PLAIN WHEAT BEST SOURCE VITAMIN B-COMPLEX

Most North Americans, particularly children and youths, get most of their calories from sugar and white flour nowadays supply less than one-tenth of the vitamin B-complex that the brown sugar and/or molasses and the whole wheat flour from which people prior to 1840 got most of their calories. No amount of manipulation of the facts or doctoring of refined white flour can compensate for this fault in the everyday diet. But, shucks, you poor souls with rheumatism, "neuritis," that tired feeling etc., are not concerned about such trifles as long as you have plenty of aspirin, barbiturates and other sense-deadening drugs and your trick specialists and "clinic" racketeers assure you that all the vitamins you need are put back in the flour that comes labelled "enriched."

Plain wheat is of course not the only source of vitamin B-complex but it is the richest, cheapest and most available source, and should therefore be a staple in the everyday diet of the American family. The great drawback is that if you under-

Troops Move Food In Belgian Strike

Antwerp, Belgium—(U.P.)—The government moved troops into Antwerp's strike-bound dock area Friday to unload perishable foods under the protection of heavily-armed police.

Army trucks quietly hauled the first 200 military longshoremen into the harbor before dawn. There was no previous announcement and the government apparently hoped to avert bloody clashes such as those of 1948 when troops intervened in a dock strike.

The wildcat walkout by some 14,000 stevedores brought paralysis to one of northern Europe's biggest ports. More than 170 ships were idled while 30 others were diverted to other Belgian and Dutch and German ports. Another 20 ships weighed anchor and left.

Peron Swears In Cabinet Members

Buenos Aires, Argentina—(U.P.)—President Juan D. Peron swore in four new cabinet members Friday, giving the nation's top police post to one of Argentina's most militant Peronists.

Oscar E. Albrueu, 40-year-old member of the Chamber of Deputies, was named by Peron to succeed Angel G. Borlenghi as minister of interior and justice. The appointment made the young lawyer-politician one of Argentina's most powerful government officials.

The portfolio gave Albrueu control of the federal police, the frontier gendarmerie, the maritime prefecture and the coast guard, and the nation's judiciary.

Adlai's Son Indicates Dad May Be Candidate

Manila, P.I.—(U.P.)—The youngest son of former U.S. Democratic presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson said here that it "looks hard for his father to avoid being a candidate again in 1956."

John F. Stevenson, 19-year-old Harvard University student, made this observation upon his arrival from Hong Kong for a five-day visit. He is currently on a world educational tour.

take to keep a supply on hand and grind your own from day to day, it doesn't come in red, white and blue packages with a prize in every package.

Americans, both rich and poor, ignorant and educated, generally swallow whatever hokum the hucksters invent. The customers are easily satisfied if they are assured an item is (a) easily digestible and (b) nourishing. No other food is easier to digest or more nutritious than starch or sugar.

A lot of readers have "Ben Told" they may get "deposits" of calcium in their joints, arteries, kidneys, etc., if they take "too much" calcium and/or vitamin D. I gather that no one has told 'em how much "too much" would be. I'm sure, cock-sure if you like, that no competent physician will say over his or her signature that the optimal daily ration of calcium and vitamin D I recommend is likely to cause any such hypothetical ill effects. The old-timers who caution gullible customers about "too much" calcium and D have little knowledge of nutrition, else they would know that the optimal daily ration of calcium and vitamin D I recommend, particularly for persons developing rheumatism are no more than one would get in from a pint to a quart of milk and from one to two tablespoons of cod liver oil daily. Indeed, the old-timers considered from one to two tablespoons of cod liver oil daily one of the best remedies for chronic rheumatism.
