Oklahoma Picnic In Grants Pass Attended by 500

About 500 former Oklahomans attended the annual Oklahoma picnic held July 10 at the Cavemen's park in Grants Pass. Six southern Oregon counties were represented.

Edgar Renfrow, Camp White, was re-elected president during a business meeting. James "Tex" Funston, Medford, was elected vice-president and Mrs. Neva Flood, Medford, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Barbecued beef and beverages were served by the association, and a queen's contest netted funds for a similar menu for next summer's picnic.

Contests and games provided diversion, these including an old fiddler's contest, sack races, bubble gum blowing contest and an egg-throwing contest.

Eleven musicians played from time to time during the day and ended the program with a "jam session."

Next year's picnic will be the second Sunday in July at the Grants Pass park.

How to Dry Clothes In Bathroom in Style

New York — (U.P.) — Traditionally nothing annoys a husband more than a woman's wash cluttering up the bathroom. But now, when clothes must dry, at least the drying can be done in style.

One good out-of-the-way drying rack can be attached to the wall above the tub, with bars spreading out to let the excess water drip into the tub. This can take care of a sizeable amount of personal wash and also is handy for baby clothes which always are in and out of suds.

New style towel racks also add a touch of style to the bathroom. The big chrome or plastic rings which attach to walls are excellent for stockings or small lingerie. One rack is made of wrought iron, with the part attached to the wall shaped like a musical staff. Outside "notes" provide hanging space.

'Steno Spread' Is Constant Problem

St. Louis — (U.P.) — If you want to know secretaries' greatest secret worry, it's how to avoid the dreaded "stenographer spread."

Four hundred young women took the day off for an informative workshop that included expert advice on every subject from personality to how to get ahead.

But the hit of the day was an illustrated lecture by Prof. W. C. Eberhardt, director of physical education at St. Louis university, on how to keep the tummy in and the chest out — without looking silly.

A trim young housewife demonstrated the posture-improving exercises he described.

When the speech was ended he placed pamphlets explaining the exercises on the speaker's table. There was a short pause — then tall, short, slim and stout secretaries made a rush for the table.

Try starching men's handkerchiefs on the corners only. You will find they stay neater when tucked in a jacket pocket.

County Fair Prizes Often Too Prized

Elkhorn, Wis. — (U.P.) — Some women consider a cooking or other prize at the county fair so valuable they'll resort to skullduggery for a blue ribbon.

Mrs. Priscilla Hargrave, home agent for Walworth county, says sometimes a contestant is so anxious for honors she will go to all lengths.

Take the case of the canned pears. One woman sent an exhibit to a county fair that looked too professional to be true. A check showed the eager housewife had bought the canned pears at a store and transferred them to her own cans for the contest. She probably would have won if the judges hadn't noticed the "boughten" quality of her entry.

Many of the cheaters, unfortunately, do win prizes at fairs. Mrs. Hargrave says there are countless cases of women who have purchased vegetables and other items and entered them as their own. The cheaters are not always detected.

Other violators pick up prizes with somebody else's handiwork. Mrs. Hargrave recalls one purse that won a prize. It had been given to a girl by a friend, who entered an identical purse of a different color. The girl who made both purses didn't win a thing, apparently because the judges didn't go for the color she submitted.

Students' Wives Want To Learn Too

Columbia, Mo. — (U.P.) — Mange and worms don't ordinarily hold much interest for young student wives, but Mrs. Ed F. Ebert says her weekly classes on animal ailments have become a big success with the girls.

Mrs. Ebert is the wife of the head of Missouri University's School of Veterinary Medicine. As such she was asked a few years ago to show the wives of senior students something about what their husbands are studying.

She obliged by offering a small group some instructions in handling the doctor his instruments and bookkeeping.

The wives showed such an interest in learning what could go wrong with an animal's health that Mrs. Ebert's night course advanced to laboratory techniques, such as administering anesthetic to a puppy and surgical procedure.

The class is strictly voluntary, with no credits given from the university. But Mrs. Ebert, who was a practicing laboratory technician for four years before she married, says attendance is almost 100 per cent.

Phoenix — Women's association of Phoenix Presbyterian church will meet at the church Thursday, July 21, at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. C. E. Stothers will lead devotions, which will be a continuation of the study of Hebrews.

Luncheon will be served at noon by Mesdames Mervin Williams, Roscoe Owens, J. O. N. Poling and H. L. Root.

All women of the association and friends are invited to attend. A nursery for children will be provided.

The discussion club of Phoenix Presbyterian church will meet Sunday, July 31, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Owens. The meeting was originally set for July 24 at the church.

In spite of cool weather, attendance at the ice cream social held on the church lawn last Saturday was gratifying. Tables were set on the lawn, which was lighted with equipment loaned by Phoenix Gun club. Fifteen gallons of homemade ice cream was served with homemade pie and cake.

SPRAY CUTS RUG SOIL.
New York — (U.P.) — Household dirt has another enemy — a liquid spray which helps to keep rugs clean. The product, developed by a carpet manufacturer, is supposed to form a protective film which resists soil. The spray, which provides a protective coating for six months, is non-toxic, non-flammable and odorless. (Dellay, Art-loom Carpet Co.)
