Grange Party Will Honor Members

Central Point—Central Point Grange will honor Henry Maury and C. M. Parker, who recently celebrated their 90th birthdays, at an open house at the Central Point Juvenile hall Sunday, June 26, between the hours of 3 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Mr. Maury, a charter member of Central Point Grange, owned and operated a farm on Jacksonville Central Point highway for many years. The property was later purchased by Dr. and Mrs. Bert Elliott. Mr. Maury has always enjoyed hunting and fishing. Friends listen with interest to his early day hunting stories.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Parker are 25-year members of the Grange. A retired farmer, Mr. Parker enjoys gardening. He works in his own yard almost every day, and mows lawns about the neighborhood.

Grange members as well as other friends and relatives are invited to the party honoring Mr. Maury and Mr. Parker.

Department Heads Named Yesterday By Ladies of GAR

Simmons Family Returns From Trip

Mr. and Mrs. John Roy Simmons and sons, Mac and Johnnie, 740 Wabash avenue, have returned home after an extended trip. The family visited friends and relatives in Oakland, San Jose and Los Angeles, and later went to Memphis, Tenn., and to Mississippi.

The Simmons also visited Juarez, Mexico, and New Orleans, and returning home toured the Carlsbad caverns and made stops in Las Vegas and Reno.

UN Chapter Head Describes Anniversary Session Opening

(Editor's note—Bruce Manley, Medford attorney and president of the Medford chapter, United Nations' association of Oregon, is attending the anniversary UN meeting in San Francisco and wrote the following account of the opening session.)

San Francisco—San Francisco, always a colorful city, is surpassing itself on this tenth anniversary meeting of the United Nations. Upon arrival at the airport, I found people from foreign countries, many in their native costumes, much in evidence. Plainly, mankind varies in appearance as much as does any other species.

Pressure for tickets to the meetings is terrific. While I was in the United Nations office trying to get one, J. Henry Kaiser called. He too was refused. No tickets were to be had. People had begun waiting in line at 4 a.m.

I obtained a ticket in an unusual way. As I had given up hope of getting one, I wandered toward the Opera House on the strength of a rumor that there was an exceptionally good TV available in the Veterans building. When I arrived, the police had already roped off the opposite side of the street, but there was still a walk open to the Veterans building.

People in holiday mood lined the walk. Flags of many nations were flying. A few deadly serious individuals carrying placards urging the downfall of their particular dictator formed a sharp contrast to the gala atmosphere.

This pretty miss is ready for spring in a man-tailored, but feminine, shirt dress. It is a fresh new cotton in tone-on-tone print. Helen Whiting designs this youthful cotton with short sleeves and a mandarin collar. The shirt front buttons down to the waistline and meets with a flurry of unpressed pleats.

On entering the Veterans building, I hoped to glimpse a passing plenipotentiary. Instead I saw a sign "Admissions—No More Tickets." However, there was a crowd there, and tickets were being handed out. Fortunately the tickets held out until I obtained one.

On the way to the opera house I walked with a delegate who knew right where to go. The result was that I arrived in time to hear the President speak. Truly it was the most impressive scene I have ever witnessed. Flags of all member nations were in a semicircle around the stage and in front of them sat the diplomats. It was like a color print from a history book.

The President spoke slowly and deliberately. "We, with the rest of the world, know that a nation's vision of peace cannot be obtained through any race in armaments. The munitions of peace are justice, honesty, mutual understanding, and respect for others."

"So believing and so motivated, the United States will leave no stone unturned to work for peace. We shall reject no method, however novel, that holds out any hope, however faint, for a just and lasting peace."

His words rang through the crowded opera house with great sincerity. Applause was spontaneous.

He continued, quoting from Abraham Lincoln, "The dogmas of the quiet past are inadequate to the stormy present. The occasion is piled high with difficulty, and we must rise to the occasion." As our case is new, so we must think anew, and act anew. We must disenthrall ourselves, and then we shall save our country."

The President was this day a great leader of a great people in a great course.

Mr. Molotov will speak Wednesday.

Women Players Win Tourney Of Bridge Club

Mrs. William Kennedy and Mrs. Margaret Alcorn won the annual mixed pairs championship tournament of Medford Duplicate Bridge club played last weekend. The two women scored 218 points in two sessions to lead the list of players.

Mrs. Kennedy and her husband won the tournament last year, but since Mr. Kennedy could not be in the city for this year's match, Mrs. Kennedy defended her title with Mrs. Alcorn as partner.

Coming in second were Mrs. W. W. Stevenson and Roy Pruitt, with a score of 213 points. Taking third were Mrs. R. J. Conroy and Mrs. Frank R. Baker, with a score of 209 points, and in fourth place were H. J. Boyd and B. L. Sanderson, who scored 199 points.

The T. J. Fusons were fifth with 188, and Mrs. Richard Milestone and Mrs. J. P. Vachon were sixth with 187 1/2 points.

First session winners were Mrs. Stevenson and Mr. Pruitt, first, 109 1/2; Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Alcorn, second, 106 1/2; Mrs. Pruitt and Mrs. G. E. Mernin, third, 99 1/2; Mrs. Milestone and Mrs. Vachon, tied with Mrs. Conroy and Mrs. Baker for fifth, scoring 99; George Choate and Al Gilhousen, 98 1/2, sixth.

Second session winners were Mr. Boyd and Mr. Sanderson, first, 112; Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Alcorn, second, 111 1/2; Mrs. Conroy and Mrs. Baker,

Shady Cove Groups Announce Dance On Saturday Night

Shady Cove—Veterans of Foreign Wars post and auxiliary of Shady Cove have planned a dance in VFW hall for Saturday, June 25. Eddie Evenson's western orchestra will furnish music, and women of the auxiliary will serve refreshments.

Everyone is welcome to attend.

The auxiliary met Friday with Mrs. Frank Busch, president, conducting the session. Mrs. Busch read instructions to the newly elected officers.

Mrs. Tom Lafferty, president-elect of District 7, was a visitor.

After the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Ed Leaming, Mrs. Russ Stelle and Mrs. John Collins for both the post and auxiliary.

Next meeting of the two groups will be July 1 at 8 p.m. in Shady Cove.
