

Garden Ceremony Weds Miss Tyler And Mr Wright

A neighbor's flower garden was the scene of the marriage of Miss Sharon Tyler and Airman Second Class Thomas A. Wright last June 27 at 7:30 in the evening.

Miss Tyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Tyler, 811 West Second street, and Mr. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wright, 1837 Minear road, were wed in the garden of the Curtis Dentons, 807 West Second street, by the Rev. W. R. Hurn of the Church of the Nazarene.

Mr. Tyler gave his daughter in marriage and sang wedding songs.

The bride's gown was of white brocaded nylon. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink roses.

Miss Barbara Tyler and Denton Brown ushered the wedding guests.

After the double ring ceremony, the bride's parents held a reception at their home. Mrs. Curtis Denton poured punch and Mrs. Ralph McKay served wedding cake.

Curator Visits; Remarks on New Developments

Jacksonville — Earle E. Patterson, curator of the Oregon Historical society in Portland renewed old friendships here last week. The curator was here several years ago when the Jacksonville Museum objects were moved from the old US hotel to the present location in the former Jackson county courthouse.

He remarked on improvements made, the added displays in the Museum and the development of the yard since his last visit.

Mr. Patterson's mother, Mrs. Idella Armstrong Patterson, was born in 1880 in Jacksonville. She was married in 1880 in the pioneer Methodist church when the Rev. M. A. Williams was pastor.

Mr. Patterson was a houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Noble, Jacksonville. Mrs. Noble was curator of the Museum when it was located in the US hotel. Miss Mary Hanley is the present curator.

Power of Red Cross Is Cited at Local Meeting

"There are many men who are alive today only through the benefit of the Red Cross," Brig. Gen. Curtis T. Beecher, USMC Ret., told members of the Jackson county chapter of Red Cross at the chapter's 38th annual meeting in the Rogue Valley Country club July 14.

General Beecher, who spent much of World War II as a prisoner of war after his capture on Corregidor by the Japanese, credited Red Cross care for the salvation of countless American prisoners' lives. Red Cross food packages, so few arriving that two men lived on a package for two weeks, were almost the only sustenance, he said.

The mighty power which the Red Cross derives from its volunteers—who number 1,825,000, ten times as many as paid workers—was also discussed by General Beecher. If Red Cross volunteers were paid at the minimum wage rate, he said, their total salary would amount to over four billion dollars annually.

Even with such a force of volunteer workers, General Beecher declared, the Red Cross needs more. Its chief problem, he declared, is a constant gap between community resources and community needs.

The speaker, who has since retired from the U. S. Marine corps to Eugene and now devotes his time privately to Red Cross work, was introduced by Mrs. Eugene Thorndike, chairman.

After General Beecher's speech, newly elected Red Cross chapter board members were announced. They are Mrs. Edward F. Bolt, Mrs. W. H. Hampton, Mrs. Robert Keeney, Mrs. Margaret Burch, Miss Claire Hanley, Dr. M. D. McGeary, Manville M. Heisel, R. W. Gray, Leonard B. Mayfield, Foster L. Hibbard and Sidney E. Ainsworth.

Mrs. Frank Fairweather of the nominating committee submitted the following nominations: chairman, Eugene Thorndike; first vice-chairman, Dr. Elmo Stevenson; second vice-chairman, Elliott Becken; third vice-chairman, John S. Day; secretary, Mrs. W. E. Thomas; and treasurer, Ray Sorenson.

Committee heads, presented by chairman of volunteer services Mrs. John S. Day, distributed awards for a total of over 14,000 volunteer service hours in the past year. Committee heads are Mrs. Fairweather, home service; Mrs. W. E. Thomas, social welfare aides; Mrs. R. G. Bardwell, Grey Ladies (Camp White); Mrs. C. Reese Braley, hospital service; Mrs. Eugene Orr, motor service; Mrs. J. W. Burba, blood program; Mrs. C. Welden Kline, staff aides; Mrs. T. R. Florey, home nursing; Mrs. Thomas Emmens, nurses' aides; Mrs. C. H. Paske, production; Leroy Williams, first aid; Dr. William H. Roberts, water safety; Seth Bullis, public relations and disaster; and Manville Heisel, fund raising.

Other officers installed were Donna Faye Thompson, senior vice-commander; Jo Carol Grissom, junior vice-commander; Dorie Mae Grissom, chaplain; Sharon Simmons, treasurer; Gloria Jean Thompson, adjutant; Cynthia Simmons, patriotic instructor; and Paulette Simmons, sergeant-at-arms.

Mrs. Simmons presented a membership pin from the senior auxiliary to her daughter, Sharon, retiring junior commander. The juniors were given sashes made by Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Richard Simmons.

Mrs. Clifton Heeter, commander of the past commanders, presided over a business meeting. In honor of her birthday she was given a surprise handkerchief shower. Gifts were given to last year's secret pals, and secret pal names were drawn for the coming year.

Auditing committee members appointed by Mrs. Heeter were Mrs. Bert Hickman, Mrs. Ed Neff, and Mrs. Cassman.

The juniors will meet at a later date in July for a picnic in Hawthorne park and the past commanders will meet with Mrs. Elaine Wolfe, 750 Queens drive, August 1 at 8 p.m.

Visitors and guests present were Mrs. Richard Simmons, Mrs. Harry George Sr., Mrs. Harry George Jr., Mrs. Hatfield, Connie Dunnagan and Kay Kent.
