HOW'S YOUR SACRO-ILIAC?

Nearly 50 years ago Dr. Joel Goldthwait published the first description of strain of the sacro-iliac joint. (JAMA, 8-31-'07). Until Dr. Goldthwait illuminated the subject the medical profession had regarded the joint or junction between the sacrum or keystone at the base of the spine and the ilium or flank of the hip bone on either side as fixed and immovable and therefore not subject to strain, sprain, relaxation or partial dislocation (sub-pelvic belt or strapping with adhesive plaster, to support the joint in corrected position is then applied.

Although Dr. Goldthwait did not mention it, and few orthopedic surgeons today do, it seems to me that Goldthwait had the osteopaths in mind when he spoke of "slipping"—for they were diagnosing and treating "slipped innominate" (the innominate is the haunch, pelvic or hip bone) before even Goldthwait recognized the trouble.

It is characteristic of the spirit of medicine that the medical authorities discussing sacro-iliac sprain, strain, relaxation or subluxation today not only pretend they never heard of Goldthwait but they reveal their petty prejudice in such language as this:

Central Point

Central Point Grange will meet Friday night, June 17, Sams Valley will present the lecturer program, as scheduled by Pomona Grange. We are looking forward to their visit and invite members of other Granges to attend. All members are asked to bring either sandwiches or cookies for refreshments. Mrs. Charles Taylor has charge of the display table.

A reminder that Juvenile Grange members are still collecting sales slips. Please bring yours to this meeting.

On Sunday, June 26, between 3 and 5 p.m. an open house party will be held at the Central Point Juvenile hall honoring Henry Maury, who celebrates his 90th birthday June 18, and W. K. Parker, who recently enjoyed his 90th birthday. Both are charter members of the Central Point Grange. Grangers, as well as other friends and relatives, are invited to attend.

MOO-O-O-S AND MUSINGS

We don't blame the Chamber of Commerce for having a carload of Texas tourists chased out of the valley for what they said.

No varmint can go around saying that Crater Lake isn't as big as the drinking fountain on the steps of the Houston city hall.

Jaycees Form Group For Public Speaking

The Medford Junior Chamber of Commerce has formed a new committee on leadership training called The Gavel Club. While new to the Medford Jaycees, the group is an integral part of many Jaycee clubs throughout the U.S. According to Monte Stram, committee chairman, it will give members experience in "thinking on their feet."

After The Gavel Club members have gained experience in public speaking, it is expected that a speakers bureau will be formed. This bureau would make speakers available to assist civic organizations during special projects of public interest and benefit.

The first regular meeting of the club will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in the law offices of Robert Boyer. According to advance registration, a large turnout is expected. All Jaycee members and interested friends are invited to attend.
