The New York Yankees put on a pre-holiday fireworks display in Yankee stadium Saturday night, exploding for 19 hits in a 12-0 victory over the Washington Senators in which Tommy Byrne pitched three-hit ball and blasted a home run and two singles.

Mickey Mantle drove in five runs with three hits and Andy Carey, Gil McDougald and Elston Howard also got three hits apiece. Byrne struck out six and walked only two to defeat the Nats for the third straight time and chalk up his sixth victory of the season.

Bob Porterfield, who started for Washington, was beaten for the seventh straight time and lost his 12th game. The Yankees sent him home early with a 3-run rally in the first inning. Frank Shea, who relieved Porterfield was touched for two more runs in the second and the Yankees added two more in the sixth and five more in the eighth.

Harsham Hurls Three-Hitter
The White Sox came out of their six-game losing streak almost solely on the efforts of Jack Harsham, who pitched a three-hitter and smacked a homer for the winning run in a 2-1 triumph over Cleveland. Harsham struck out 10 batters and gained his third victory over the Indians.

At Baltimore, rookie George Susce Jr., limited the Orioles to four singles and gave the Boston Red Sox a 5-1 victory. Boston got nine hits and coasted to victory over the puncheonless Orioles who now have lost 11 games in a row. It was Boston's 21st victory in the last 26 games.

Cincinnati blasted Milwaukee for the second game in a row, putting over seven runs in the second inning, the coasting to a 10-5 triumph.

Pittsburgh's Pirates, usually more to be pitied than censured, rose up again from the depths of the National League Saturday to smite the Brooklyn Dodgers for the second straight time, 7-6, with an unearned run in the 10th inning the margin of triumph.

The Bucs, suddenly acting as if the standings had been turned upside down, tied the score at 6-6 with two runs in the ninth, then put over the winning run in the following frame after reliever Clem Labine had retired the first two men.

The Giants connected for three homers by Sid Gordon, Willie Mays, and Ray Katt to account for all their tallies in a 6-1 victory over the Phillies. Gordon hit a three-run blast and Mays drilled his 21st with one man on off loser Curt Simmons. Katt's came with none on off reliever Thornton Kipper. Sal Maglie pitched a solid nine-inning game for his ninth victory.

The Cubs edged the Cardinals, 4-3, putting over three runs in the eighth inning on homers by Randy Jackson and Walker Cooper. Lefty Paul Minner, who beat the Cards for the fourth time this season and for the 20th time in his career against only seven defeats, needed help in the ninth inning when Pete Whisenant hit a two-run homer that left St. Louis a run shy.

The Kansas City Athletics defeated the Tigers for the third game in a row, 11-10, in 10 innings on Joe DeMaestri's first homer of the season. The defeat sent Detroit into fifth place behind Boston, the first time this year the Tigers had been out of the first division. Fred Hatfield and Al Kaline hit Tiger homers.

SPORTS

Washington Cheney Studs Lack History But Will Be Tough for Medford Team

The Washington Cheney Studs, young but sparkling baseball aggregation of the Seattle-Tacoma area, don't have the long history of their Medford counterparts but the flashy "kids" contingent already has established a championship and star-building reputation. And that means that the Medford Studs nine should have its hands full next Saturday and Sunday, July 9 and 10, when it plays host to the Washington gang.

While the Studs, Oregon version, have been a going organization at Medford or Central Point since the war years, the Washington group has existed just since 1952 and took the Studs name only last year.

Ben B. Cheney, Central Point and Tacoma lumberman, long an advocate of the horsehide sport, took over the sponsorship of the club in the spring of 1954. The aggregation of young ball players played previously under the sponsorship of the Seattle Rainiers.

Former Hi-Stars
Torchy Torrence, now vice-president of the Rainiers, instigated the team, feeling as does Cheney, the need for developing young players in the state. In 1952 and 1953 the club was called the Rainer Hi-Stars. Both seasons the team won the city and state championships only to lose at the American Baseball congress regional finals in Waterton, S. D.

The team won 38 and lost 11 in 1953. Shortstop Bob Jacobs, still with the club and scheduled to play here next week-end, made the all-tournament regional team at the age of 16.

Under new sponsorship last year the Studs of Washington continued under the experienced managerial guidance of Joe Budnick, ex-University of Washington player. The Studs last year won the Seattle city championship and took four straight games to cop the state crown easily.

Northwest Champions
They went on last year to the northwest regional championship and their pitcher, Monte Geiger from University of Washington, was acclaimed most valuable player. Infielder Dick Naish ran a close second. Team record last year was 51 wins and 15 losses.

Cheney's Washington Studs expect to see action in more than 55 games this year, traveling in the northwest and in Canada. Fifteen exhibitions have been billed with professional Northwest League teams. They are automatically entered in the state ABC playoffs. This year the Studs are in the Cascade League.

Ohio Pilot Wins 1955 Ricks Cross-Country Race; Averages 546.5

Detroit—(U.P.)—Lt. Col. James A. Poston, Columbus, O., won the second annual cross-country Ricks Memorial trophy race.

Detroit, Mich.—(U.P.)—Lt. Col. Staryl C. Austin Jr., representing the Oregon Air National Guard and flying an F-86 jet, was the sixth entrant to land here Saturday in the Ricks trophy race from Ontario, Calif., to Detroit. His time for the 1,945-mile trek was three hours, 28 minutes and .354 seconds. His average air speed was 562.18.

from Ontario, Calif., to Detroit Saturday even though his average speed was far less than that of some other entrants.

97 Women Flyers Start on Longest Powder Puff Derby

Long Beach, Calif.—(U.P.)—Ninety-seven women flyers began the longest all-women transcontinental air race in history at 3:30 p.m. (PST) Saturday by taking off in 54 light planes at one minute intervals from Long Beach Municipal airport.

One after another the small planes took off on the first leg of the race, dubbed the "Powder Puff Derby," which will cover 2,800 miles from here to Westfield airport at Springfield, Mass.

Race Delayed
The race, which originally was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. was delayed for several hours because of poor visibility. The take-off was stalled by low clouds over a pass which the women pilots will have to fly through to the first check-point at Blythe, Calif.

After passing Blythe, the girls will fly a route through Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz.; El Paso, Midland and Wichita Falls, Tex.; Tulsa, Okla.; Springfield and St. Louis, Mo.; Terra Haute, Ind.; Dayton, Ohio; Wheeling, W. Va., and Reading, Pa.

The women flyers must make stops at Midland, Tex., and Reading, Pa. They will fly only during the daylight hours, being required to land at one of the scheduled stopover points half an hour after sun-down.

The planes are all stock model aircraft with single or multiple engines of 300 horsepower or less.

Many Top Pilots
Many of the women entered in the race are top pilots with everyday jobs of flight instructing, charter flying, managing airports and crop-dusting. Others fly only for pleasure, being housewives, mothers, secretaries and teachers.

Phoenix
Phoenix—Mrs. Albert Arnold returned June 29 from Portland where she spent several days with her daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Rae Foster and children. She went by plane. This was her first time to ride in a plane and she said she enjoyed the trip very much.

Miss Arleta Steele is spending the summer with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Osa Waggoner and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wallace. She formerly lived in Phoenix with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Steele. They are now in Fairbanks, Alaska, where Mr. Steele is a barber. He formerly owned the Phoenix Barber shop. Little Arleta came from Fairbanks alone by plane to Portland where she was met by Mrs. Waggoner and then motored on home to Phoenix.

Miss Janet Myers and Miss Linda Wallace are spending a couple of weeks in Corvallis with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Campbell.

Several of the students are practicing with the Ashland City band every Monday evening at the Ashland High school and they play in Lithia Park every Thursday evening at 7:30. They plan these concerts all during the summer months. Those in the band from Phoenix are Fredena Swift, Janet Swift, Joyce Hunter, Kaye Haight, Don Wallace, Charlotte Unruh, Nadine Brood, Rodney Hanley, LeRoy Wallace, Joyce Stockstill, Peggy Smith, Glenna Smith, Marie Mitchell. There are about 60 in the band altogether. Gerald Pierce is the instructor.

Student Acquitted By Convulsed Judge
Vichy, France—(U.P.)—A 19-year-old student, whose late-date rendezvous found him on the wrong floor, in the wrong room with the wrong woman, won court acquittal Saturday from a judge convulsed with laughter.

On the night of May 31, Maurice Fournier, in a slight alcoholic haze, went to visit his lady-love. But his steering mechanism was slightly off and he ended up in the wrong room of the wrong floor of her apartment building.

A woman's scream soon rent the air and a pajama-clad cop appeared, pistol in hand, and arrested the now sober Maurice.

The woman turned out to be the policeman's 72-year-old mother-in-law.

By the time the judge heard the charge, he was so convulsed with laughter, all he could say was:

"Case dismissed."

Men on Downed Plane Identified
Washington—(U.P.)—The Defense Department Saturday identified seven military men aboard a C-47 transport plane which crashed Wednesday near the Alaskan island of Sitkinak.

Three civilians, said to be Western Electric Corp. employees, also were reported aboard the plane.

The Defense Department listed the military men as "missing." Dispatches from Anchorage said a search party reported all aboard were dead.

The military men were identified as follows:

- Air Force: Capt. Summer Mervin Alpert, husband of Mrs. Maudie A. Alpert (residing in Alaska) and son of Mr. and Mrs. Michale Alpert, Boise, Ida.
- 2nd Lt. Tully W. Moore, husband of Mrs. Hudine Moore, (residing in Alaska).
- Airman 1/c George W. Hart,
