

Adenauer Expects To Visit Moscow Around September

Bonn. — (U.P.) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer expects to go to Moscow in September providing the Russians clear up a few points first, according to Bonn government sources.

The Bonn government believes the Russians are genuinely anxious to get Adenauer to Moscow and feel the next move is up to them, the sources said.

Propose Talks
In a note to the Soviets on Thursday, the chancellor agreed to discuss setting up normal relations with Moscow. He did not mention the Soviet invitation to him personally to visit Moscow.

Instead, he proposed "informal" talks between the West German and Russian ambassadors in Paris to "clarify" a number of questions beforehand.

Officials here said it now is up to the Russians to accept or reject the idea for such preliminary talks.

The West German government took the line that any sign of servility in Adenauer's reply would have been fatal and that his starchy, non-committal reply was the only possible one.

Issues Not Listed
Adenauer's reply did not spell out the issues he wanted "clarified" before he commits himself. It was known, however, he wants the Soviets to agree:

1. To announce release of thousands of German war prisoners and civilian internees from Soviet slave labor camps during his Moscow stay.
2. Not to insist on West German recognition of the Soviet sponsored East German Communist regime.
3. Not to insist on recognition of the Oder-Niese line as Germany's eastern frontier.

Dr. Sam Sheppard Claimed Changed Man as Conviction Appeal Awaited

Editor's Note: One year has passed since the strange and brutal murder of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard's young wife, Marilyn, at the couple's comfortable lakeside home at Bay Village, O. During that year Dr. Sheppard has been arrested, tried, and convicted. His family, his career, and his way of life have disintegrated. The story of the events of that year are told in the following dispatch by Richard Fales of the Cleveland bureau of United Press who has covered the case since its beginning.

Cleveland, O. — (U.P.) — It was the evening before July 4. A midwestern family gathered in the living room of their comfortable lakeside home. They had planned an outing for the coming holiday.

This night the young couple entertained visitors . . . neighbors from a few doors away. Upstairs their young son slept. There was a bounteous meal, casual conversation, mention of future plans . . . a baby due in a few months. Then the visitors left.

Within a few hours the lives of the family were shattered. The date was July 3, 1954. The couple was Dr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Sheppard.

The wife, Mrs. Marilyn Sheppard, was beaten to death in her bedroom. The case became one of the most notorious in the history of crime.

Many events followed: Dr. Sheppard, a promising young brain surgeon, was arrested. He was tried and convicted of second degree murder.

The son, Sam Jr., (Chip), was separated from his father and sent to live with an uncle.

Mother and Father Die
Sheppard's mother, Mrs. Ethel Sheppard, committed suicide shortly after her son's conviction.

She left a note saying she "couldn't go on."

The young surgeon's father, Dr. Richard A. Sheppard, died. He had "lost the will to live."

Today, a year later, Sheppard is a prisoner at Cuyahoga county jail still hoping for freedom on an appeal that is part of a $100,000 legal fight to prove him innocent.

"It was a hard year for Dr. Sam," said William J. Corrigan, his chief legal counsel.

But the attorney remained optimistic.

"I believe the killer will some day be caught. Dr. Sam has faith in his eventual vindication," he said.

Friends of the handsome, 31-year-old surgeon-osteopath say he has changed little physically since his arrest. But his once carefree attitude and easy manner have left him.

"He's much quieter," a friend said. "He is very devout now. He reads religious pamphlets and the Bible."

His pastor, the Rev. Alfred C. Kreke, is primarily responsible for Dr. Sam's renewed religious interest.

New Outlook on Life

"I hope I have helped him," he said. "At one time he was subject to periods of great despondency. I think he has overcome the feeling by his readings, and by a new outlook on life."

His only regular visitors are his two brothers, their wives, the Rev. Kreke and another minister, the Rev. Robert Drews, and Corrigan, his attorney.

Sheppard will remain in jail here until he is acquitted or until his appeals have been denied.

and he is sent to the Ohio penitentiary in Columbus to serve his life sentence. He will be eligible for parole after 10 years, but time spent in jail here does not count toward parole requirements.

He probably will know within three weeks whether he wins another trial or goes to the penitentiary.

"Even if he wins an acquittal," a friend said, "Dr. Sam will never be the same again. He has lost more in the past year than he could win back the rest of his life."

Policeman Beaten In Chicago Brawl

Chicago — (U.P.) — A Fourth of July picnic erupted into a wild brawl in which a college student was shot and policemen were beaten with their own night sticks.

Six policemen were injured, one with a fractured skull and two with broken jaws, when they tried to break up a fight between two men at Trumbull Park on the Southwest Side yesterday.

Some members of the crowd of 2500 persons turned on the officers. They grabbed their night sticks and beat the policemen with them.

Fifty-one police squads broke up the brawl.

Search Continues For Marine Fliers

Tokyo — (U.P.) — Scores of American planes searched isolated beaches and mountains today in a final effort to find some trace of two Marine fliers who crashed nine days ago.

The huge sea hunt was called off yesterday after ships and planes scoured some 85,000 square miles of the Pacific Ocean. But another aerial survey of mountains, islands and the coastline south of Tokyo was ordered on the slim possibility the fliers may have crashed on land or been washed ashore.

The missing men, whom U. S. officers believe crashed into the sea June 26 in their F3D Sky Knight jet, are Capt. Hodgen P. Montague, 26, Jackson, Miss.,

UNDERWORLD FASHIONS

Chicago — (U.P.) — Even the underworld is getting fashion-conscious. Tough Tony Accardo, reputed crime syndicate kingpin, startled 300 "business associates" by wearing blue bermuda shorts to the annual lawn party and barbecue Monday.
