Reunion Picnic — A reunion picnic for former Gold Hill High school students is planned for Sunday, July 17, at McKee bridge. Those who have attended the high school are especially invited and their families as well. Those attending should take picnic lunches for their group.

Staff Members — The Misses Betty Naylor, a Medford High school graduate, and Pat Rector, a junior student at the same school, now are members of the sales staff at Burelson's Ladies-Ready-to-Wear store. In addition, both serve as models, and Miss Naylor works part time in the bookkeeping department.

Assume Name — Robert S. Patterson, 503 East Park st., Grants Pass, has assumed the business name "Patterson Lumber company," route 2, box 105B, Jacksonville, according to records filed in the Jackson county recorder's office. Paul W. Barcus, R. R. Parsons and O. R. Fritz, has assumed the business name, "Parsons Motors" at 315 East Fifth st., Medford.

Utah Mining Interests — Ed Owens, 1380 Springbrook rd., has recently been laying ground-work and filing mining claims for himself and associates in the Richfield, Utah, area. Drilling operations are already in progress on the Delores river at Uravan, Col., in which the same group has interests. Owens returns next week to Richfield.

Klamath Lake Algae Study Planned Soon

Klamath Falls — (U.P.) — The proposed scientific study of upper Klamath lake algae will start about mid-August, according to Deb Addison, president of the Klamath county Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber has been instrumental in securing funds and personnel for the three-year study which will provide a basis for deciding whether the algae should be removed or utilized and how.

Dr. Harry K. Phinney, associate professor of botany at Oregon State college, and one of the three fresh water algae experts in the United States, is in Klamath Falls this week, laying ground work for the study.

The first year of the study will be financed jointly by the Oregon-California river commission at a cost of $2,500 each. City and county will provide funds for the remaining two years.

Walla Walla Riot Probe Suggested

Olympia — (U.P.) — A "thorough legislative investigation without fanfare" of last week's prison riot at Walla Walla was recommended yesterday by Speaker of the House John O'Brien, chairman of the legislative council, said he would make his recommendation to the council when it meets July 29.

Meanwhile, in Seattle, a former guard said the rioters were intoxicated on whiskey.

Blakely Bishop, 34, said the prison guards knew the convicts were intoxicated July 5, when the riot started. On that day, Bishop resigned but stayed on duty until the riot ended.

Warden Lawrence Delmore said he knew of no whiskey being in the prison.

He said, however, that inmates made up batches of "home brew" or "pruno" after they had gained control of the prison kitchen.

"It only takes a couple of hours to get it going good," Delmore said.

Guard Squadrons To Be Converted

Boise — (U.P.) — Air National Guard squadrons in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana will be converted to all-weather fighter units within the next 90 days, Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson, chief of National Guard bureaus, air section, revealed yesterday.

Wilson told a meeting here of the adjutant general of the four states that conversion of squadrons along the Pacific and Atlantic coasts and the Canadian border is considered necessary to continental defense.

The all-weather factor puts the greatest responsibility on the shoulders of the air guardsmen which they are now equipped with will be replaced by F-94 all-weather jet interceptors. The units are the 116th of Washington, the 190th of Idaho, the 123rd of Oregon and the 186th of Montana, Wilson said.
