Around Hollywood

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Correspondent

Editor's note: One of the biggest movie idols of all time went out of circulation again this week when he died. What does this mean to Clark Gable? Will the fifth try last? Aline Mosby of the United Press details the life and loves of the king of the film profiles.

Hollywood — (U.P.) — When Clark Gable married Kay Speckles, he became a "parent" for the first time at 54, regained his lost feeling of youth and turned the tide of his slipping career.

Aline Mosby

The graying actor kept to himself after the tragic death of wife No. 3, Carole Lombard, in 1942, except for a brief turn with wife No. 4, Sylvia Ashley.

He hadn't starred in a winning picture, either at the box office or with the critics, since before the war.

He was known in Hollywood as "conservative, nearly bashful," a lonely figure who didn't vince him that he was wrong about this by the tactics she was using. I question whether any sensible person would feel that clothes should come before a well-balanced, well-prepared diet for a family.

The New Gable

But since he and Kay rekindled an old flame a year ago, Gable has changed.

A big movie queen once confided that Gable "would never marry me because I have children — and he doesn't like children." Yet the big-eared actor is overjoyed, friends say, at sharing his life with Kay's two children from her marriage to sugar king Adolph Speckles.

When Gable went on location to Hong Kong for a 20th Century Fox picture, "Soldier of Fortune," he bought pajamas for little Joan, 4, and Adolph III, 6.

He returned from "The Tall Men" location in Mexico loaded with "charro" outfits for the youngsters. To his friends he frequently talks about Kay's "wonderful, adorable kids, so well behaved," as if they were his own.

Builds New Home

Gable also has "recaptured his youth," his pals say. The vibrant Kay, 17 years his junior, is a witty, fun loving companion. Since courting her he bought a white, snappy sports car.

For the first time he is building another home away from the 20-acre ranch in nearby Encino which he acquired during his marriage to Carole Lombard. Gable bought land for a house near his and Kay's favorite golf course, the Thunderbird at Palm Springs.

His movie career has taken a turn for the better.

Gable asked Kay for advice on picking his co-stars. She sat in on previews of his two recent pictures at Fox studio. She even helped with the casting of other players in "The Tall Men."

Friends of Gable say "The Tall Men" is "the best thing he's done in years. Now that his personal life is back on the beam, his pictures probably will be better."

Though Gable has been one of the most acclaimed picture idols of all time, his personal life has not won any awards.

As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.

There Are Times When Drastic Action Is Needed

When talking to a person about incidents which are causing trouble in a family brings no results, then a more drastic sort of attack must be made on the problem. That is what I am trying to explain to the woman who wrote:

(C) "I think the advice you gave the young man in a recent column is going to cause a lot of trouble, if he follows it. The relationship between a husband and wife is too sensitive for a man to eat at a restaurant and hand his wife the bill when she serves monotonous meals of cheap food so she can save money from the food budget for herself. Did you tell the man he should let his wife have a few dollars, apart from the food money, for her own spending? There are always two sides to a problem. You have to visualize the other side as well as the one presented to you in order to give well-rounded advice. Poor advice is worse than no advice at all. Better to answer, 'Sorry, sir, this one is beyond me.'"

(A) I cannot always give both sides of any problem, because of limitations of space. But, I try never to give advice without having a clear picture of the problem from both sides.

Then, too, you must realize that a person who thinks he is being mistreated can suffer just as much damage psychologically as the one who is actually mistreated. Whether the mistreatment be actual or not, the "sensitive relationship between husband and wife" is upset.

When a person has tried every argument in his power to point out something that bothers him and gets no action, then he must try something more drastic and more dramatic than words. That was what I was trying to stress in my advice to the young man who had been unable to make any headway in his arguments with his wife about the use of the food budget.

It is perfectly true that the man who complained about food may have felt that meals were more important than clothes and was stingy in the amount he gave his wife to spend on her clothes. However, she could never con-

We'll mince no words.

You can buy a Buick SPECIAL like the one shown here if you can buy any new car.

You can boss this big and brawny Buick Sedan for just about the price of the smaller cars—even for less than some models of the three most widely known smaller cars. The price we show here proves that.

But you can't get anywhere else for the money what you get in this or any other new Buick — and that's something you really ought to look into.

For Buick sales are soaring to all-time best-seller highs this year just because more and more people are discovering how much more automobile their dollars buy in a Buick than the same dollars buy elsewhere.

They find Buick a bigger package of automobile for the money—bigger in power, thrill, in comfort, in ride steadiness, in structural solidity.

They find Buick size and styling an added prestige—Buick roadability and handling ease an added pleasure—Buick brawn and precision an added reassurance.

And they find Buick performance a thrill without peer — for where else can you get the whip-quick response and bettered gas mileage of Variable Pitch Dynaflo?

Maybe you'd better drop in for a visit and see how much real automobile and fun and deep-down satisfaction your money buys in Buick.

Whether you want the low-priced SPECIAL, the high-powered CENTURY, the extra-roomy SUPER, or the custom-built ROADMASTER — you'll find the price more than right and the trade-in deal terrific. Can you make it today?

*Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.

DID YOU KNOW

- that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below any other car of 188 horsepower and 122-inch wheelbase?
- that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below some models of the three well-known smaller cars?
- that the Buick SPECIAL gives you more pounds of automobile than any other car at its low price?

Thrill of the year is Buick
