News About Servicemen

Medford Brothers Return From Service

Emil and George Knutsen, 22 and 23, recently received their honorable discharges from the US Navy after four years' service. They have returned to Medford and are living with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil S. Knutsen, 1030 Stewart ave.

Both enlisted in June, 1951. Emil was a second quartermaster and spent a major share of his time aboard ship. He was stationed in Korea, Japan, Alaska and the Marshall Islands.

George, the first two years of his term, was at sea and at a Naval hospital in San Diego. While there he learned to play the bagpipe and joined the "Queen's Own" Cameron Highlanders regimental bagpipe band. The remaining two years he spent as a Navy medic stationed with the Marines in Japan. He is playing with the Cameron of Lochiel Highlanders bagpipe band in Ashland, and is considering an offer to join the Army bagpipe band.

AT SAN DIEGO
Jack Gardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gardner, Camp Baker rd., Phoenix, who joined the Navy July 2, is stationed at San Diego, according to word received by his parents.

Births
CRESCENZI — To Mr. and Mrs. Jack, 129 North Oakdale ave., July 11, 1955, a girl, 6 pounds, 31 ounces, at Sacred Heart hospital.

MARRS — To Mr. and Mrs. Herman, 2496 Roberts rd., July 12, 1955, a boy, 7 pounds, 9 1/2 ounces, at Community hospital.

Around Hollywood

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood — (U.P.)—Blonde, shapely Jo Van Fleet has found movie success as Hollywood's female Jekyll-Hyde. She doesn't mind covering up her curves to play wrinkled, evil old ladies. Jo, a prize-winning actress on Broadway, made her movie debut this year as James Dean's shady mother in "East of Eden."

Now she's portraying the over-ambitious unhappy parent of Susan Hayward in MGM's version of the best-selling book, "I'll Cry Tomorrow."

But the much-applauded actress has no desire to throw away the false wrinkles and padding now that she is a sought-after personality.

"I never was an ingenue or the delicate type," she explained today on the MGM set. "I'm no competition to the glamour girls. I never considered myself that good looking."

Character roles are my forte—I'm better at them. I've almost always played them on the stage. Glamour roles are too much of a problem. On TV sometimes they want me to look good, and there's such a worry about camera angles and keeping your chin up!"

Transforming Into Witch
Transforming the attractive blonde into a near-witch is making-up genius. I trailed Jo to the make-up department at MGM where they drew lines and shadows on her face and added a wig and figure padding.

"This is the first time I've worn a wig," she said apologetically. "I've always dyed my hair for a part. It looks more natural. I was a redhead for 'King Lear' on Broadway, a blonde for 'Flight Into Egypt.'"

"For 'East of Eden' Gadge Elia Kazan, the director, wanted a peculiar shade of blonde so I streaked my hair with gray. My hair has been dyed so much I'm not sure what the natural color is."

She completes the illusion for her current role by "making my figure sloppy." As she has figured it out, "an unhappy middle-aged woman loses her style. Her stomach muscles sag, her shoulders are round."

Knuckles Get 'Falsies'
Her "East of Eden" transformation took three hours each day. The character was supposed to be arthritic so her knuckles were enlarged with rubber "falsies." Her fingers were glued together to stiffen her hands.

"Everywhere fans seem to be surprised when they see me in real life," she laughed. "They expect me to be old. They keep looking at my hands."

President Withdraws Whitfield Nomination
Washington — (U.P.)—President Eisenhower today formally withdrew Allen Whitfield's nomination to the Atomic Energy Commission.

He took the action in a message to the Senate ending a controversy that had centered around the Des Moines, Iowa, attorney since his nomination April 1. The Congressional Atomic Energy Committee had been investigating Whitfield's legal activities.

Whitfield asked the President to withdraw his nomination Friday.

Festival Broadcast On NBC Assured

The Oregon Shakespearean Festival has been guaranteed an after-hour radio broadcast over the facilities of NBC, according to Ray Johnson, manager of radio station KMED. Johnson stated that KMED will record the show direct from the Festival theater in Ashland, marking the fifth year such a program has been made available.

Program Director Russ Jamison of KMED added that a feature story on the Festival will be broadcast Aug. 21 on NBC's "Monitor" program.

Andrew C. Love, Hollywood, producer of the taped broadcast, will arrive in the Rogue valley Aug. 9 to work out details with festival staff and company and KMED engineers.

An adaptation of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" will be recorded on a special program Saturday, Aug. 13. Love will then take the tape of the program to Hollywood for release on NBC Aug. 21.

Forest Service Holds Timber Sale

A bid of $719,100 by Steve Wilson, Trail, was high in an oral auction timber sale conducted yesterday by the Rogue River National forest. It was reported by the forest office this morning.

The bid was far above the appraised price of $471,820, and was the last and highest of a total of 130 bids made during the sale. There were seven other bidders.

The stumpage is on 1,936 acres in the Twincheria sales area in the Butte Falls district of the forest. The varieties are Douglas and white fir, ponderosa and sugar pine, and incense cedar. The volume is estimated to be 28,500,000 board feet.

Waldorf-Astoria Sued by Businessman

New York — (U.P.)—A Milwaukee businessman is suing the famous Waldorf-Astoria hotel for $500,000 charging a hotel telephone operator forgot to awaken him for a big business deal but that call girls rapped on his door "day and night."

The suit, by Frederick G. Osborne Jr., came to light in Supreme Court yesterday when the hotel asked for an amended complaint with more details.

Osborne said he stayed at the Waldorf from April 7 to May 20. He said he gave "specific instructions" to be awakened at 9 a.m. on the morning of May 6 but slept through without being disturbed.

This caused him, he charged, to miss an appointment "which would have enabled me to realize a considerable profit."
