But Watkins said he favors the administration-sponsored changes and will wage an all-out fight for them. Langer also favors liberalizing the present law.

Watkins guided the present law through the senate against strong opposition in 1953. He considered this success "a miracle" and said it was gained only by making important concessions to opponents.
