Indianapolis (U.P.)—Two of the three Portland, Ore., golfers scored victories yesterday in the public links golf tournament here.

Roy Atkins defeated John Foley of Notre Dame, 4 and 3 and Bob Parry won from Harry Glick of New York, 4 and 2. Gene Maidment lost out to Dick Allison of Detroit, 3 and 2.

Indianapolis, Ind.—(U.P.)—Defending champion Gene Andrews, 42, and Bud Bradley, who is 24 years younger, teed off today in the feature survival match in the third round of the 30th annual National Public Links golf tournament.

Bradley, winner of the 1954 USGA National junior championship at age 17, had as good a chance as any to derail the Pacific Palisades, Calif., insurance agent in his attempt to become the second shooter ever to defend his crown successfully. But Andrews has been chalking some of the best golf over the tricky, tree-lined course.

Andrews was one over par for the 13 holes it took to dispose of Charles Afong, Honolulu, in a 6-and-5 rout Tuesday. At the turn, Andrews was four up and one over par at 37. The next two holes cinched it.

Other "near-par" matches Tuesday included the 3-and-1 victory of Robert Lichtenwalter, Erie, Pa., over Joutet Brown, Louisville, Ky. Lichtenwalter missed par by two strokes for the 17 holes.

Bradley, of Los Angeles, advanced with a 4-and-3 victory over David Leon, Tucson, Ariz. Bradley was three over par at 39 for the front nine.

George Roddy won in 19 holes over Jack Cummings, Alameda, Calif.

New Putter Pays Off
Gus Moreland, Peoria, Ill., eliminated Dick Hopwood, Phoenix, Ariz., 1 up.

Roy Cullenbine, Detroit, the ex-St. Louis Browns ball player, advanced with a 1-up victory over James Sutton, Atlanta, Ga. Scrubulis sidelined Michael Deverant, Glenside, Pa., 4 and 3.

The longest match—22 holes—was a 1-up victory for Mike Borson, Anderson, Ind., over Arthur Cassidy, Peoria.

Lichtenwalter teed off today against Leo Everett, Denver, Colo., in the first of two 18-hole rounds; Roddy met Joe Kocsis, Pontiac, Mich.; Moreland faced George Weishaar, Spokane, Wash.; Cullenbine teed off against Robert Kay, Toledo, Ohio; and Jack Scrubulis against Billy Joe Lauer, Spokane.

First baseman Jack Cooney is the new player manager of the Medford Cheney Studs baseball team of the Southern Oregon League.

He replaces Clarence Mellbye, Crater high coach. Mellbye stepped aside by mutual agreement, according to Bill Askwith, business manager of the team.

Cooney is a former professional ballplayer. He first performed before Medford fans as first baseman for the Rogues of the professional Far West League in 1950.

The following year, playing for Muskogee, Okla., of the Western Association, he was the league's leading hitter. He has played for the Studs since bowing out of pro ball but was not with the local semi-pros last season.

The new skipper, popular with fans, has told members of the squad that he expects them to hustle every minute. Cooney said that he feels the players have the potential which can win ball games.

Mellbye may remain with the club as a player but reportedly is undecided on the matter.

The Studs will have their first tussle under Cooney's guidance on Friday night when they meet Crescent City, Calif., in a non-league scrap at the fairgrounds here. It will be ladies' night with all ladies attending the game admitted free.

Crescent City may prove a slugging team. The Redwood League second place crew blasted the Weotte Loggers 36 to 1 last Sunday, socking 29 hits, seven of them home runs. One of the Crescent pitchers is Tex Gallin, former Southern Oregon collegian.

Business Manager Askwith reported that the Medford club broke even financially in its

Lemley Captures Main At Ashland
Ashland—With a race consisting of 18 cars it was Wayne Lemley in Bryan's 57 that received the checkered flag first in the A-main at the Ashland Speedway Saturday night.

Lemley getting an early lead held this position throughout most 25 laps in order to gain this honor. With the added $50 purse in the big race of the evening, speed and taking advantage of the breaks were the biggest credit to his win. Monty Hall, driving M-3, came in second.

Highlight of the evening came in the B-main, when Chuck Davis in A-1 was tagged broadside on the north turn and was rolled. Davis driving a new car for the evening's race was able to get his car on its wheels and continue the 20-lap race.

Several new cars and drivers appeared on the Ashland track for the evening's race, with cars coming from Yreka, Roseburg, Grants Pass and Medford. A total of 38 cars were on hand.

Jerry Johnson won the B-main, Bob Jenkins and Crook Hunter, the trophy dashes and Jerry Jennings, Lemley, Johnson and Jenkins the heat races.

Manager Alva Perkins reported that the game will go nine innings. It is planned to have each of the CP-Medford pitchers, Duane Sides, Fred Herrmann and Henry Putney, pitch three innings.

The local club has beaten Ashland four times in regular district play and two wins over the Lithians last week and sewed up the district diadem.

Following the tussle Sunday a picnic will be held with players and their families attending. It will be in the Boy Scout area of Hawthorne park.

Waterfowl Conditions in Prairie Provinces Better Than Last Year

Winnipeg, Man.—Waterfowl nesting in western Canada's prairie provinces have produced a good first hatch. The overall picture shows the brood average as being better than six years young, the long term average. Second nesting attempts by ducks which lost first clutches are now in evidence, together with broods from later-nesting species like Lesser Scaup, Redhead, Baldpate and Blue-winged Teal.

After treating on the production angle in the current issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckological", Chief Naturalist Bert W. Cartwright goes on, "Conditions as they exist over the whole range and the duck crop now in sight are both infinitely better than they were last year at this time".

The report states that nesting success has been variable to date throughout the prairie region and among different species. In Manitoba, first nestings by mallards and pintails in pothole country has been disappointing. Blame is placed on floods, agricultural activities and predation. Best nesting success in this area to date goes to the canvasback. Up to June 25, recorded mallard a species which nests over water, broods averaged 9.1 young.

A heavy duck crop from first nestings is reported from both eastern and western Saskatchewan. Yet the famed Caron Potholes study area of southern Saskatchewan, a region with a nesting density of over 100 breeding pairs per square mile, showed only 12 per cent success from first attempts.

The same heavy production is western and central portions of the province attributed to southeastern, south-Alberta. A considerable area of southern Alberta is undergoing drought conditions and some broods have been lost, especially among the Pintails. Canada Geese are enjoying a good year in this region, particularly in the Eastern Irrigation District, where many Ducks Unlimited projects are located.

Swinging to water conditions generally, Cartwright states, "Except for the drought area in southern Alberta, there is ample surface water almost everywhere to see hatches from second nestings safely on the wing. This is subject to a continuation of favorable weather conditions".

Lewiston May Bow From NWL

Lewiston, Idaho (U.P.)—Lewiston will have to drop out of the class B Northwest Baseball League at the end of the season unless the team gets more support from the fans. Paul Wise, club president, said.

He pointed out that in 31 home games, paid attendance totaled about 14,000. He said this figure must at least double during the second half of the schedule or Lewiston may have to sell its league franchise and pay the bill for the community-owned team.
