TEMPERANCE AND CRAPULENCE

Adults who smoke temperately or moderately seldom if ever suffer serious ill effects, except that victims of such effects or excessive or crapulent smoking as angina pectoris, angitis obliterans (Buerger's disease) or duodenal ulcer complex seem to have a relapse soon after they resume smoking even just occasionally.

No, of course I don't pretend to know that excessive smoking causes any of the maladies mentioned. I merely accept the prevailing opinion of medical authorities.

At present a question of paramount interest is whether smoking causes or contributes to development of cancer of the lungs, bronchi or larynx (voice box).

In my opinion it is doubtful whether smoking causes or contributes to development of cancer. I think my opinion weighs as much as the opinion of any other doctor in regard to the relation of smoking to cancer, since no one knows the cause of cancer.

The most convincing evidence I have seen is the immediate recurrence of symptoms in cases of angina, Buerger's disease or duodenal ulcer complex when patients who have obtained great relief by quitting resume smoking even just occasionally. Many physicians have observed the same thing.

The "duodenal ulcer complex" I just mentioned is a group of symptoms which suggest peptic or duodenal ulcer—all the usual symptoms of ulcer except positive X-ray findings.

According to some physicians with great experience some victims of thrombo-angiitis obliterans (Buerger's disease) have never smoked at all. This doesn't prove that crapulent or excessive smoking is not the most important causative factor, nor does it prove the person who has the disease or one who is training

July 30 Adjournment Of Congress Doubled

Washington (U.P.)—Congress enters the legislative horse-draw stretch this week with much doubt that it will meet its July 30 adjournment date. Some leaders say Aug. 15 is the more likely target.

When the House convenes Monday it was to have before it two controversial measures—liberalization of social security benefits and raising of the national minimum wage from the present 75 cents an hour to 90 cents or $1.

Among other measures behind the House legislative dam are President Eisenhower's federal highway building program, atomic merchant ships, free Salk polio vaccine, public housing, federal aid to schools, changes in the refugee admission law, and exemption of natural gas

Gen. Taylor Urges Strong Ground Forces

Quantico Marine Base, Va.—(U.P.)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, new Army Chief of Staff, said Saturday the way to avoid a "disastrous big war" is to maintain ground forces strong enough "to deter or to win the small wars."

Making the first major presentation of his strategic views before the annual conference of defense leaders here, he pictured a modern, mobile army as the kind of military force that can check Communist aggression without plunging the world into all-out atomic and hydrogen warfare.

While he did not directly criticize Administration cuts in Army manpower, Taylor indicated he does not subscribe to the thesis that this country should place primary defense reliance on a capacity for "massive retaliation" with air power and atomic weapons.

This could very easily be the beginning of a new expression "Put that in your smoke and pipe it."

Los Angeles is working on a system of conduits to remove all the smoke and dump it over the Oregon border.
